Standpatters in the Senate Will Suffer Because Leader Called Giving of Figures "Impertinent."

WAS RESULT OF TRICKERY

Statement Issued by Secretary MacVeagh Also Proves Hard Blow to Leader from Rhode Island.

BY RAYMOND.

Washington, D. C., June 1.—[Special.]—Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island is a good deal older man today than he was when he reported the tariff bill to the committee on finance. He has been hammered all along the line, gently by Democrats and harshly by the insurgent Republicans.

Always genial, a charming gentleman, an intellectual giant, who was seldom in the habit of losing his temper, Mr. Aldrich has shown the effects of the tariff strain by unusual fits of petulance, culminating in something which is near to an insult to a foreign government.

He has denounced the senators of his own party with a great deal more vehemence than he has ever attacked his supposed political opponents, and the whole thing has culminated in an extraordinary suppression of a document provided by a foreign government at the request of our own state department.

Coupled with this attempted suppression, there has been trickery of the worst sort, and the high tariff maniacs have suffered more because of the German statement—and that was slipped into the senate by Secretary MacVeagh—than through any other specific cause.

Cotton to Show His Power.

At last the cotton schedule has been reached and the great fight of the session is on. When it is over, but not until then, the country will have a chance to find out just how strong Mr. Aldrich is. The chances are that he has a good working majority for anything he wants to get into the bill. If he seems to surrender or to be defeated now and then, it is more than likely that the astute leader from Rhode Island foresaw it all, and made a fight which he knew would be a losing one merely to give his opponents something to do.

The four schedules which include all the textile fabrics are the especial pride of Mr. Aldrich; what he does not know about their details is not worth the knowing, and he has in previous years intentionally woven a complicated web which cannot be fully understood by any one who is not pretty well acquainted with the details of textile manufacturing.

When Mr. Taft laid down the general principle, which was best expressed in the Ohio platform, which he wrote himself, that the measure of protection should be merely the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad, with a reasonable profit for the manufacturer, he wrote a theory to which all Republicans subscribed, but which none of the leaders, and least of all Mr. Aldrich, are willing to concede as having anything to do with the framing of the tariff bill.

No Figures Are Produced.

There have been at no time during the tariff debate this year any figures produced by the ways and means committee of the house or the finance committee of the senate to establish that difference in cost. There are no tables accessible to the members of congress of recent date which really show the labor cost of any particular article. There are long winded statements made in the tariff hearing by the manufacturers who are personally interested in the securing of a high tariff for their product, but the construction of the tariff bill has gone on, particularly under Mr. Aldrich, in a secret and suspicious fashion, and there has been no evidence of any desire, to say nothing of any attempt, to fix the reasonable cost of production abroad on anything at all.

The principle laid down by Mr. Taft has been ignored from the outset and the result is that the tariff bill up to the present time contains changes from the present law so small that the Republicans cannot justify by these results the interruption to business which has been produced by the tariff agitation.

Evidently President Taft took it for granted that Mr. Aldrich and his people were really making a tariff bill along the lines which the leader of the party laid down so continuously and so forcibly during the campaign. The incident of the German communication must have opened his eyes. There was in this case an unquestioned effort on the part of the finance committee to deceive the senate and defraud it of information to which it was honestly entitled.

Report Asked from Germany.

The facts in the case have not been developed in the debate on the floor. The truth is that a year or so ago President Roosevelt, believing that the tariff revision was coming this year, made an effort to secure the necessary information on which to determine what schedules should be revised and how far they should be changed. The consular agents at all of the important manufacturing points throughout the world were instructed to obtain, as far as they could, the figures showing the actual cost of production, the percentage devoted to materials and to labor, and the wages paid to the workmen in proportion to their output.

It was believed that with this information in hand, when compared with similar statistics readily gathered in this country, congress would be in a position to make a revision on a fair basis which would protect alike the interests of the manufacturer, the workman, and the consumer. Of course, this was the last thing the standpatters in congress wanted to get.

Scored for Favor Given.

Among the nations which responded was Germany. It sent a reply to the request formally made by Ambassador Hill in the name of the United States. It was this reply to our request which Senator Aldrich, unfortunately, on the floor of the senate declared was "impertinent." He sought in that way, apparently, to make it appear that Germany had volunteered this information for its own ends and was endeavoring in an unworthy way to aid in the construction of a tariff of the United States.

It is true that certain absurd statements were made in the house of representatives in regard to the rate of wages abroad, and

POLITICIANS FIGHT CHARITY REFORM.

Transfer of Funds to the State Treasury and Central Purchasing Board Means Loss of Prestige.

FINAL STAND THURSDAY.

Senator Curtis Then Will Attempt to Force Reconsideration of Vote on Reorganization Bill.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., June 1.—[Special.]—The true inwardness of the attack to be made on Thursday upon the bill providing for the reorganization of the Illinois system of public charities, with a state board of control and a central purchasing agency, and a revolutionizing of the system of accounting, is the core of a terrific last stand battle to be made by the politicians to maintain their grasp on the seventeen state charitable institutions.

The two big items which the politicians fear will rob them of much power are these:

The transfer during the coming two years from the seventeen "local institutions banks" to the state treasury of $6,026,015.

The transfer to one centralized authority of all of the purchasing power now controlled separately by the individual institutions in the institution city.

Of a shade less importance is the practical abolition of the individual board of trustees of the state institutions, which, under the pending bill, become little more than committees of visitors. With the passing of these boards passes the local political patronage of the present trustees and the termination of politics in the state charitable institutions.

Passage Surprise to Politicians.

It is an open secret that the institution treasurers and the institution banks, and likewise the local boards of trustees, learned of the passage of the charities reorganization bill late Saturday night with a tremendous degree of surprise. The legislature surprised itself by accepting the conference report, which is the old Shurtleff-Hill bill of the last session with amendments on the whole satisfactory to everybody except the politicians.

Senator Curtis caught the drift of affairs not long before the dawn of Sunday morning, and during one of the momentary sessions of the senate during the wait for the conference committee's report, changed his vote on the bill and moved a reconsideration. It is this motion which confronts the senate on Thursday, and which, if adopted, will slaughter the reorganization bill.

The rumbles have gathered into a storm of protest on the part of the politicians about to be legislated out of office, and from the institution banks which are on the verge of losing $6,000,000 of safe deposits. A prognostication as to what will happen when this tornado blows into Springfield is a difficult proposition.

Changes That Bill Proposes.

Under the present ancient system of institution management the quarterly allowances for each of the institutions is sent by warrant of the state auditor to each of the local treasurers at the beginning of each quarter. That sum is deposited in the local bank which enjoys the patronage of the local treasurer, usually an officer of the bank. The sum begins a checking account, which until after the beginning of the Deneen administration paid no interest on the daily credit accounts to the state.

Under the bill now awaiting the Curtis motion to reconsider, all of the moneys appropriated for the maintenance and extension of the charitable institutions is kept in the state treasury with the sole exception of the payrolls, and state institution accounts shall be paid by warrant from the state auditor, after actual auditing of the accounts by the auditing department of the forthcoming board of control, which becomes the centralized business management of all the institutions.

The significance of this revolution in the finances of the state institutions is disclosed in the statement that the appropriation for ordinary and extraordinary purposes of the seventeen institutions now included in the appropriation bills from July 1, 1909, to July 1, 1911, aggregate $6,026,015. At one fell swoop, this aggregate sum is separated from the individual institution treasuries, with all that this may imply.

Quarterly Receipts of Institutions.

Upon the basis of the appropriations now in conference or before the governor the quarterly receipts of the institution's treasurer from the state treasury in round figures would be as indicated in the following figures:

Elgin Hospital for Insane	$ 50,000
Kankakee Insane hospital	100,000
Jacksonville [insane hospital]	50,000
Anna [insane hospital]	50,000
Watertown [insane hospital]	45,000
Peoria [insane hospital]	75,000
Chester [asylum for insane criminals]	10,000
Jacksonville [school for deaf]	30,000
Jacksonville [school for blind]	15,000
Industrial School for Blind, Chicago	6,500
Lincoln Asylum for Feeble Minded	50,000
Soldiers and Sailors' home, Quincy	50,000
Soldiers' Orphans' home, Normal	16,500
Soldiers' Widows' home, Wilmington	5,000
Eye and Ear infirmary, Chicago	12,500
Geneva School for Girls	20,000
St. Charles School for Boys	23,000

The provisions of the bill now half throttled require that these sums of money shall be disbursed directly from the office of the state treasurer after the individual accounts have been audited under the direction of the board of control.

Moneys Held in the Banks.

At the close of business on March 31, 1909, the end of the quarterly period with the state institutions, and prior to receiving the new installment of state funds from the state treasury, the cash accounts of the state institutions in the local bank where its funds were kept was as follows:

Elgin	$ 18,977.41
Kankakee	23,711.06
Jacksonville (insane)	4,553.94
Anna	14,864.59
Watertown	42,976.81
Bartonville	30,519.09
Chester	4,545.27

PLANS LONG REST QUEST

J. Raglan Patchmore, Apostle of Repose, Will Have Pleasant Summer.

THINKS YACHTING VULGAR.

Says There Is Danger of Falling in the Water.

Mr. J. Raglan Patchmore, who has side-stepped more work than any man in Chicago, is planning an elaborate summer vacation along similar lines. He expects to make it his masterpiece. Ever since last September he has been thinking about it, to the exclusion of all other forms of exercise. Mr. Patchmore, it may be remembered, is the High Priest of the Anti-Work Cult, and is considered an authority on all matters pertaining to physical inertia.

WISTFUL MR. PATCHMORE

"I won't work," says Mr. Patchmore, "because I don't like to feel that I'm robbing some other man of a chance to earn an honest living."

"I'LL DO A LITTLE CLIMBING."

Last evening a reporter was sent to interview the Rest Magnate on his plans for the summer. Mr. Patchmore was found where last seen, in rapt contemplation of a glass of beer owned by another man. A wistful light glowed in his hopeful but not expectant eyes and his brunette hands trembled with acquisitiveness. It was only by repeated kicks that the polite reporter managed to secure his attention.

GO NORTH FOR THE FISHING.

"Mr. Patchmore," said the sleuth of the press, "I wish to ascertain your plans for the summer. As you are doubtless aware, this is the season when people are preparing to seek nepenthe from the carking cares of toil. They will court repose on sunny hill and shady dale; by wind-swept sands and in the murmuring forest fastness. Naturally any expression of opinion by an expert in leisure, such as you are known by the police to be, will be eagerly welcomed. How about it?"

"I'LL TAKE A FLIGHT NOW AND THEN."

Mr. Patchmore idly flicked the ashes from an imaginary cigar and gazed with penetrating directness at a perfecto that peeped indiscreetly from the reporter's pocket.

"Let's sit down," said the Rest King, eagerly following his suggestion and at the same time blowing clouds of smoke through the jungle that raged in luxuriant rankness on his sub-maxillary.

ROUGHING IT UP IN THE BEAR COUNTRY.

"Well," said Mr. Patchmore, "I have planned a very pleasant summer. I shall expect to go north for the fishing and may also have an outing up in the bear country. Then there will be numerous jolly little week-end house parties in various parts of the country and perhaps I'll do a little climbing. Ordinarily I don't care much for the mountains, but the summer would hardly be complete without a little climbing. Of course I'll have to do a little bathing, if the worst come to the worst, but I am hoping nothing so serious will occur."

"I SUPPOSE I'LL HAVE TO DO A LITTLE BATHING."

"Do you plan any yachting, Mr. P.?" queried the reporter suavely.

"Oh, I think not," answered Patchmore; "yachting is getting to be deuced common. I'd like to connect with a schooner now and then, but yachting is not attractive to me. There is always danger of falling in the water."

"SOME JOLLY LITTLE WEEK-END HOUSE PARTIES."

"How about aeroplaning?"

"Oh, I suppose I'll take a few flights, just as the whim seizes some one; but I'm uncertain about it. You'll have to excuse me now," suddenly exclaimed Mr. Patchmore, as his eagle eye lighted upon a vagrant havana dropped by a customer who had just started a fresh one. The interview was over.

LATEST PORTRAIT OF MR. PATCHMORE. (BY SERGANT.)

CLEMINSON ADMITS HE LIED

Confesses Story of Burglars Chloroforming His Wife Was Fake

POLICE SEEK AN AFFINITY.

Woman Visits Prisoner, Who Is Formally Charged with Murder.

"The story of my wife and I being chloroformed by burglars is a fake. I invented it and feigned illness to save the honor of my children."

This astonishing admission from the lips of the now cheerful Dr. Haldane Cleminson is taken by the police as the forerunner of a further confession as to how his wife met her death at the family residence, 4188 Wayne avenue, Rogers Park, early Sunday morning.

Dr. Cleminson made the admission after a two hours' sweating by Capt. Thomas C. Kane, and later reiterated it in the presence of newspaper men. He made no direct statement, but cast insinuations that his wife committed suicide. Capt. Kane laughed at this suggestion and repeated that he believed Cleminson was guilty of murder. The captain promised interesting developments for today.

The motive—the one thing that seemed to have been missing—is now believed to be asserting itself, and the police declare it will develop into an "affinity." Cleminson talked cheerfully about everything except this supposed affinity, and when names were mentioned he remarked:

"Please don't bring her in."

Formally Charged with Murder.

His statement to Capt. Kane that he "felt much better since this burden has been lifted" from his mind was borne out by his general demeanor. He smiled continuously during the entire interview—the first smiles that have spread over his countenance since he was taken in custody Sunday morning. A warrant charging him with murder was sworn out before Municipal Judge Hugh Stewart by Detective Levi Wood.

Interest in the case now centers around a Mrs. J. M. Berg. Detectives from the Sheffield avenue police station learned that Dr. Cleminson took a young woman giving that name to the Chicago Union hospital on the night of May 20 and himself performed what is commonly called a "second" operation on her, and escorted her away from the hospital on the afternoon of May 26.

On May 22 and on May 25 Dr. Cleminson, according to statements of attaches of the hospital, and according to a bill given to the police for collection from "Griffin, the Plaza Florist," 648 North Clark street, sent her a dozen and one-half of carnations, costing altogether $2.80. With this bill as a clew the detectives began an investigation at the hospital, and the books there showed that "Mrs. J. M. Berg" was 21 years old and resided at 6520 Sangamon street. Further investigation disclosed that no such woman lives at that address.

Woman Calls on Prisoner.

The woman is described as fair of complexion, tall, and of fine form. The same description fits a woman Dr. Cleminson is supposed to have taken to the States restaurant on several occasions, and would also do for a young woman who called with Dr. W. D. Fischer, Dr. Cleminson's partner, to see the prisoner last night. Capt. Kane was told that the woman the prisoner took to the States restaurant was a nurse. The woman who called at the station last night wore a blue and white striped dress that much resembled the costume of a nurse.

The caller refused to tell the captain her name or address, declared she never heard of Mrs. Berg, and when pressed for her name merely remarked, "O, it's fictitious." She promised to call again today. The police did not permit either her or Dr. Fischer to see the prisoner. When Dr. Fischer was asked the name of the young woman who accompanied him he replied:

"She is our assistant."

The cheerfulness of Dr. Cleminson first began to assert itself when he stepped out of the automobile on returning from his wife's funeral. He had been several hours in the company of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Cleminson, 1118 Morse avenue, who first made the suggestion that the wife was probably responsible for her own death in that she might have got the wrong medicine from his chest.

Loath to View Dead Wife.

Dr. Cleminson showed an aversion to entering the house where his dead wife lay and showed the same aversion to looking upon the corpse. Detectives George Smith and George McGowan, who accompanied him to the funeral, say. He didn't shed a tear in the house or at the grave, but leaned heavily upon the arms of the detectives as the pall bearers lowered the corpse to its last resting place.

He hesitated fully two minutes before alighting from the automobile which conveyed him to his residence and remarked: "I don't know whether I ought to go in or not." The detectives urged him, and he looked neither to the right nor left when he entered the parlor where the dead woman lay.

"Have you no conscience? Don't you have any regard for your children?" asked Detective Zeis.

"Yes, and it's for their sake that I have remained silent. I will talk after the funeral," he said.

When the detectives again questioned him he pleaded:

"Please let me alone. I am too nervous," and hastened to his automobile.

Detectives Nag Prisoner.

Detectives Frank Zeis, William Rose, and Frank Parker, who had been watching the prisoner closely and kept nagging him with questions while the services were going on, felt sure that Cleminson was on the verge of a breakdown and would "confess" before the night was over. In the afternoon Cleminson told them "I will talk soon," despite the warnings of his lawyer to keep a still tongue.

He reached the police station on his return from the funeral shortly after 7 o'clock, and an hour later he had finished his dinner and was enjoying a cigaret. He tripped lightly from behind the bars into the captain's private office and greeted him with a warm handshake.

Admits Burglar Story Was Fake.

"What's the use of trying to put over that burglar story any longer; nobody believes it, and we can prove that your house was not entered by strangers," said the captain.

"Well, I guess you are right," calmly replied the prisoner. "I invented that burglar story. I burned those matches and strewed them over the floor, and turned the drawers upside down, and transferred the jewelry from the proper places to the pocket of my old trousers in the closet. The $50 you could not find was a myth. I didn't have $50."

"Why did you invent the burglar story?" persisted the captain.

"To save the honor of my children," he replied.

After 10 o'clock the captain emerged from his office and gave out this much of the interview, saying:

"I have a confession from him, but that is all I will tell you now. Tomorrow there will be a good story."

To prove his statement, Capt. Kane permitted the reporters to go back to Cleminson's cell, and the prisoner repeated the foregoing.

"Yes, the burglary story is a fake," he said. "My wife was not chloroformed. I assumed my attitude to save the honor of my children. O, it ain't what you boys think it is. You will learn the cause of my wife's death next week."

Seeks to Screen Mrs. Berg.

When it was suggested that the experts who are making a chemical examination of the wife's stomach would not be ready to report until next week, the doctor smiled. When asked if he meant to convey the impression that she had committed suicide, he said:

"Now, I didn't say that."

"But that is the deduction we make," replied a reporter.

"Yes, you are good at that, and you will find that I am not responsible for Norah's death. I thought I was doing the proper thing in giving out the burglar story. I was not chloroformed, and I was not sick, but feigned sickness to give color to the burglar yarn."

SMITH PLEA MET BY NEW CHARGES

Attorneys for Receiver Accuse Former Judge and Banker of Crooked Deals of Many Sorts.

FATE NOW WITH BOARD.

Darrow Rakes Man Who Asks Clemency as Defrauder, Tricky Business Dealer, and Defamer of Dead.

BY C. S. R.

Springfield, Ill., June 1.—[Special.]—From morning until midnight Gov. Deneen, with Charles G. Eckhart and E. A. Snively, members of the state board of pardons, sat today hearing the last pleas of Abner Smith for the clemency which might keep him out of the penitentiary.

The ex-judge and ex-bank president, convicted for conspiracy to wreck the short-lived Bank of America, was in his last ditch fighting feebly to defend himself against the terrific attacks of Attorney Clarence S. Darrow and the more moderate assaults of Edgar L. Masters, both representing the receiver of the ruined institution.

Darrow, in whose theories of society there is no place for prisons and convicts, pushed the old convicted ex-judge and ex-banker inch by inch back against the penitentiary gate.

Fate Now in Board's Hands.

When the governor and the pardon board quit for the night the arguments were in, and on their decision, which is expected within a day or two, depends whether or not Sheriff Strassheim shall take possession of Abner Smith, whose bank came down about his ears four year ago and who has made this long, hard fight to keep out of prison.

The evidence presented by the two attorneys to prove that, not only in the Bank of America, but in other financial transactions, Smith had acted without regard to the losses inflicted on those whose money was intrusted to him, was damaging.

New charges were brought against him, supported by affidavits and copies of court records. His actions as trustee for estates were uncovered, and it was against all this and against a bitter denunciation of him by Mr. Darrow that Smith made his last defense at midnight.

At his first hearing Smith had the sympathies of his "judges"—the three men who have the power to save him in spite of the Supreme court by extending clemency. At that hearing the opposing attorneys were not so relentless in their attack.

Habeas Corpus "Last Hope."

Abner Smith had a better chance to secure freedom three weeks ago than he has tonight. Mr. Darrow, who nearly worked himself into a frenzy in his attack on the ex-judge at the night session of the board, apologized to himself for trying to shove a man into the penitentiary and explained that although he did not believe they should exist and did not believe that men should be sent to them, nevertheless so long as men built them and sent other men to them Smith was one man who should be in one.

The ex-judge, if denied clemency by the board, may make another "last attempt" to secure his freedom by petitioning for a writ of habeas corpus, alleging irregularity in his commitment. The sheriff at the request of the governor is delaying the execution of the mittimus to permit of this unusual plea for mitigation of sentence before any part of the sentence has been served.

Gov. Deneen is convinced the sheriff has lost no authority over the convicted man because of this and the attorneys for the receiver of the bank agree with him.

Smith made one tactical error by producing an affidavit signed by himself on May 13, and stating that the late Helge A. Haugan, then president of the State Bank of Chicago, had advised him to withdraw mortgage notes to the amount of $45,000 from the Bank of America and place them in the State Bank of Chicago to cover certain obligations.

This affidavit, by its date, was made four days before Mr. Haugan died. The president of the State Bank of Chicago was the close personal friend and business adviser of Gov. Deneen.

Says Smith Defames Dead.

Darrow took up this affidavit at the night session of the board. He referred to the intimations made by Smith that Haugan was endeavoring to force the Bank of America to decrease its own assets to protect the State bank, and that he did so because he knew the Bank of America was about to collapse.

"It's my conviction," Darrow shouted, looking down at the huddling figure of Smith, "that this affidavit was not made until Helge A. Haugan was laid away in his grave and until his lips were sealed against the inevitable denial. This man has sought to save himself by defaming a man now dead."

Smith's fingers clutched nervously at the back of his chair, but he made no answer.

"Everybody is wrong in the case," Darrow continued, "except the man who was convicted. Haugan was wrong. He is dead. Luther Laflin Mills was wrong. He defended the prisoner. He is dead. The Supreme court was wrong. We are all wrong. He is innocent.

"He was innocent in taking $30,000 away from the Buxton estate. He was innocent in his manipulation of insurance policies in the Nichols case. He was innocent in the case of poor Mrs. Sarah J. Brown."

Smith Denies the Charges.

"You needn't pity her," Smith replied, shifting about in his chair. "She has $72,000."

"She doesn't think so," Darrow retorted. "Let us hope she has. I don't know how she kept it. I'd like to be lenient to this man, but he has made it impossible. He has never, by so much as lifting his finger, endeavored to help those who have been trying to straighten out the affairs of the bank. We have had nothing but abuse."

"Now, that is not so," Smith protested. "You say these things, but you don't offer proof."

Darrow mentioned the instance in which he demanded that the ex-judge turn over the stock of the bank which he held. Smith angrily denied such a demand had been made. Darrow stood over him for an instant in astonishment and then dropped both hands in hopelessness of further argument.

Gov. Deneen's whole purpose in the case has been to ascertain, if possible, whether Smith lost money in the bank failure or profited financially from it.

The opposing attorneys, representing Receiver Daniel Healy, have intimated constantly and several times have stated flatly their conviction that Smith made money

TWO DROWN IN PARK LAGOON

Man and Wife Sink When Boats Collide in Washington Pool.

OTHERS SAVED BY SWIMMING

Six in Little Pleasure Excursion Which Has Tragic Ending.

Two rowboats bumped together in the Washington park lagoon last night, the collision resulting in the drowning of a husband and wife and narrow escapes for a man and woman who were their guests. The man managed to swim ashore and the woman was pulled into the boat which rammed the other.

The Dead.

O'DONNELL, LOUIS, 30 years old, butcher, Sixty-first street and Lafayette avenue.

O'DONNELL, MRS. JULIA, 26 years old.

The Saved.

M'MAHON, MRS. BESSIE, 25 years old, 6149 Wentworth avenue.

WHITE, WILL, hurried away after swimming out of the lagoon; address unknown.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnell, Mrs. McMahon, John T. Manly of 1406 East Seventy-third street, and Miss Mary Levie, a maid employed at 4263 Drexel boulevard, had spent the evening in the park and there had met a man whose name is believed to be Will White.

Four in One Boat, Two in Other.

About 10 o'clock they decided to go boating on the lagoon and they engaged two boats, inviting the stranger to accompany them.

The O'Donnells, Mrs. McMahon, and the stranger entered one boat and Manly and Miss Levie the other.

They started out in high spirits, but had not been out three minutes, according to park employés who were watching them, before they seemed to be in trouble. Then the two boats collided, the four occupants of one stood up, and it turned over, throwing them into the water.

Mrs. McMahon and the stranger began to swim immediately when they came to the surface, the woman reaching a boat and the stranger making for the dock, not more than fifty feet away.

O'Donnell and his wife sank without a cry.

Nearly every boat in the park was on the lagoon, but no one could find any trace of the man and his wife.

Policemen Dive for Bodies.

Park Policeman Olaf Anderson, who in plain clothes was rowing on the lagoon, heard the cries of the survivors. He threw off his heavy clothing and shoes, and jumped into the water.

At about the same moment the attention of Park Policeman John G. Lunney was attracted. He was on the dock, and he, too, threw off his outer clothing and swam towards the boats.

Both policemen arrived at the scene together, and they at once began diving.

Policeman Lunney found O'Donnell's body about twenty minutes after he sank. Fifteen minutes later Anderson found Mrs. O'Donnell. Both bodies were towed to shore, where attempts at resuscitation were made without success.

The bodies were taken to the undertaking rooms of Clifford & Burke, 5537 Wentworth avenue.

The O'Donnells are survived by a daughter 3 years old. Mrs. O'Donnell's mother, Mrs. Julia Carney, is ill at 5457 Wentworth avenue and the news of her daughter's death was kept from her.

Woman Taken to Hospital.

After Mrs. McMahon was taken from the water she was hurried to the Washington Park hospital. It was found that she was only suffering from chill and shock and she was taken to her residence by relatives who had been summoned.

White is being sought by the police, whose purpose is to establish his identity. While it was said he and Mrs. McMahon were friends of the O'Donnells, the information of the police was that the outing party met the man in the park for the first time.

and their belief that he is not penniless but has funds hidden away.

Part of their motive in pursuing him with such vigor into his "court of last resort," to which he has fled in hope of clemency, is to discover funds which can be applied to the affairs of the wrecked bank.

The governor made several efforts during the day's proceedings to bring the convicted man and his pursuers into a frame of mind in which they could be persuaded to give him the particular information for which he is seeking, but the attempts were futile. The moment Mr. Deneen appeared to be getting down to the facts he wanted away went the ex-judge and the attorneys into a bewildering maze of charges and countercharges, declarations, and denials, and in a wild chase after figures which, when caught and laid before the board, only clouded up the issue again.

Dodges Information on Notes.

One effort was made to pin Smith down on the subject of the money which he took from the bank on notes signed by his domestic servant, Mary Duffey, and secured by second mortgages.

The ex-judge went along smoothly enough for awhile, saying he had drawn out money on two such notes—one for $15,000, secured by second mortgages of a par value of $22,000, and another for $10,000, secured by a second mortgage of $15,000.

The smooth going was broken by a sharp declaration on the part of both Darrow and Masters that even such a heedless, shiftless business man as Smith knew that a second mortgage was valueless unless it could be protected.

"Let's try to get down to the facts," the governor urged. "What did these mortgages bring when they were sold."

"It isn't fair to decide what they were worth from what they brought," Smith broke in hurriedly. "I paid my money for them and bought them at par value. It isn't my fault that they were not handled right by the receiver."

Darrow Proclaims It Fraud.

"It was a fraud on the face of it," Darrow shouted, angrily. "This man takes his hired girl's note and on it draws out of the funds of a bank of which he is president."

"They were secured by mortgages," Smith retorted.

"You knew they were valueless," Darrow cried.

Smith waved his shaking hands to help him make his defense as he said: "These mortgages were taken out of the Colonial Trust and Savings bank and placed in the Bank of America as security for the Duffey notes."

"Yes, and the Colonial Trust was mighty glad to get rid of them," Darrow came back at him.

"That's what you say," protested the badgered judge.

"It's what everybody knows."

Smith endeavored to explain that the Duffey notes and collateral had sold for $9,000.

"I personally lost $12,500," he said, "because of the way in which Mr. Healy, the receiver, sold them to his son's firm."

Darrow retorted that Mr. Healy had regarded them as a dead loss and thought his son was in a bad venture when he bought them.

"That's what Healy says," the ex-judge replied.

"Don't you regard Mr. Healy as honest?" Darrow asked suddenly.

"I am not passing on Mr. Healy's honesty," said Smith.

By this time the governor had put aside his pencil and made no further effort to pin the contestants down to fact.

Charges Concern Several Estates.

The new charges which were brought up against the ex-judge concerned his administration of several estates—the Buxton estate, the Metcalf estate, and the Nichol estate—and concerned the handling of money invested by Mrs. Sarah J. Brown.

Smith, nervous and harried, protested against the bringing up of these cases.

"I admit," he said, "that there is a vein of truth in the statements which are made, but it is overlaid by irresponsible statements and by much that is entirely false. These matters have no place in what is being considered here."

Gov. Deneen ruled that it was the practice of the board of pardons to receive any information tending to reveal the character of the applicant for mitigation of sentence and that in this case the admission of the statements was proper.

Attorney Masters then proceeded to relate facts in connection with the Buxton case and to file papers in connection with it showing that in the District court of Mahaska county, Iowa, B. C. Buxton was divorced from Ethel B. Buxton, who was allowed $30,000 for the support of herself and two minor children

Smith Made Buxton Trustee.

Smith was appointed trustee of Mrs. Buxton and her children, he, according to his own statement, being a friend of the family, and was given possession of the $30,000 to invest it, pay the interest to Mrs. Buxton, and to distribute it when the children arrived of age. He filed a bond of $60,000 and possessed himself of the $30,000. It was the assertion of Mr. Masters that up to the time when Smith applied to the court to be discharged as trustee he had made no report of how the money was invested or what he had done with it. He made this application on Sept. 10, 1906, and was ordered to file a report within thirty days and to give a full account of the trusteeship.

In making the report Smith made an error, which he today pleaded was a mistake in figures, but which the opposing attorneys contended was a complete revelation of the untrustworthiness of his statements regarding his own affairs.

He explained that Mrs. Buxton's money was invested in capital stock of the Cripple Creek Homestead Mining and Reduction company, of the South Haven Traction company, in bonds of the Cripple Creek Homestake company, and in shares of the National Bank of America and in a note of G. F. Sorrow. He credited the estate with seventy shares of the Bank of America stock, value given as $7,000.

Masters Tells of Discrepancies.

Mr. Masters explained to Gov. Deneen and the members of the board that if Smith had bought seventy shares of Bank of America stock for Mrs. Buxton, he had taken out forty-five more shares than he admits to have been issued to himself, and if, as he declared, only thirty-five shares were taken for the Buxton estate, at $200 a share, he still was convicted of having taken ten more shares than the total which he asserts he had of the bank stock.

"Mrs. Buxton and her children, through their counsel, filed objections to this report," Mr. Masters continued, "stating that it was not verified, as required by law, that it did not show the transactions of the trustee, and did not show whether the notes and bonds and stock were good and collectible. The exceptions to this report of Smith were sustained by the court, and the court found that there was due from Smith to Mrs. Buxton and her children the sum of $34,800 and that he had failed to account for the same.

"On May 11, 1907, Smith filed a further report in said case, in which he stated that the Cripple Creek Homestake Mining and Reduction company stock was only worth $750, instead of $7,500 as he had heretofore reported. He also mentioned the Bank of America stock, $7,000, and the note of Sorrow, $5,413.72. He went on to say, in this report, that the Bank of America stock had no market value; that a suit was pending in the Superior court of Cook county in regard to the Bank of America and the stock.

Says Purpose Was Concealed.

"In this connection he stated that this suit was for the purpose of ascertaining how much each stockholder was entitled to from the fund in the receiver's hands, but did not state that this suit was begun for the purpose of canceling the spurious stock which had been issued to him, to Sorrow, and to S. Pierce. He further stated that he paid $14,000 for the Bank of America stock, and admitted that the Cripple Creek Mining company stock and the South Haven Traction company stock had no market value.

"He did not state that he had invested the $30,000 in these stocks, but that he had placed in the trust fund these stocks and the note of Sorrow; that the Cripple Creek stock and the South Haven stock and the Sorrow note were in his hands, but that the Bank of America stock was in the hands of Healy, the receiver, and that he held a receipt for the same.

"Smith, in this report, offered to surrender to the Mahaska County District court the Cripple Creek stock and the South Haven stock and the receipt which he claimed he held for the Bank of America stock that the receiver had taken from him and the note of Sorrow.

Claims Note Proves Fraud.

"The close connection between Sorrow and Smith is not only evidenced by the pooling arrangements already discussed, but by the worthless note furnished by Sorrow to Smith after the failure of the Bank of America to help square Smith for the Buxton fund.

"Exceptions were filed to this report by Mrs. Buxton and her children through their attorneys on the 12th day of October, 1907, and these exceptions were sustained.

"Smith never made any other report and never did account for what he had done with the said sum of $30,000 and never restored it to Mrs. Buxton and her children. Accordingly, the surety on Smith's bond was obliged to pay the indebtedness to Mrs. Buxton and her children and on Feb. 25, 1909, an order was entered in the Mahaska County court finding that Smith was a defaulter in respect to the said fund and finding that it had been paid by his surety and distributing it to Mrs. Buxton and her children."

"And I want to call the attention of the board to the fact," Masters continued energetically, "that Smith included that note of Sorrow's in his statement and said it was secured by Sorrow's shares of Bank of America stock two days after the bank had failed. That action is not open to explanation. He also said that a suit was pending to determine what proportion each shareholder was entitled to out of the fund in the receiver's hands, whereas the suit was brought to cancel his spurious stock."

Smith Denies Wrong Intent.

The ex-judge had been prevailed on with some difficulty to permit the attorney to complete his statement regarding the case before he undertook to explain it. His impulse was to interrupt at every statement, and Gov. Deneen had to request that he and Mr. Masters allow each other the right of way in turn.

When Smith was permitted to explain he was nervous and disturbed. He said there was a smattering of truth in the charges, but that they had been presented in a manner calculated to hide or distort the whole truth.

"The estate became involved in my personal affairs," he said, "and of course with the bank failure I was not able to make a showing. I may have been careless. I do not deny that, seeing what has been the outcome. I deny any intent to do wrong, however. The securities I bought were worth face value when I bought them. They were not when I made my report to the court.

"In my business I mixed up my securities and mortgages. I admit this was careless, but it seemed to me to be without harm, and in selling mortgages it was well to have them all together. Then a man buying a mortgage could take the one he wanted. He could buy what he liked. When the court settled the Buxton estate it took a short cut to getting the money back and got it on my bond. Mrs. Buxton's attorneys did not want to wait for me to make good, and now I suppose my bonding company expects me to repay it."

Masters Discusses Brown Case.

The ex-judge conducted himself during this explanation as if he felt himself at a disadvantage and the attorneys considered his defense so incomplete an explanation that they allowed it to go without comment.

Mr. Masters, proceeding with the presentation of cases against Smith's financial dealings and against his character, came to that of Mrs. Sarah J. Brown. The convicted man had been attorney for Charles F. Brown, her husband, who died leaving her an estate of about $40,000. Masters read a letter from Smith to Mrs. Brown, in which the ex-judge asked the widow to bring him mortgages amounting in the aggregate to $5,400.

"In December, 1905," the attorney said, "she delivered them to him. He sold them and converted the proceeds to his own use. Later he requested her to buy some of the stock of the Bank of America. She refused to do so. She said she did not know anything of bank stock as an investment. Smith said many of his friends in the east were taking it and that he had bought $3,000 of it for his wife, but Mrs. Brown refused to buy. Finally Smith gave her his note for the amount of the proceeds from the sale of her mortgages. The only thing he ever paid on that was $40.

"Bought Smith Servant's Notes."

"Mrs. Brown's estate was dissipated in mortgages of doubtful value, and at different times she has held large amounts of notes signed by Mrs. Duffey, whom Smith represented to Mrs. Brown as being a woman of great wealth, while in fact she was at that time engaged in doing housework in Smith's family and signing notes for him with which to carry on his frenzied financial transactions."

The ex-judge again appeared in difficulty as he endeavored to explain this transaction. He denied he ever had represented Mary Duffey, his servant, as a "woman of great wealth."

"Mary Duffey worked in our family for twenty-two years," he said. "She was one of the finest characters that ever lived. She was a Roman Catholic and she went to early morning mass regularly. I foresaw some embarrassments in carrying all my business in my own name and much of it—much of it in the case of Mrs. Brown and in the Buxton estate—was carried in Mary Duffey's name. The attorneys constantly show their unfamiliarity with business transactions and are surprised at a common expedient, but it is their plain intent to present everything in the most unfavorable light in which it can be made to appear for me. In this case, as in the other, the complete collapse of my personal affairs in the bank failure made it impossible for me to redeem my obligations."

Metcalf Estate Taken Up.

Masters made a statement of the Metcalf estate in which Abner Smith was appointed trustee with over $72,000 in mortgages to distribute to the devisees mentioned in the will of Riley Burdette. In December, 1907, Edwin C. Day was appointed trustee in Smith's stead, and the latter was ordered by Judge Barnes to file an inventory of the estate and to make a final accounting in thirty days.

"The records of the Superior court," the attorney continued, "show that Smith never complied with this order, and it is estimated that the estate has lost over $40,000 as the result of Smith's actions while trustee."

The attorney also presented the facts in the Nicol estate and filed with the board an affidavit made by Ralph R. Bradley substantiating them. He asserted Smith had obtained the sum of $8,000 while acting as trustee for Jeanette J. Nichol, the daughter of a former captain in the Chicago fire department, and loaned it to himself, securing it by pledging stock of the Knickerbocker Ice company.

"Later," said Masters, "Smith changed the security for this money and took instead two $1,000 investment insurance bonds of the Life Indemnity and Investment company and one $5,000 policy of the Provident Savings Life Assurance company of New York.

Smith Gave Prior Claims.

"On these bonds Smith already had borrowed from the insurance company itself about $1,800, and about the same amount against the Provident policy, both being prior claims to any which Miss Nichol had as security.

"She managed to secure about $180 on the National Life policy, but was obliged to drop the Provident policy, owing to the high premium necessary to carry it. Smith, to indemnify Miss Nichol, turned over 320 acres of land in Kansas, a deed to a lot in Glen Ellyn, his equity in certain mortgages deposited with the State Bank of Chicago, and a worthless quitclaim deed to any equity which he might have to property located in Chicago.

"After doing this he filed papers against all the lands which he had deeded for the benefit of Miss Nichol, thus creating a cloud in his favor against the land, and allowing one of his creditors to obtain judgment against it."

Explanation Given by Smith.

Smith again made the best attempt at explanation which he could. He said he had been trustee for the two Nichol girls, and that, in the case of the sister of Jeanette, he had discharged his obligations satisfactorily, but that in her case the policies referred to were taken away, and that he thought they had been lost.

This accounted, he said, for the fact that he secured loans for himself on the insurance which had been given Miss Nichol as security. Then he returned to the explanation that any losses might be traced back to the disappearance of his funds in the bank failure.

By this time Gov. Deneen, who had fallen half asleep several times from physical and mental weariness, shook himself together and announced abruptly that the case would be laid over until night.

EXPECT ASSEMBLY TO END THURSDAY

Legislative Leaders Agree on Program Prior to Sine Die Adjournment.

HITCH ON WATERWAY.

House Will Refuse to Recede on Measure; Charitables' Appropriations Assured.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., June 1.—[Special.]—The legislature thinks it will be through for good and all on Thursday night. The legislature, for the purposes herein mentioned, is Speaker Edward D. Shurtleff, representing the house organization.

Following the sing-sing swoop into Springfield this morning of Senator Elect William Lorimer and a ten hour conference between the senator elect and the speaker, this tentative program is in sight for what is billed as positively the last appearance of the forty-sixth general assembly, one day only, etc.:

Agreement between senate and house on the deep waterway legislation with the Lorimer bill as the only compromise in sight or possible.

Agreement between senate and house on the charitables appropriation bills inserting the $335,000 item, which is necessary for the sustenance of Dunning during the coming biennium. No reconsideration of the charities reorganization bill which is now pending upon motion of Senator Curtis in the senate.

Nothing doing on the proposition to inject legislative nitroglycerin into the anti-local option bill.

Represents House Views.

It is needless to add that this program is the handiwork of the powers that were in Springfield this morning and represents particularly the views of the situation from the standpoint of the house. There are no senators in our midst and what Senator Curtis, Senator Jandus, Senator Hurburgh, and others who may be vitally interested in one or all of the number on the program think is not of record.

From sources intimately friendly to the administration and to the prevailing element in the senate it is learned that much doubt exists as to an agreement upon the waterways bill. A sufficient prediction might be that desperate efforts are necessary to force through the Lorimer plan when it is put up to the senate.

The Dunning appropriation step will be agreed to in the senate providing the searching party now on the job finds enough surplus revenue coming from the new corporations act and the fresh inheritance tax bill to warrant the state in taking a chance at granting the $335,000 to the Cook county institution. Administration allies see little chance of the Curtis reconsideration motion getting through Thursday unless the united force of the individual institution treasurers and the combined pressure of the separate institution boards of trustees is applied at the maximum.

Doubt as to Local Option.

As to local option, everybody here prefers to hear from Senator Jandus before offering any hints as to what will certainly happen, and it depends upon what the liquor interests actually may have accomplished since the Sunday morning adjournment before it can be surely known what will happen to the chopping up of the existing local option statute.

Senator-elect Lorimer came to the state capital this morning and tonight he is back in Chicago. Tomorrow he will be here once again to remain until the session is finally and officially over. He hurried from the train to breakfast and thence directly to a conference with Speaker Shurtleff.

Following this conference and the departure of the senator-elect for Chicago came the rather positive statement from the speaker's room that Thursday will record the death of the general assembly and the net results of the little hangover altogether satisfactory to the house organization. It is almost certain that there will be no deep waterway bill unless it is the house bill intact.

Charities Bill Stands Good Show.

The possibility of agreement upon the charitables appropriations bill with the Dunning angle included is believed to be excellent. From inside sources it is learned that enough additional revenue appears to be on its way to the state treasury to amply authorize the legislature to agree to the demand of Representative Shanahan and the house conferees that the item will be inserted in the conference bill.

There was more talk today of a recess until October, but this was considerably frowned upon by Speaker Shurtleff, who thinks that the legislature will adjourn sine die some time Thursday or early Friday morning.

The Supreme court began its June term this afternoon. If it has a decision on the direct primary law it may hand it down at any moment. Practical politicians believe that a decision under any circumstances will not be delivered before the judicial election of next Monday. Relying upon this theory, the legislative leaders, all of them, are disposed to quit at the earliest possible moment. They don't want a dead primary statute left upon the doorstep of a living general assembly.

END OF POLISH CONVENTION.

Jeweled Badge Is Presented to the Rev. Francis Gordon, Founder of the Maciers Polska.

The sixth annual convention of the Maciers Polska, an organization of Polish young men founded by the Rev. Francis Gordon of St. Stanislaus church, closed last night with a banquet in the school hall of St. Mary of the Angels' church. Resolutions were adopted pledging the association to support the Catholic Church Extension society, condemning socialism, and protesting against Russian and German tyranny in Poland. An elaborate jeweled badge was presented to Father Gordon. Joseph Joswiakowski, president of the society, presided.

Some Banks Pay No Interest.

On some of these local accounts interest is paid to the state by the local depositories. Some of them pay no interest at all. None of them paid interest to the state until after Gov. Deneen's administration was well on its way. It is declared that it was a tooth pulling job to get some of them to pay interest even after the vogue had been started.

The total amount of interest on daily accounts, at rates ranging from 1½ per cent to 2½ per cent, since the administration has attempted to secure interest on daily balances from the charitable depositories, is $10,025.14.

It has been an open secret always in Illinois politics that in most of the institutional counties and senatorial districts, the balance of power between two party factions or between party and party has been held or lost through the influence of the local institution treasuries, and the placing of the institution business in the purchase of supplies. It is the slicing off of this political influence, together with the impending loss of institution accounts, which is believed in Springfield to be largely responsible for the impending attack upon the reorganization bill.

List of Local Treasurers.

The local treasurers of the seventeen charitable institutions and the banks with which they have transacted their business recently are included in the following list:

Elgin Insane—D. E. Wood, Elgin National bank.

Kankakee Insane—C. E. Holt, First National bank, Kankakee.

Jacksonville Insane—John R. Robertson, Jacksonville National bank.

Anna Insane—John B. Jackson, Anna National bank.

Watertown Insane—C. W. Lundahl, People's Savings Bank and Trust company, Moline.

Bartonville Insane—B. P. Schenck, German-American National bank, Pekin.

Chester Asylum for Insane Criminals—L. H. Glister, Bank of Chester.

Jacksonville Deaf—George L. Merrill, Dunlap, Russel & Co.

Jacksonville Blind—C. S. Black, F. G. Farrell & Co.

Chicago Industrial—Lawrence Nelson, Western Trust and Savings bank.

Lincoln Feeble Minded—John S. Haller, four Lincoln banks.

Quincy Soldiers and Sailors—E. H. Osborn, Ricker National bank and Mercantile Trust and Savings bank.

Normal Soldiers' Orphans—J. O. Wilson, People's bank, Bloomington.

Wilmington Soldiers' Widows—A. J. McIntyre, First National bank, Wilmington.

Chicago Eye and Ear—Arthur B. Fleager, Continental National bank.

Geneva School for Girls—Charles P. Field, Geneva State bank.

St. Charles School for Boys—Helge A. Haughan, deceased, State Bank of Chicago.

Flock of Objectors Expected.

The expectation in the state capital is that Thursday will see a convocation of representatives of all the institution cities here to protest against the cutting off of the institution deposits from the local banks and drastic changes in the provisions of the pending bill which compels centralized authority of purchasing power.

Senator Curtis represents the Kankakee district in the senate. He is the mover of the motion to reconsider the bill vote by which the conference report was adopted on Saturday night.

Senator Stewart represents the district in which is Kane county and in which are three of the charitable institutions, the Elgin Insane hospital, the Geneva School for Girls, and the St. Charles School for Boys.

Senator Logan Hay of Springfield is in the senate for the Sangamon-Morgan county district, with three big institutions, the Central Hospital for the Insane, the School for the Deaf and Dumb, and the School for the Blind, all at Jacksonville.

The Anna Insane hospital is in the district represented by Senator Potter of Marion. The Chester Hospital for Insane Criminals is in Senator McElvain's district. Senator Landee hails from the Watertown Insane hospital district, and Senator John Dailey of Peoria is from that in which is the General Hospital for the Insane at Bartonville. The Lincoln Asylum for the Feeble Minded lies in Senator Henson's district. The Soldiers' Orphans' home at Normal is in Senator Funk's, the Soldiers' Widows' home at Wilmington is in Senator Barr's.

Added to all this is the certainty that if the bill gets through and is approved by the governor every position in the charitable service of the state, including every institution position, with the sole exception of the superintendent's, and all of the clerical help in the state board of charities and the new board of control is under complete civil service, under terms more stringent than the present civil service laws.

SHIPPY "ALLOWS" BACKUS TO RETIRE

Rumors Around Headquarters Point to Mayor's Criticism of Inspector's District.

CAPT. HEALY PROMOTED.

Transfer of John Rehm to East Chicago Avenue Also Taken as Meaning New Regime.

Chief of Police Shippy announced the resignation of Inspector Anson Backus yesterday and appointed Capt. Stephen K. Healy to the vacancy. Lieut. John H. Alcock was named to succeed the captain.

The cause of Inspector Backus' retirement was stated by him as a desire for rest because of his age; but in the department there were rumors that the statement in the chief's order that he had "been allowed" to retire virtually meant that an alternative had been offered to him.

The theory which received general credence was that Mayor Busse's criticism of the East Chicago avenue district a month ago when Backus was in command there, had forced the resignation. Another possibility that was not discredited was that Backus' attitude in the case against Lieut. Robert Schlau, who was found guilty by the trial board of improper conduct, had led to suggestions that he might as well retire.

"I resigned because I felt it was time," said the inspector. "I am 55 years old and have been a member of the police department for more than twenty-eight years. It is about time for me to take a rest."

Indicates Mayor's Disapproval.

In the face of this explanation, the fact that the same order which announced his resignation also transferred Capt. Max Danner from the East Chicago avenue station to the Desplaines street station was regarded as further indication of Mayor Busse's disapproval of laxity shown in the control of the women of the north side district.

Capt. Danner's place will be taken by Capt. John Rehm, who, under the direction of Inspector James McCann, has been an important factor in controlling vicious conditions in the Desplaines street district. It was rumored that the new commanding officer on the north side had received instructions to keep his streets clear of objectionable women. The new inspector also is expected to carry out these instructions.

The police department records show that Anson Backus has been a member of the force since December, 1880, and that he was made a sergeant five years afterward. He was promoted to the grades of lieutenant and captain, and at different times had charge of the South Chicago and Hyde Park districts. He was made an inspector in December, 1906, and was assigned two years ago to the north side division. He lives at 1425 West Monroe street, and is married, but has no children.

Healy Has Good Record.

Capt. Healy, who recently has been at the Warren avenue station, joined the force in January, 1883. For several years he traveled post from the Desplaines street station and was appointed a detective sergeant in 1889.

He became a lieutenant six years ago and was made a captain two years ago. During the suspension of Inspector Patrick J. Lavin he was acting inspector in the division to which he has just been assigned. During his brief command there he won the name of keeping that part of the city morally clean.

In the same general order issued by the chief announcement also was made of the promotion of twelve patrolmen to be sergeants.

Five desk sergeants, six patrol sergeants, and one detective sergeant have been appointed to the places of twelve of twenty-three officers retired by the retiring board. They are:

Desk sergeants—John O'Grady, Englewood station; John B. Fox, detective bureau; Michael P. Duggan, detective bureau; John F. Thompson, detective bureau, and Edwin W. Judd, Chicago avenue station.

Patrol sergeants—Edward Murnane, central detail; William H. Byrnes, central detail; J. E. Nugent, Hyde Park station; Anthony Baines, headquarters; Arthur McCarthy, detective bureau, and Dennis Haley, headquarters.

Detective sergeants—Thomas J. Sheehan, detective bureau.

O'Brien Warns Detectives.

Because of remarks of Detective Sergeant William Howe concerning a decision of Municipal Judge Hume, Capt. O'Brien lectured his men severely, warning all of them to refrain from criticising judicial acts, from trying to take credit for arrests made by a policeman from outlying districts, and from talking too much about the cases on which they were working.

KILLED WHILE STEALING RIDE.

Two Steel Workers Caught in Wreck of Freight Train Eight Miles East of Joliet.

While stealing a ride from Gary to their home at 113 Francis streeet, Joliet, William Stalter and William Shann were killed in a freight wreck on the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railroad at Spencer, eight miles east of Joliet, last evening. The men were steel workers and the car on which they were riding was one of fourteen that were piled up. The wreck was caused by spreading rails, which the locomotive passed in safety.

NEW ISSUE ENTERS JUDICIAL FIGHT.

Amendments to Municipal Court Act May Be Submitted to Voters on Monday.

PASS ON SALARY RAISES.

People to Express Opinion of the Alleged Grabs by Clerk and Bailiff.

A new issue entered into the judicial campaign yesterday when it became known that in all probability the amendments to the municipal court act adopted by the present legislature will be submitted to the voters at the election next Monday. There may be a better fight over the judicial referendum than over the ticket of judicial candidates.

The election commissioners during the day began to bestir themselves to place the question of the adoption of the amendments on the little ballot. The amendments include a provision that they shall be submitted to the people at the next election after their passage, although the governor has until after the election to sign or veto them. This produces a situation in which it would be possible for the people to approve the amendments while the governor vetoed them.

There is believed to be no doubt, however, that the governor will sign the bill carrying the amendments, and the probability is that he will do so before tomorrow. That will give the election board plenty of time in which to prepare and distribute the little ballots.

Salary Raises Included.

The amendments correct a number of technical shortcomings in the original act and raise the salaries of the judges and other officials. The principal changes are:

Salary of chief justice raised from $7,500 to $10,000.

Salary of associate judges raised from $6,000 to $8,000.

Salary of clerk and chief bailiffs raised from $6,000 to $10,000.

Bail bond in cases in which the penalty is other than a fine requires the personal appearance of the defendant.

Judges may issue warrants in criminal cases when not sitting as a court.

Costs in cases involving $25 or less shall be not more than $1.

The debtor's court shall deal with only such cases as involve judgments of $100 or more instead of $25 as at present.

Judgments of $200 or more shall be a lien on real state from the time of entry.

Hit Clerk and Bailiff Raises.

Whether the amendments will meet the approval of the voters at large is regarded as a matter of considerable doubt.

The increases given the clerk and the chief bailiff have occasioned a good deal of adverse criticism. It is contended that if the chief justice is to be paid not more than $10,000 the clerk and chief bailiff are not entitled to more than $8,000. Persons who take this view of the question denounce the increase of the clerk's and bailiff's salary to $10,000 as a political salary grab.

The clerk's and the bailiff's office are the two political bonanzas in the Municipal court system and the salaries of the incumbents already have been subjected to a boosting, in which politics played its part. The salaries of these offices were fixed by the original act at $5,000, or such higher amount as the city council might designate. Under the provision of the constitution, however, any increase should not apply to an incumbent during the term of office for which he was elected.

In the face of this provision Clerk Homer K. Galpin and Bailiff Thomas Hunter applied to the city council for an increase of salary from $5,000 to $6,000 and got it. It is understood that Chief Justice Olson protested at the time that it was unlawful for the two officials to accept the increase, but to no avail. The officials have been drawing the additional amount a year or more and no legal action to stop the payment has been taken.

Clerk Galpin established his willingness to draw more than the legal amount of compensation when he continued to accept both his salary as court clerk and his compensation as state senator until the decision of Judge Chytraus was rendered, holding this kind of double job holding unlawful.

Chief Justice Urges Adoption.

Judge Olson strongly urges the adoption of the amendments by the voters and asserts that whatever the shortcomings that may be cited the improvements in the law are on the whole vital to the Municipal court system.

"The changes in the law made by the legislature correct defects and oversights in the original act," he said. "If these amendments are adopted, the Municipal court system will be pretty nearly perfect. The increase of salaries for the judges is merited beyond all question. We must have the best judges we can get for the city bench because justice depends on the capacity of the judge in this court more than in any other.

"The Municipal court is more nearly the court of last resort than any other court in the country. The Supreme court cannot reverse our judges except upon the merits of the case. We have oral instruction of juries and lawyers must point out errors in the instruction on the spot or forever remain silent.

"Last month the money judgments in this court amounted to $519,000, compared with only $100,000 in each of the Circuit and Superior courts. That shows the business we do and constitutes sufficient proof that the best judges are none too good for this jurisdiction. It will pay the people to give the judges $8,000 in the future."

Bailiff States His Views.

Bailiff Hunter asserted in the evening that he and Clerk Galpin are drawing $6,000 a year legitimately.

"The act fixed the salary at $5,000 until fixed by the council and now that it has been made $6,000 it cannot be changed during our term of office," he said. "We are not working under the constitution of 1870. That was amended for our act and we are working under the amended constitution of 1904."

Mr. Hunter declined to admit or deny that he had received a protest from Chief Justice Olson against taking the extra salary.

"Judge Olson is not running my office," said Mr. Hunter.

The Republican judicial candidates appeared in the evening at a meeting of Twelfth ward Republicans in St. Paul's hall, Hoyne avenue and Twenty-second place.

Ex-Mayors Talking Team.

Carter H. Harrison and Edward F. Dunne told a crowd assembled in the Casino at California avenue and Division street in the evening to greet the candidates upon the Democratic judicial ticket that every one in Chicago received a squarer deal under Democratic administrations than they got under Republican rule.

Mr. Harrison said the Democratic party is proud that there never has been the slightest shadow upon the reputation of any judge supported by the Democratic party in this county.

Mr. Dunne said that during the thirty years that the Democrats controlled Cook county they always gave the Republicans a fair representation in all municipal boards, while recently, he said, the appointments have all been of a partisan nature.

The managing committee of the Democratic county central committee met in the evening and canvassed the prospects of the campaign fund that the organization seeks to have on tap election day. Chairman O'Connell announced that about $15,000 is in sight.

Many Poor Mothers and a Father Join Campaign to Save Babies.

THE MOTHER'S BABY CLASS

TRAIN MOTHERS; SAVE BABIES

Infant Welfare Campaigners Win Interest of Parents.

EXHIBIT IS PRACTICAL ONE.

Experts Explain Devices for Fostering Children in Summer.

The first day of the Baby Welfare exhibit was celebrated yesterday at the Mary Crane Day nursery in Ewing street, and was marked by a large attendance of those little citizens who find the battle for life against the summer weather such an uncertain issue.

The exhibit is made in connection with the summer campaign of the health department and every appliance known for protecting and fostering life in the babies was set forth in scientific form by Dr. Rachelle Yarrows, illustrated by a full equipment of everything that goes to make baby life pleasant and profitable. The ones for whom it was all intended to be sure were unmindful alike of their dangers and of the attempt to save them, and slept peacefully through most of the lecture in their mothers' arms.

The interested attention, however, of the large number of parents who came from the darkest quarters of the city to get the benefit of the instruction, encouraged the nurses and the doctors over the prospect for their summer campaign for infant welfare. Dr. Yarrows explained in detail what the diet for mothers should be, what the diet for babies should be, and what was hygienic for both babies and mothers.

Tells How to Care for Baby.

Miss Christine Jeffek explained the appliances detrimental and favorable for the satisfactory rearing of the baby, of all of which she showed samples. She told the interested spectators how to make up a bed, how to place the baby in the bed, and how to make a baby bed for a dollar out of a basket, softened with paddings. She also showed how to make an icebox out of a bucket and how to keep quantities of milk in such an icebox. Then, too, she showed how successfully milk could be kept sanitary and sweet when placed in bottles in a clean bucket and put where cool water flows over it.

She told further of how to care for baby's eyes and baby's ears, and in other ways she told the mothers how to get the little chaps through the troublous summer. One of the devices which came in for a scoring was the "baby's comforter," which she labeled "a device of the evil one." She said it is responsible for swollen palates and misshapen mouths.

One Father Present.

The interest throughout the neighborhood in the movement was so great that when mothers could not come many of them sent representatives. One of the representatives sent was a father, who paid most careful attention to every detail.

The exhibit will continue here through today, with a discourse by the School of Domestic Science on how to cook for babies, after which they will continue on their extensive bookings, which include the Christopher house, Normal school, Gad's Hill Association house, Ell Bates, and the nursery run in connection with Dean Sumner's cathedral.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT NORTHWESTERN TONIGHT.

Convocation in Fisk Hall Will Be Followed This Week by Dean's Reception and Students' Reception.

The last full day of school in the present semester terminated at Northwestern university yesterday and, following some examinations today, commencement week will be opened with the convocation in Fisk hall tonight.

Tomorrow will be the dean's reception day, and Friday will be university day, given over to fraternity receptions and sports on the campus during the afternoon and the students' procession and illumination of the campus in the evening.

Commencement day will be June 9. Gov. Herbert Hadley of Missouri, an alumnus, delivering the address. Following that will be the conferring of degrees. The exercises will take place in the new gymnasium, the gift of James A. Patten.

At the request of the Evanston Commercial association, all business places along this route as well as many residences will be decorated in the university colors.

EXPERT UNDER FIRE 20 HOURS.

J. Madison Pace in Record Cross Examination Ordeal During the National Life Hearing.

Twenty hours under cross examination is the record for an expert witness in a hearing before a master in chancery. J. Madison Pace made this record when he finally was permitted to leave the stand in the National Life Insurance hearing before Master Sigmund Zeisler yesterday morning. He is an expert on real estate.

In the afternoon F. W. McKinney, another real estate man, was called and testified that in his judgment the value of the National Life Insurance building and the ground is $1,900,000.

The building is carried on the books of the company, according to their statement at $3,000,000. E. C. Wentworth, another real estate man, also testified.

SEND DEFIANCE TO "TRUST."

Theater Managers' Committee Starts with Notice to Erlanger

TO PAY NO BOOKING FEES.

Westerners Join Independent Movement for the Open Door.

A committee of the Western Theater Managers' association, headed by the president, Charles Kindt, will leave for New York today to serve notice on Abraham Erlanger that hereafter they will refuse to pay "booking fees" for their attractions.

J. J. Shubert, head of the "independents," who was in the city yesterday, announced that managers all over the country were preparing to join the "open door" movement.

"Under the trust theater managers have been little else than janitors," said Mr. Shubert. "The independent movement will benefit not only the managers, but it will open up a greater field for the playwrights. It means that there will be fewer unemployed actors and more work for musicians and stage hands.

"Harrison Grey Fiske was tricked into a sort of peace pact, but he still is urging the independent propaganda.

"We are busily working to eliminate trust methods and trust evils from the American theater. The day of the prize ring methods in the theater has passed."

Mr. Shubert signed a lease for a new theater in Des Moines and left for Cincinnati. He will return to Chicago on Friday.

LEAPS INTO RIVER AND DIVES WHEN RESCUER IS AT HAND.

Gray Haired Man Jumps from Clark Street Bridge and Sinks After Swimming Three Hundred Feet.

Crowds of persons saw a gray haired man climb over the south railing of the Clark street bridge last night, lower himself, then drop into the river and swim about 300 feet down the middle of the stream, then sink. The police and Night Bridgetender Martin Jaffers, 904 Sheffield avenue, who made an unsuccessful attempt to rescue the man, believe he deliberately committed suicide.

Soon after 7 o'clock, when Jaffers had closed the bridge back after a barge had passed, he saw the man drop into the river and start to swim toward La Salle street.

Jaffers seized a pike pole, climbed into a boat, and rowed toward the man, while Policeman P. J. Devoe went to get another boat. Just as Jaffers reached the swimmer, he dived, arose again, and sank. The bridgetended poled his hat, which contained a piece of paper, on which was written: "Miss Hogan, 201-1-B."

The police believe the man was a laborer, 55 years old.

BOY CARRIED TO HOSPITAL IN THE MAYOR'S AUTOMOBILE.

City Executive Sees Lad Knocked Down by a Cab and Conveys Him to St. Luke's.

Robert Isaacson, 10 years old, was hurried to St. Luke's hospital in Mayor Busse's automobile late yesterday afternoon after he had been knocked down at Sixteenth street and Indiana avenue by a cab.

The mayor and a party of friends were returning from a trip through the south parks when he noticed the accident. The boy was not hurt seriously.

Martin Maracek, 2½ years old, was killed at String street by a Canalport avenue car. The child and his father were returning to their home from a grocery when the little fellow ran in front of the car. His left leg and left arm were cut off and his skull fractured.

When the boy's mother, who is employed in the city hall as a janitress, was told that her son had been killed she became hysterical.

DEBTOR LOSES SHOES IN CELL.

Dealer Who Hears of Larceny Charge Against Customer Hastens to Station.

To part with his only pair of shoes in requital of a debt, and that, too, from behind prison bars, is the latest experience of F. Bastian, 1642 Maple avenue, Evanston. He now is awaiting trial on a charge of larceny by bailee, preferred by P. A. Ohnoth, his partner.

When the news of his arrest reached U. Rubin, proprietor of a shoe store at 1638 Maple avenue, he hastened to the station and complained that Bastian had bought a pair of shoes from him on credit. He was told to go down to the cell, and presently he reappeared, carrying the shoes.

"You see, we settled it in this way; it's the most amicable," he told the desk sergeant as he left with the shoes under his arm.

STOP TRAFFIC TO AID ILL MAN.

Police Establish "Quiet Zone" About the Residence of Albert Keep II.

Albert Keep II is ill at his residence, 85 Rush street, and to hasten his recovery the police have established a "quiet zone."

Between the hours of 8 o'clock p. m. and 7 o'clock a. m. no automobiles or wagons are permitted on Rush street between Ohio and Erie. Policemen were stationed at each corner last night, at the request of Ald. Francis W. Taylor.

Mr. Keep, who has been suffering from rheumatic fever for two weeks, was reported in an improved condition late in the evening.

HARTZELL CASE TO BISHOP

South Park Avenue Methodist Church Selects a Committee.

WILL CONFER ABOUT PASTOR

Appointees Said to Be "Not Inimical" to Present Minister.

At the regular quarterly conference of the South Park Avenue Methodist Episcopal church last night a committee of three was appointed to confer with Bishop Goodsell on next year's appointment of a pastor. The committee was not instructed for or against the Rev. Morton Culver Hartzell, who was attacked recently by members of the church on account of his reform activity in connection with the Douglas Neighborhood club.

The committee is made up of George A. Chellacombe, W. T. Smith, and Charles L. Sullivan. One of Dr. Hartzell's friends characterized the appointment as "not inimical to Dr. Hartzell."

Bishop Goodsell lives in New York and it is expected that the Douglas Neighborhood club will take some action to convince him that the Rev. Dr. Hartzell is the man needed in the church.

The conference refused to accept the resignations of Dr. W. E. Quine, Thomas J. Dixon, and George A. Gilbert, it being stated that their names as trustees are on church paper until next October.

CONTRACTOR IS ARRESTED ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE.

John F. Schuler Taken Into Custody Pending Investigation of the Cause of Charles Thompson's Death.

John F. Schuler was arrested yesterday on a charge of manslaughter, and will be held pending an inquiry into the cause of the death of Charles Thompson, a stableman who lived in a barn at the rear of 1308 North Ashland avenue.

Schuler and Thompson quarreled on Sunday morning and Schuler struck Thompson, knocking him against a stall. Thompson's injuries did not appear to be serious, and later in the day he and Schuler patched up their quarrel and had a drink together.

Thompson became ill on Monday morning and was taken in the afternoon to the Alexian Brothers' hospital, where he died that night. An examination showed that his skull had been fractured and he died from a hemorrhage of the brain.

Schuler is a tinsmith and contractor. He lives at 1130 Oakdale avenue and is 45 years old. Thompson was 40 years old.

Peter La Croix was arrested on a charge of causing the death of August Nelson, whom he kicked in the abdomen in a saloon fight a week ago. Nelson was a houseman employed at 3972 Michigan avenue. He was 39 years old.

As Daniel Bialon, 22 years old, was passing a house at 4522 Lafin street on Decoration day the wind whirled his hat into an alleyway. He ran after it and was shot from a window by Michael Poninik, 20 years old, who said he mistook him for a burglar. Bialon died and Poninik is under arrest.

DICKINSON GIVES CHICAGO TIME TO MAKE HARBOR PLEA.

Secretary Signs Order Temporarily Revoking Dock Company's Permit and Sends It Here.

The order revoking the permit of the Chicago Dock and Canal company, under which it planned to construct three 2,500 foot piers into Lake Michigan at the mouth of the Chicago river, was signed by Secretary of War Dickinson in Washington and mailed to this city yesterday. He explained, however, that the company might apply again for the permit if the city failed to demonstrate its greater right to the waters and submerged land in question.

"I revoked the permit," said the secretary, "because I received a request for a hearing from the Chicago authorities. They will have ample time in which to prove that the city is in greater need of the location for harbor purposes than the dock company. In the meantime, the rights of the private company are simply held in abeyance."

Secretary Dickinson further explained his action in recalling a permit granted by his predecessor, Gen. Wright, by stating that he felt bound to respect the plea "of the representatives of a great city."

GIVE DANCE FOR AGED WIDOW.

Austin Women Co-operate in Raising Fund for Mrs. Alice Worthington, Who Is Penniless.

Austin society gave a charity dance last night at Oddfellows' hall, Austin, in an effort to raise $100 for Mrs. Alice Worthington, an aged widow, who has been living at the Home for the Friendless, Fifty-first street and Vincennes avenue. Mrs. Worthington, who is 81 years old, was left penniless by the failure of the bank in which her money was deposited. Her refinement attracted the attention of Mrs. Thomas Gildner, 225 North Fifty-third avenue, Austin, to whom she applied for work and who appealed to her friends in her behalf. She has six grandchildren in this country, but none of them has given her a home.

Mrs. McCulloch Guest of Honor.

ROAD WILL BUILD HUGE NEW DEPOT

Chicago and Western Indiana Votes $50,000,000 Bond Issue for Local Terminal.

SEEKS POLK STREET SITE.

Condemnation Considered, It Is Said, Although Much Land Has Been Purchased.

While all the details have not yet been determined upon, it can be stated authoritatively that the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad has finally decided upon the erection of a great new passenger station at Polk street in the near future which in size and perfection of detail is expected to be the peer of any other passenger station in this country.

Recent activities in the acquirement of land in State street, between Polk and Taylor streets, by the road has led to the belief that it was preparing to carry its long deferred project into execution, and confirmation was given to this belief yesterday afternoon, when it was given out, after the annual meeting of the directors, that a committee, with President W. J. Henley at its head, was appointed to investigate the matter and report back to the board at some later date.

The committee, which is composed of the Chicago members of the board, including F. A. Delano, president of the Wabash road, it was said, will determine how much the station will cost, how soon it can be erected, and its exact location.

Of even more significance, however, is the fact that a bond issue of $50,000,000 has been authorized.

Condemnation Suits Next?

The statement also was made during the day that nearly all requisite property had been acquired. As a matter of fact it is understood that a few pieces along the State street frontage have not been acquired, and it has been reported the road is planning condemnation suits in the near future to give it the entire State street frontage from Polk to Taylor streets.

The activity of the real estate brokers seeking to secure the desired frontage for the road has stirred up property owners thereabouts, and there is also said to have been much buying of property by those familiar with the plans of the road and of the opinion that the project means a big boom in land values in that neighborhood.

The plans of the company are said to contemplate a great structure from twelve to fifteen stories high, extending from State clear through to Clark street, which is to house the general offices of all the roads entering the station.

The city is to be asked to vacate Plymouth and Custom House places, and it is reported that in compensation therefore the road plans to widen Polk street to 100 feet or more.

From State to Clark streets was understood to have been the original plan of the road when the subject of the proposed new station first was announced three or four years ago. Subsequently it was decided to have it extend from the east side of Plymouth place, moving the latter just to the east on land acquired by the road, and extending west to Custom House place. Later, however, the Wabash acquired the Clark street frontage between Polk and Taylor streets, while along the State street frontage the road began picking up property with a view to having the station extend clear through from State to Clark streets.

Plans One Huge Terminal?

It also is said the road has another plan under consideration looking to a reorganization and rearrangement of the entire terminal situation of Chicago as presented by Mr. Delano to the Chicago real estate board in 1906, which provides for a station as far south as Twelfth street on the two-level plan, the lower level for freight and the upper for passenger tracks.

The reasons for desiring to go so far south are stated to be that the two-level scheme would not be practicable at Polk street and that the business and hotel district of the city is fast moving southward.

One of the pressing reasons for building a new station as quickly as possible, besides the inadequacy of the present depot, is that the Western Indiana wants to get back the Chicago and Eastern Illinois traffic.

The latter road is one of the five companies which compose the Western Indiana through the ownership of an equal share of its $5,000,000 capital stock, and at present it gets no benefit from its property except the use of freight facilities and a section south of Seventy-ninth street where the passenger trains leave the Rock Island tracks.

Bonds Not Placed on Market.

The directors naturally were reticent in discussing the station after the meeting, saying that there were many things to be considered before construction actually is started.

"None of the roads has any too much money to spend just at present," said Charles M. Hayes, second vice president of the Grand Trunk. "Although the issue of bonds has been authorized, they have not been placed on the market, and you must remember that a new passenger station, no matter how much it may be needed, does not add one cent to the earning capacity of the road. Although we are convinced that we shall have to build a new station, we cannot say how soon it will come."

A REBELLION

Food Demanded.

See Below

The human body will stand a lot of abuse but sometimes it will surely rebel and demand the proper food in place of the pasty, starchy, greasy stuffs on which it has been made sick.

Then is the time to feed Grape-Nuts, the most scientific and perfect food in the world.

A lady of Washington says: "Three years ago I was very ill with catarrh of the stomach and was given up to die by one doctor. I laid in bed four months and my stomach was so weak that I could not keep down medicine or hardly any kind of food and was so weak and emaciated after four months of this starvation that my daughter could easily lift me from bed and put me in my chair.

"But weak as my stomach was, it accepted and relished and digested Grape-Nuts without any difficulty the first time that wonderful food was tried.

"My doctor told me to eat Grape-Nuts, which were predigested, and although I felt certain I could not keep the food on my stomach I made the trial and it was a most complete success.

"I am now strong and in better health than for a great many years and am gradually growing still stronger. I rely on Grape-Nuts for most of the nourishment that I get. The results have certainly been wonderful in my case and prove that no stomach is so weak it will not digest Grape-Nuts.

"My baby got so fat from feeding on Grape-Nuts I was afraid I would have to stop giving the food to him, but I guess it is a healthy fat for his health is just perfect."

WAYMAN'S WAY TO END CRIME

If Given Funds He Promises to Drive Crooks Out of City.

SLEUTHS WATCH 'L' TRAINS.

Detectives from State's Attorney's Offices on Trail of Pickpockets.

State's Attorney Wayman yesterday had a busy day. Besides making a rousing address before the Traffic club of Chicago, in which he asked for $25,000 as a secret fund with which to drive crime away from Chicago and Cook county, he succeeded in indicting one of the Madden witnesses and Attorney Robert E. Cantwell on the charges of perjury, and at the same time started a campaign against pickpockets which may put these light fingered gentlemen out of business.

The first part of the day's program for the state's attorney was the indictment of Cantwell and Francis E. Thoman, business agent of the Structural Iron Workers' union. The latter was one of the most important witnesses for Martin B. ("Skinny") Madden and his associates in the recent labor conspiracy trial. He is charged with giving perjured testimony and the state's attorney declares he has the "goods" on him.

The reindictment of Cantwell is the result of the recent acquittal of that attorney because the former indictment against him had not been drawn properly. The old indictment charged him with subornation of perjury. The court ruled that this indictment was not drawn correctly.

Without Funds to Fight Crime.

In his address before the Traffic club State's Attorney Wayman startled the members of that organization by declaring:

"Give me a secret fund of $25,000 or $50,000 with which to secure evidence and juries composed of business men and I will drive crime away from Chicago and Cook county."

Mr. Wayman made a strong plea for cooperation in a campaign which he intends to start for such a fund. The speaker was given the cheering indorsement of 275 members of the club who attended the luncheon.

He said in part:

"I mean by a 'secret fund' a fund set aside by the county commissioners with which to secure evidence in criminal and other cases which shall be absolutely under the control of the state's attorney to do with as he pleases and without question from a living soul and for which he shall be responsible to no one but himself and his God.

"The chief of police has such a fund and no one knows what he does with it, no one asks, and no one cares just so long as he does his duty as chief of police, and yet the state's attorney of a county like this, with more power than courts, police, or governor, has not a cent. Give me the money and the proper juries and crime will be unknown in Cook county.

Might as Well Have a Band.

"As it is today when the state's attorney starts a prosecution he has to appeal to the county board for funds, he cannot turn a wheel without a voucher being placed on file, and the prosecution of cases might as well be carried on with a brass band.

"I propose to start a campaign now and appeal to the business interests of Chicago to bring pressure to bear upon the county board to set aside at least $25,000 a year which the state's attorney can draw as a secret service fund. With that fund in his hands the state's attorney of this county can perform the service that the people expect him to perform and do something toward making Chicago a greater Chicago, Cook county a greater Cook county, and Illinois a greater Illinois."

The grand jury adjourned after indicting Cantwell and Thoman, and the cases against other witnesses in the Madden case probably will be taken up by the June grand jury. No definite date has been set for the trial of either of these cases, although it is declared that the case against Cantwell will be called for trial within the next three weeks.

In the indictment of Thoman, the business agent, a transcript of evidence given in behalf of Madden was read before the grand jury. Thoman is the second labor official to be indicted since the trial of Madden was begun. James Garvin, business agent of the Plumbers' union, was indicted Saturday on charges of obtaining money by means of a confidence game. He, also, was a witness in Madden's behalf.

Search "L" Trains for Thieves.

The large number of crimes committed recently by pickpockets caused Mr. Wayman to take a hand in the suppression of this type of criminal. He declared that he intended to place detectives from his office on all elevated trains and in other places where large crowds congregate for the purpose of arresting and prosecuting the "light fingered gentry."

Chief of Police Shippy will be asked to cooperate with the state's attorney in ridding the city of pickpockets.

SMITH CONTINUES FIGHT ON TRUSTS.

Taft Will Not End Bureau of Corporations, as Big Combines Hoped.

MANY INQUIRIES GO ON.

Water Power and River Transportation Will Be the First Acted Upon.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., June 1.—[Special.]—Herbert Knox Smith of Connecticut will remain as the commissioner of corporations, at least until the reorganization of the duties of the bureau of corporations, the interstate commerce commission, and the department of justice.

This decision of the administration is peculiarly important to those interests which have been and now are under investigation by Mr. Smith. The wide scope of the commissioner's activity will be appreciated when it is known that there are approaching completion inquiries into:

The iron and steel industry.
Tobacco industry.
Cotton industry.
Lumber industry.
International Harvester company.
Water transportation.
Ownership of water power.
Taxation of state corporations.

It had been expected by certain interests desirous of crippling the bureau of corporations that the Taft administration would restrict, if it did not completely arrest the operations of the commissioner. There is no such intention on the part of the president. Three months of his term have passed and Mr. Smith is proceeding with the investigations in precisely the same active fashion as he did when Theodore Roosevelt was at the head of the nation. No one appreciates more than Mr. Taft the value of the bureau. He realizes that under the direction of Mr. Smith it has done a great deal of good and he does not propose to draw a single one of its teeth.

Plans to End Duplication.

In the reorganization of the three executive branches referred to, Mr. Taft's idea is merely to prevent the duplication of work, not to lessen the regulatory power of the government. The value of the bureau of corporations lies in the publicity given to the results of its investigations. Although the interests which have suffered from its investigation have protested that they have been maligned and would like to see Mr. Smith transferred to another sphere of usefulness, the fairness of the reports made has not been successfully questioned.

Mr. Smith entered the bureau as assistant commissioner in 1903, and when James R. Garfield, the commissioner, was promoted to the cabinet as secretary of the interior the Connecticut man was made chief of the bureau. He aided in the preparation of the report on the beef combination, and since his service as commissioner has made public three reports on the Standard Oil company, three on the cotton exchanges, one on the tobacco trust, one on the taxation of the New England corporations, and one on the ownership of patents by the government employes, besides advising the president on numerous questions of an industrial character.

Because of the condition existing in the immigration office at the port of New York, the president wanted Mr. Smith to assume charge of it, but the latter preferred his present place and nothing has been done to interfere with his desire.

Water Routes First Action.

Of the reports still to be made by Mr. Smith, the first to be given publicity will be those relating to the water transportation and the ownership of water power. A resume of the results of the tobacco inquiry has been prepared for the president and will be immediately transmitted by him to congress in accordance with the Beveridge resolution asking for it. The iron and steel report will be laid before congress next winter. Reports on the lumber and cotton industries are in an advanced state, as is that on the International Harvester.

Of especial interest to the people will be the statement of facts and conclusions reached in connection with water transportation. This report will make a comprehensive exposition of the relations of the railroads to the waterways. It will show how the railroads have secured control of the river transportation companies, thus preventing competition in rates. Canals also have been brought into the grip of the iron ways.

It would seem, in view of the lower cost, that freight could be transported more cheaply, particularly in the middle west, by steamboats than by rail. The railroads found, for instance, that the grain rates on the Mississippi made the rates on such commodities to the east and Europe, and self-interest forced them to secure control of the transportation on that river, the Missouri and other streams.

Rivers Offer No Competition.

The investigation has established that there is no real competition between the railroads and steamboat lines. The former also have acquired control over the oceangoing lines, particularly those of a coastwise character. The Harriman combination, for example, not only has an interest in the river companies but in the lines which connect Galveston, Texas, and New York, San Francisco, and Panama, and even San Francisco and Japan and China. It has been truly said that Harriman can travel from New York to Manila without stepping from his own property. It is expected that the report on water transportation will have considerable influence in such amendments to the interstate commerce law as may seem advisable to restore the water and rail competition.

Secretary of the Interior Ballinger withdrew from entry a few days ago a quarter of a million acres of public lands which contained water power sites. This action was desirable in order to prevent an industry of the first magnitude from passing into the control of what Washington believes to be a trust. The report of Mr. Smith in connection with the water power situation unquestionably will guide congress in the preparation of legislation.

Recent improvements in the electric power transmission has greatly changed this situation. Even in the cheaper coal areas two hundred mile transmission now is regarded as commercially possible. This radius opens an area of 120,000 square miles for marketing the power from a given power plant. The value of the control of water power sites thus will be appreciated.

Summary of Smith Conclusions.

In a memorandum prepared for President Roosevelt by Mr. Smith, and which may be accepted as a summary of his forthcoming report, the following conclusions are presented:

"An estimate of the water power, developed and potential, now controlled by the General Electric interests, admitted or sufficiently proven, is about 252,000 horse power; by the Westinghouse interests, similarly known, about 180,000 horse power, and by the other large power companies, 875,000 horse power. This makes a total of 1,307,000 horse power. Adding the horse powers of those companies whose connection with these two great interests is at least probable—to-wit: 520,000 horse power, we have a small group of thirteen selected companies or interests controlling a total of 1,827,000 horse power.

"Assuming that the water power at present in use by the water power plants in the United States is 3,300,000 horse power, as estimated by the United States census and geological survey from the figures of installation, it is seen that approximately a quantity of horse power equal to more than 33 per cent of that amount now is probably controlled by this small group of interests. Furthermore, this percentage by no means tells the whole truth. The foregoing powers naturally represent a majority of the best power sites. These sites are the strategic points for large power and market control. The poorer sites will not be developed until these strategic sites are developed to their full capacity.

"Coupling Up" Another Peril.

"And should these strategic sites be 'coupled up' they become still more strategic. There are powerful economic reasons for such coupling. The great problem of the water power companies is that of the 'uneven load' and not only an uneven load, but of an uneven source of power, because of the fluctuating flow of the stream. A coupling up utilizes not only the different storages in the same drainage, but, of still greater import, the different drainage flows of different basins. Also by coupling up, the powers which have largely 'day loads' can at night help out the other powers, which have larger 'night' loads, and vice versa.

"Coupling up is rapidly in progress in the United States. The Niagara Falls Power company and the Canadian Niagara Power company are coupled. The Southern Power company in North Carolina and South Carolina, the Commonwealth Power company in Michigan, the Pacific Gas and Electric company, the Pacific Light and Power company, and the Edison Electric company in California—each concern has its various developments coupled up in one unit.

"The economic reasons for urging water power concentration are thus obvious. The facts set forth show the rapid and recent concentration that has occurred, practically all in the last five years. These economic reasons and business facts indicate clearly the further progress toward concentration that is likely to occur in the near future. It is obvious that the effect on the public of such present and future conditions is a matter for serious public consideration."

Taft Indicates His Purpose.

In a letter just made public Mr. Taft has indicated his purpose to deal with the water power situation. In his annual message to congress he is expected to describe the conditions and recommend legislation to safeguard the public interests. And as his views necessarily will be based in a large part on the results of the investigation made by Commissioner Smith, the value of the work of that official in this one matter alone will be generally understood.

DELAY IN THE LYNCHING CASE.

Supreme Court Grants Thirty Days to Tennesseeans in Which to File Petitions.

Washington, D. C., June 1.—The supreme court of the United States was today the scene of the arraignment of six men before its bar, which was an unprecedented spectacle in this court. The prisoners were former Sheriff Joseph F. Shipp of Hamilton county, Tennessee, and his jailer deputy, Jeremiah Gibson, and Luther Williams. Nick Nolan, Henry Padgett, and William Mayse, all of Chattanooga.

They are the men who a week ago were found guilty by the court on the charge of contempt in permitting and participating in the lynching in 1905 of a negro named Ed Johnson after the Supreme court had granted permission to him to bring his case to the Supreme court on appeal. He had been found guilty of the crime of assault and was under sentence to be hanged.

Will Wed Grandson of Sugar Magnate.

Mary Adele Case.

Rockford, Ill., June 1.—(Special.)—Miss Mary Adele Case of Portland, Ore., whose engagement to marry Claus Spreckels, grandson of the California sugar magnate, has been announced, was born in a sodhouse near Springfield, S. D., twenty years ago.

Miss Case, who has been studying in Paris for two years, won her way in the musical world practically by her own efforts.

She is a niece of Liberty Walkup of Rockford and will visit him on her way from Paris to Portland this month.

BOOSTERS SEE COWBOY FEAT

Chicago Delegation Entertained at Dickinson, N. D.

ON TO MONTANA TODAY.

Will Visit Number of Cities Before Arrival at Seattle.

Dickinson, N. D., June 1.—[Special.]—Real live western cowboys taming real live bucking bronchos in a district made memorable by Custer and his band of Indian fighters was the feature of the second day's trip of the delegation of Chicago trade boomers.

The thrilling and realistic stunt was staged at Dickinson tonight and was arranged by Col. C. W. Mott, immigration agent for the Northern Pacific line, who is guiding the Chicago tourists on the long journey. "Bill" Chandler, one of the best cow punchers the west has ever known, was the prize "buster," and his feats of riding and throwing kicking animals were greatly applauded.

Dignified members of the association threw their hats in the air and yelled "Go it, Bill," when the rider threw a bucking horse over on its back in the mud and arose in the saddle unhurt and grinning.

The trip from Fargo, which was left behind at 4.30 in the morning, was one continual round of successes. The great wheat belt of the northwest, which contributed so greatly to the recent "corner" engineered by "Jim" Patten, was the section traversed during the day. As a result at every station calls were made for the wheat king, and when told he was not aboard the natives were visibly disappointed. Mr. Patten is considered a big man in these parts, for the farmers and business men never were so prosperous as the last season.

At nearly all of the five cities visited today—Valley City, Jamestown, familiarly called Jimtown, Bismarck, Mandan, and Dickinson—bands met the visitors at the depots and autos were in waiting to make tours of the surrounding country. Harry A. Wheeler, chairman of the delegation, James O'Shaughnessey, and Kay Woodyards were the principal speakers of the day. Every man of the party with oratorical or convincing business talk was given an opportunity to sound Chicago's greatness. Montana cities will be visited tomorrow and Thursday.

GEN. MACARTHUR TO RETIRE.

Ranking Officer Will End Active Career in Army Today—Grade Will Cease to Exist.

Washington, D. C., June 1.—Lieut. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, the ranking officer of the army, will be placed on the retired list tomorrow by operation of law on account of age, and the grade of lieutenant general will then cease to exist in the army. By MacArthur's retirement Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, commanding the department of the east, becomes the ranking officer of the army, but without increase of rank.

F. A. HEINZE'S AID IS SENT TO JAIL.

Clapped Into Tombs in Short Order by New York Judge for Contempt of Court.

FAILS TO PREVENT PLOT.

Heard Plan Discussed to Take Copper Company Books Sought by Government.

New York, June 1.—[Special.]—George Baglin, the second vice president of the United Copper company and F. Augustus Heinze's private secretary, was clapped into the Tombs in short order this afternoon for contempt of court by Judge Lacombe, after Baglin had testified before the federal grand jury that he had overheard a plan being discussed for the removal of some of the books of the United Copper company from the company's offices in two trunks on Wednesday, May 19, while they were under investigation by the government and had made no effort to stop such a removal.

At the time the removal of the books was being planned Baglin as an officer of the company knew they were under a subpœna. Despite his plea he did not have charge of the books he was headed for the Tombs ten minutes after United States District Attorney Wise had reported his testimony to the court in the presence of the members of the grand jury.

The missing books were not produced during the day, but there were other interesting developments in the cases outside of the quick removal of Baglin to jail.

In his testimony Baglin said those whom he had heard discussing the removal of the books were Arthur P. Heinze, brother of F. A. Heinze, now under indictments for overcertifyin gand misapplying the funds of the Mercantile bank; Sanford Robinson, a director of the company; Tracy Buckingham, a transfer clerk, who fled to Canada, and one other man.

Jail Faces Robinson, Too.

Upon this testimony Robinson was ordered before the grand jury as soon as Baglin had been disposed of, but Robinson refused to testify on the ground that not only he and Arthur Heinze are members of the bar, but were attorneys for the company during the alleged conversation and therefore privileged. Judge Lacombe seemed inclined to send Robinson after Baglin, but he agreed to wait until tomorrow morning, when, he said, if the grand jury minutes showed the testimony to be as reported by Mr. Wise he would commit him for contempt. Mr. Robinson is a member of the law firm of Gary & Robinson of 54 Wall street.

Judge Lacombe was so aroused by the developments of the day growing out of the hunt for the missing books that he practically ordered the United States attorney to bring the matter at once to the attention of District Attorney Jerome. It is a crime under the statutes of the state to do away with books wanted in a court investigation.

While some of the directors satisfied the court apparently that they had no hand in their removal and have tried their best to find out where they are, further efforts these directors might attempt to make are likely to be estopped by their being shorn of all power as officers at the annual meeting of the company to be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Hudson Trust company's building in Hoboken.

Heinze, who is believed to control the company, is expected to elect another board.

Books Expected to Reveal Evidence.

None of the Heinze brothers were present at the day's proceedings.

One of the objects of the government in trying to get hold of the books that have disappeared is to ascertain the holdings of Heinze and his associates at the time of the pool of the United Copper company, because it contended the alleged overcertifying and misapplication of the Mercantile Bank's funds by F. A. Heinze a part of the manipulation of this pool.

Judge Lacombe had ordered the directors to produce the books if they were to be found, but before the time set for their appearance Mr. Wise had had Baglin before the grand jury.

MISSISSIPPI'S GOVERNOR PAYS TRIBUTE TO DAVIS' MEMORY.

"If You Condemn Him You Must Condemn Us," He Says at Presentation of Silver Service.

Biloxi, Miss., June 1.—The exercises attendant upon the presentation of the silver service to the battleship Mississippi were brought to a close here tonight.

Gov. Noel in his address at Pascagoula today said that the valor of Jefferson Davis as a soldier of the United States army, as well as his record as secretary during antebellum days, entitled him to recognition by the federal government.

"However," continued the governor, "no doubt we would have had the picture placed on the service if nothing but the memory of Jefferson Davis as president of the confederacy remained. Jefferson Davis, like the men of Mississippi and the south, both then and today, stood only for what he thought was right. If you condemn him you must condemn us."

Lieut. Commander McCormick, who accepted the service in the name of Capt. Fremont and the officers and men of the battleship, responded to Gov. Noel in the same vein.

"We shall not deny the memory of your departed chieftain the homage that is due him," said the young lieutenant commander, "for we believe that there should be rendered unto Davis a tribute that is due Davis."

LIGHTS OUT ON NARROW PATH'

Trials and Temptations of Manicure Girl Amaze Critics.

PLAY IS VULGAR AND STUPID

Girl's "High Sign" at 4 a. m. Across the Way Too Much for Gotham.

New York, June 1.—[Special.]—Hackett theater was dark tonight, "The Narrow Path" having come to an abrupt end. It was to purify the stage of Hackett, according to Al H. Woods, that the play was withdrawn after its one night's presentation.

Mr. Woods did not sit as censor on "The Narrow Path," but Henry B. Harris, owner of the theater, did.

He sat through every act and said today that he had never been more shocked in his life. The critics who witnessed the production seemed to agree, in varying measure, with him. Reaching his office in the morning, he dictated this telegram to Mr. Hackett:

"I desire to give you notice that I consider the performance now being given at the Hackett theater a nuisance—being maintained on my property in violation of the law. I want it stopped at once or I will take steps to have it abated. I regret to be forced to it, but decency demands it."

Play Is Stupid and Vulgar.

As critics all said, the play is stupid and uninteresting as well as vulgar, and the high moral purpose of its promoters in withdrawing it may be judged according to one's own inclinations.

"The Narrow Path" is by John Montague, and is described as "a drama of some emotions and a moral." It has to do with the trials and temptations that beset the path of manicure girls in New York. Ida Conquest, Frederic Perry, Martin Ballou, George Lawrence, Dorothy Rossmore, George Parsons, and Joseph Daily were in the cast. The play is described by almost all the critics as one of frantic vulgarity and great amateurishness.

Liked Everything but Work.

The joys and sorrows of three working girls, who liked to do everything but work, never have been displayed more thoroughly. Bertha Clark was the really good one of the trio. The worst thing she ever did, according to her own confession, was to poke her head out of her Forty-fifth street lodging house, give the high, or third story, sign to a young newspaper man who lived across the street, and invite him to come at 4 o'clock to have a cup of 5 o'clock tea in her folding-bed room.

Between the second and third acts, just because a gentleman jilted her in a red automobile, Lou drank so hard for five solid months that in the final scene she is quite shorn of all her jewelry and persiflage. Bertha's other friend, Gladys Barnett, is more reserved than Lou, but much less cautious.

Stops Her with "O, My Gawd."

In the middle of this act Gladys, looking much the worse for wear, rushes on and exclaims to Bertha:

"I am about to become——" but the sentence is never finished, because Bertha slaps her hand over her mouth and says: "O, my Gawd."

Mr. Fred Perry in a bad part strove gallantly to make Dick seem human. Miss Georgia Lawrence as the bibulous manicure was obliged to shriek her way through two acts and then scored an artistic hit by her clever handling of a most repulsive scene. Miss Ida Conquest was as affected and priggish as Bertha as the most fastidious could desire. Miss Dorothy Rossmore as the wife did more real acting in the two minutes she was on the stage than occurred in the rest of the evening.

OBITUARY.

JOHN HALSTEAD LEONARD, night editor of the Chicago Inter Ocean and formerly connected with other Chicago newspapers, died yesterday at the age of 48 years after several months' illness. Services will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Maloney chapel, Wells and Oak streets. Interment will be in the family vault in St. Mark's church, New York City, on Friday. Mr. Leonard also had been employed on New York, Newark, Buffalo, and Minneapolis newspapers.

P. J. BAUEREISEN, who was found dead on Sunday at his home, 80 Menominee street, by his son, John, will be buried tomorrow in Graceland cemetery following a service at 11 o'clock in the cemetery chapel conducted by the Rev. B. F. Aldrich of the Lincoln Park Congregational church.

LYDIA KEYES BECKER, wife of Judge J. H. Becker of Elgin, died at her home last night, aged 68. She was formerly a teacher of literature in the Elgin academy of Northwestern university, but of late had occupied herself in writing and working for reforms of interest to women.

HENRY WOLFSOHN, formerly prominently identified with musical events in this country as manager and director, died in New York yesterday of pneumonia. He was 64 years old.

TAFT IS SCORED ON NEGRO STAND.

Attitude Expressed in Inaugural Address Criticised in New York.

CONFERENCE IS ENDED.

Closing Session Marked by Resolutions Asking Blacks Be Given Rights.

New York, June 1.—[Special.]—The national negro conference closed at the United Charities building this evening after a session somewhat less noisy than bedlam and with the adoption of a series of resolutions expressing the ideas of the members in general on the subject of the status and treatment of the negro.

The conference also authorized the chairman of the evening, Charles Edward Russell, to appoint a temporary committee to make plans and recommendations for a permanent organization. The chairman named as a committee nearly forty men and women, including negroes, white socialists, and persons engaged in "social service."

Besides the regular resolutions one was adopted deploring any recognition of or concession to race prejudice in the appointment of men to office and disapproving President Taft's remarks in his inaugural address indicating that he would not appoint to office colored men if white citizens protested against it.

On the motion of O. G. Villard another resolution was adopted expressing an indorsement of the proposal for a permanent national committee to be incorporated to aid the negro in every way and make his citizenship a reality, the committee to be named "the committee for the advancement of the negro race."

Want Protection for Negroes.

The platform adopted says in part:

"We denounce the unprincipled and ever-growing oppression of our 10,000,000 colored fellow citizens as the greatest menace that threatens the country. Plundered of their just share of the public funds, robbed of all part in the government, often murdered with impunity, and invariably treated with open contempt by the highest officials in some states, they are held in practical slavery to the white community.

"The systematic persecution of law abiding citizens and their disfranchisement is a social crime that will ultimately drag down to an infamous end any community that allows it to be practiced, bearing first of all most heavily on the poor white farmers and laborers, whose economic position is most similar to that of the persecuted race.

"The spoils of persecution will not and cannot fall into the hands of the poorer classes. On the contrary, peonage, enslavement of prisoners, persecution of trade unionists, the unjust and antiquated poll tax, and even disfranchisement are already the portion of large bodies of whites in many southern states."

Publicity Urged as Curb on Mobs.

Publicity as a safeguard against lynchings was recommended during the day's conference proceedings by Mrs. Ida Wells Barnett of Chicago.

Mrs. Barnett has spent several years in the south and west investigating mob violence, and said that during the last quarter of a century 3,284 men, women, and children have been lynched in the United States.

The riots at Springfield, Ill., last summer were brought on by the charges of a woman against a negro, she stated, and later the accuser made a retraction, the conference assembly was told.

Asking why mob rule is permitted in this country, Mrs. Barnett quoted John Temple Graves as saying that the mob stands as the most potential guardian between women of the south and such a carnival of crime as would precipitate the annihilation of the negro race.

PITTSBURG'S RICH IN 'PINAFORE'

Daughters of Some of Millionaires Postpone Trip to Europe to Aid Performance for Charity.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 1.—[Special.]—"Pinafore" was presented tonight on the stage of the Alvin theater by sons and daughters of Pittsburg's rich and about $250,000,000 worth of pretty ankles were displayed.

The play was given because of the desire of the young women to help out the Home for Crippled Children at Pittsburg, and not a few of the girls had postponed their summer trip to Europe that they might carry through this performance for charity.

It is estimated that the flowers alone in the Alvin theater tonight cost $30,000. In some cases parents had car lots of flowers shipped from New York for the use of their daughters and their friends in the four nights of "Pinafore."

We told Mr. E. C. Vincent of Gary, Indiana, that Lead-and-Zinc paint was the best for him; he didn't think so at first; painted three houses with lead and oil—used Lead-and-Zinc paint on another, same size. He says now that Devoe Lead-and-Zinc paint makes a better job at much less cost than lead and oil; and that isn't all; Devoe Lead-and-Zinc will last twice as long.

We have hundreds of such cases. Devoe is the best paint for you, if economy and satisfaction count for anything.

FAIR AT SEATTLE STARTS OFF WELL

Practically Everything Ready When Slope's $10,000,000 Show Gets Under Way.

OPENED BY PRESIDENT.

Touches Golden Key in White House Setting Wheels of Exposition in Motion.

Seattle, Wash., June 1.—Regarding all of their sacrifices, their hard work, and the almost ceaseless energy which they have displayed for several years as being entirely repaid by the events of this the greatest day in the history of this city, the people of Seattle joined in universal rejoicing when the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition was opened by President Taft.

The nation's chief executive was not present in person, but pressed a gold key in the east room of the White house at Washington that sent a spark across the continent and set in motion the wheels of the great show.

It was 3:15 p. m. Washington time when President Taft touched the golden telegraph instrument. Two wires were working through from the exposition grounds to the White house.

Practically the entire diplomatic corps was present at the White house and after the ceremony was concluded the president held an impromptu reception. A large congressional delegation from the coast states was also present.

After the president had touched the key there was a wait of a few moments during which there was complete silence. Then there was a ticking of the instrument to tell that the starting flash had done its work.

Text of President's Message.

A message was sent to the exposition officials by the president as follows:

The White house, Washington, D. C., June 1. Mr. J. E. Chilberg, president Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, Seattle, Wash.—I congratulate you and your associates on this auspicious opening of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition and I congratulate the people of the great northwest on the courage and enterprise they have shown in bringing it forth. The exposition, designed as it is to exploit the natural resources and marvelous wealth of Alaska and the development of trade and commerce on the Pacific slope, should appeal not only to the people of the west, but to the people of the country at large. I trust it will fully meet the expectations of those to whose untiring energies it owes its birth and that it will prove a source of instruction and education to its thousands of visitors. WILLIAM H. TAFT.

There was instant reply from the officials of the exposition in this city, thanking the president for his service and his congratulations.

Opened with Military Precision.

The exercises at the world's fair grounds preceding the president's signal were carried out with military precision. The exposition gates were opened at 8:30 o'clock. At 9:30 troops from the United States army and navy, the Japanese cruisers Aso and Soya, and the state militia paraded through the grounds under the command of Col. T. C. Woodbury, U. S. A., and the column was reviewed from a stand at the head of the court of honor by exposition officials, visiting governors, and Admirals H. Ijichi and Uriel Sebree.

The ceremonial exercises were held in a vast natural amphitheater sloping to Lake Washington. The stage of this theater seats 1,500 persons and is located at the lake side.

The program consisted of music, invocation by Catholic Bishop Onward J. O'Day, brief address by Director General I. A. Nadeau, and president J. F. Chilberg, a long address by James J. Hill, chairman of the Great Northern railroad board, and a benediction by Episcopal Bishop Frederick W. Keator.

Flags Unfurled; Guns Crash.

Then just before noon (Pacific time) word was flashed to the White house that all was ready and President Taft's response set loose the flags, bells, machinery, curious Japanese fireworks and noise. When the message was announced a huge gong struck five strokes and an enormous American flag was unfurled and thousands of small flags were scattered in the breeze.

A mountain battery fired a salute of twenty-one guns, the Japanese and American fleets in the harbor several miles away crashed out their tribute. Luncheon was served to invited guests at the speaking platform. During the afternoon there were receptions at all the state buildings. The day was warm and partly cloudy.

The fair as thrown open was finished and carpenters and painters were nowhere to be seen. The few delayed exhibits will be installed at night. The only serious deficit is in the Hawaiian and Philippine displays, but the transport Dix is speeding hither with them and should arrive next Thursday.

Hill Gives Praise to Exposition.

In opening his address, Mr. Hill said: "The idea of a federation of the world comes nearest realization in the great expositions that assemble actual evidences of man's progress in self development and toward his development of the earth.

"This occasion marks also a change in the conscious attitude of the Pacific coast toward the rest of the country. It would be unjust to say that this section ever failed to realize the national integrity.

"The Pacific states have not been appealed to in vain on the chief issues of the time. But there was once a certain aloofness, a certain supremacy of separate and independent interest.

"There long persisted here a kind of indifference about what might be happening beyond the mountain barrier to the east. People born here felt little desire to cross it. Newcomers soon found the old point of view lost in a new local interest. The coming of the transcontinental railroad first shattered this isolation."

Mr. Hill also said the country needs the abolition of a lot of useless laws and the suppression of many of the bills sent to state legislatures and congress.

He stated useless laws have complicated our financial system until it encourages the wildest speculation at one moment and at another causes a business collapse.

Mr. Hill urged the conservation of our national resources as a crying necessity.

Exposition Built in Two Years.

The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition cost $10,000,000, and was built in two years. The grouping of buildings is much different than at other expositions. The structures are compactly placed; there is no long, tiresome walk from one exhibit to another. After entering the main gates, two buildings standing in a cluster of trees to the left, first meet the eye. One is where the administration of the exposition is centered and the other the Auditorium, a brick and steel building of imposing architecture.

To the right, and across Puget plaza, is the Fine Arts palace. This building contains a valuable art display loaned from famous collections all over the world. A few steps lead to the intersection of Olympic place and Alaska avenue. To the right is a view down the "Pay Streak," the exposition amusement way, and to the left a front view of the Auditorium and the University of Washington, in the distance.

The "Pay Streak" is also reached by following a thoroughfare to the right, just inside the main entrance gates, and on past the rest headquarters of the Women's league and the Masonic, Swedish, and other buildings.

The general scheme of architecture of the fair is in the French renaissance. This is noticeable in all the larger buildings.

Off from the main exposition streets are the model farm, the athletic stadium, and the stock exhibit, the miles of woodland paths, natural parks, and restaurants set in among the trees and shrubbery. Drinking fountains have been provided, the water supply coming direct from Cedar mountain. The grounds are well lighted and French electroliers outline the vistas.

DAMAGE SUITS BASED UPON VAN VLISSINGEN FORGERIES.

Maurice Rosenfeld, Bernhard Rosenberg, and Ten of Their Relatives Named as Defendants in Two Actions.

One of Peter Van Vlissingen's victims, Edward G. Halle, western manager of the Germania Fire Insurance company of New York, brought suit for $35,000 damages yesterday against Maurice Rosenfeld, Bernhard Rosenberg, Solomon Sulzberger, Henry C. Gerstley, Mattie Rosenfeld, Harry Rosenfeld, Carrie Stettauer, Hannah Frank, Augusta Mannheimer, Frances Schaffner, Charles S. Stettauer, and Robert Schaffner.

A member of the firm of attorneys, Rubens, Fischer, Mosser & Rigby, speaking of the suit said:

"It is another of those suits growing out of the testimony of Van Vlissingen that Rosenfeld and Rosenberg knew of his forgeries long before they became public. Mr. Halle bought several mortgages from Van Vlissingen after the time Van Vlissingen says Rosenfeld and Rosenberg became acquainted with the facts, and therefore we are making them agents or accessories in a conspiracy. The other defendants are relatives."

Suit against the same defendants and against Peter Van Vlissingen for $1,000 damages was brought by Frank E. Halle, who bought a $1,000 forged trust deed from Van Vlissingen.

CARS STONED FROM HOUSES

Builders in Philadelphia Take Part in Strike Rioting.

TRAFFIC STOPS AT DARK.

Only One-Fifth of Regular Schedule Kept Up by System.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 1.—The first ordinary business day since the beginning of the street car strike last Saturday closed with conditions practically unchanged. The traction company notified its men that those who had been discharged for striking would be taken back if they reported for work at once.

Men who had been discharged for trifling offenses in the past also were welcomed back. With the aid of recruits hired in this and other cities the company was able to run 700 of its 3,300 cars until nightfall, making no further attempt to continue traffic until tomorrow.

Workmen employed in the erection of a high building at Chestnut and Thirteenth streets showered nails and other missiles on a passing car today. No arrests were made, but the police notified the builders that a repetition of the occurrence would result in all work on the building being stopped until after the close of the strike.

Refuse to Meet Seamen.

Cleveland, O., June 1.—So far as the officers or members of the Lake Carriers' association are concerned the strike of the lake seamen will continue. This situation became apparent today when the representatives of the boards of arbitration from six states bordering upon the great lakes met here with Seth Low of New York, president of the National Civic federation, in an effort to bring about a conference between the officers of the association and the strike leaders. Members of the association informed the mediators they would not treat with the strikers.

FATHER AND SON ON TRIAL; MISUSE OF FUNDS ALLEGED.

Trustee in Bankruptcy Seeks to Recover $150,000 from Two Former Officers of Chicago Linoleum Company.

Trial of the suit brought in the name of the American Trust and Savings bank, trustee in bankruptcy of the Chicago Linoleum company, to recover $150,000 from Alexander Euston and his son, Edwin Euston, who were president and vice president respectively of the company, was begun yesterday in Municipal Judge Scovel's court. Attorney Elbridge Hanecy in his opening address to the jury said:

"The Chicago Linoleum company was organized in 1902. Five directors were named, but the Eustons owned 75 per cent of the stock and, with an employé of their, controlled the affairs of the company.

"After a fire which destroyed part of the linoleum plant in January, 1907, the Eustons collected $108,999 insurance and used $63,000 of the money in rebuilding the plant. More than $57,000 was drawn out by Alexander Euston and his son. A dividend of $19,250 was declared at one time, and the Eustons received that amount, although we can show that the company never was a paying proposition."

BELMONT AND FISH ACCUSED

Stockholder in Defunct Trust Co. Sues for $1,500,000.

BLAMES A SHIP CONCERN.

Plaintiff Says Much Money Was Wasted in a Sea Venture.

Saratoga, N. Y., June 1.—[Special.]—Alleging that Perry Belmont, Stuyvesant Fish, and other directors of the Commonwealth Trust Company of New York, formerly the Trust Company of the Republic, lost $1,500,000 of the trust company's funds through investing them in the United States Shipbuilding company, which afterwards became defunct, Charles H. Kavanaugh of Waterford, N. Y., today appeared before Justice Van Kirk in the Supreme court in this village as plaintiff in a suit for that amount. Kavanaugh in his complaint alleges he owned 100 shares of stock in the Trust Company of the Republic and sues to recover from the directors what the other stockholders lost.

Hiram C. Todd of counsel for Mr. Kavanaugh charged that the trust company had falsified its accounts in its first semi-annual report to the state superintendent of banks to the extent of $1,000,000, that capital, surplus, and deposits of the trust company had been used in the shipbuilding enterprise; that there had been "padded cash accounts" and "padded loans," and that excessive loans, both secured and unsecured, had been made to officers and directors.

Mr. Todd said that in one day loans aggregating $2,622,187 had been made to Lewis Nixon, while the company's capital was about $1,000,000. He told of the organization of the Sheldon syndicate to take over the shipbuilding company's securities, and of the payment to the trust company of $4,125,000 to reimburse it for moneys borrowed and guaranteed owing to the shipbuilding company, but said that this amount failed by at least $1,000,000 to make good the losses.

HOMEOPATHS HEAR DEBATE ON POWER OF PSYCHOTHERAPY.

Dr. Sheldon Leavitt, Who Contends Will Power Is Best Medicine, Is Answered by Dr. J. W. Hingston.

"Resolved, That mental attitude is more potent in the cure of physical disorders than medicines."

In the affirmative of this resolution Dr. Sheldon Leavitt addressed a meeting of the Homeopathic Medical society at the Public library last night. Against him were ranged Dr. James W. Hingston and a number of other physicians in the audience.

"The patient is on the road to recovery, according to my belief, when he believes that he will get well," said Dr. Leavitt. "The lack of will power is expressed in the tissues, and I have seen cases when operating when I could tell from the tissue that the patient had not the ambition or the will to get well."

In replying to Dr. Leavitt Dr. Hingston took the stand that medicine is to be relied upon in preference to psychotherapy.

"The nearer we approach to an exact science the more perfect are our results," he said. "Medicine is an exact science, while psychotherapy remains and ever will remain in the realm of speculation."

M'CLELLAN ASKED TO OUST BINGHAM

Justice Gaynor Charges New York Commissioner with Lawlessness.

SAYS BOY WAS HOUNDED.

Asserts Police Had No Right to Place Youth's Picture in the Rogues' Gallery.

New York, June 1.—[Special.]—Justice William J. Gaynor of the Appellate division of the Supreme court has sent a letter to Mayor McClellan calling for the removal of Police Commissioner Bingham for lawlessness.

Justice Gaynor describes a case of outrageous treatment of a young man by the police wherein he was photographed for the rogues' gallery although guilty of no crime and thereafter continually hounded by the police. Justice Gaynor took the case up, but says he could get no redress from Bingham. In his letter to the mayor Justice Gaynor says:

"I had written a letter to the governor of the state to get redress for the scoundrelism hereinafter mentioned through the power of removal of city officials which he possesses, but on second thought I concluded to withhold it and first ask for such redress through you.

"On June 16, 1907, George B. Duffy, 19 years old, son of George E. Duffy of 237 Wyckoff street, Brooklyn, was arrested near his home by a police officer without warrant and locked up over night. No charge of any criminal offense was made against him, only that he was a suspicious person. He had never been arrested before. He had lived at home in the neighborhood all his life and could be found or identified at any hour.

"Subjected to Indignities of Felon."

"Next morning he was taken to police headquarters or the central office and subjected to the routine and indignities of a felon. He was stripped, measured, and photographed, and his picture was hung in the rogues' gallery and his name entered in the index of felons.

"The next day he was taken before a magistrate and discharged. No complaint of any kind was made against him. It seems that the glass window of a saloon had been broken several days before, and some whisky taken out. The saloonkeeper, who was brought to court by the police to look at him, could make no complaint against him, and disavowed having anything to do with the arrest.

"It was not long before it was spread abroad that his picture was in the rogues' gallery and he was gibed and twitted of it in the streets. His father tried every way to have the picture taken down and the record destroyed, and, failing, he came to me. I wrote several friendly letters to the police commissioner calling his attention to the illegality of the matter and asking that he cause the picture to be taken down and the record to be erased, but he finally refused.

"Boy Lives in Daily Dread."

"Need I say that this boy must get redress from this criminal official wrongdoing and oppression or be ruined for life? He has a position in which he earns $18 a week, but he and his parents have lived in daily dread of the day his employer shall learn his picture is in the rogues' gallery and discharge him. Do you not know how hard life is and how most of the people in this great city, over which in God's providence you rule, have to struggle to live or make both ends meet? This boy's family is a most excellent one, and the anxiety of his father and mother for his future, pilloried and disgraced as he now is, can be understood by every good father and mother. The police commissioner is doing all he can to make it impossible for him to lead an honest life and make an honest living.

"Many thousands of false arrests are being made here annually and many boys begin their downward career from the humiliation and debasement of being locked up in a cell over night without any cause or for some trifle.

"No free people can be ruled in a lawless manner. Those put into office and authority should first of all obey the laws which regulate and limit their official conduct and powers. In that way only can they effectively enforce the laws against others."

Commissioner Bingham Tells His Side

Commissioner Bingham dropped into the police headquarters tonight and heard about Justice Gaynor's letter to the mayor. When he was asked if the justice had made public all the correspondence in relation to the Duffy case, and was informed that he had not, the commissioner remarked:

"I didn't think he would."

Gen. Bingham says that the police report to him that Duffy is a disorderly person and an associate of degenerates, an associate among others of Alfred Collier, who got a twenty years' sentence for robbery, and was a witness on behalf of Collier at the trial. Gen. Bingham says he is informed that Duffy at the trial testified to disgraceful relations between himself and the complainant.

All this, he said, he told Justice Gaynor in a letter to him answering the justice's first complaint. Justice Gaynor, it was stated, wrote to him again saying he had investigated these charges and found them untrue. Gen. Bingham said he told Justice Gaynor that while he personally did not believe the boy a subject of injustice, nevertheless, he would remove the picture if the justice asked it. Justice Gaynor refused to request it, but said it should be done as a matter of right.

To the Thousands of Bladder and So-Called "Kidney Trouble" Sufferers Who Have Never Taken GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES We Make This Liberal FREE OFFER. Fill in the Coupon Below and Mail It to Us at Once.

It Is a Positive Fact That in Not One Out of a Thousand of Supposed Kidney Cases Does the Trouble Really Lie With the Kidneys.

If there was really as much "Kidney Disease" as there is commonly thought to be there would be a bad condition of affairs indeed, for once the Kidneys become diseased there is really little, if any, chance of a permanent cure. Practically all the so-called Kidney trouble is in reality Bladder Trouble. Although sometimes intensely painful, and always annoying, it can be easily and quickly cured if the Bladder is treated properly and the Kidneys left alone to do their work as nature intended.

The remarkable effect of GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES in Bladder troubles has been known for two hundred years.

There are many other troubles, arising in organs connected with the Bladder, which are quickly relieved by the use of GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES, but extended references to these would be out of place in a newspaper advertisement. Full information is given in the printed matter inclosed in each box of GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES.

The Bladder is the receptacle for the discharge from the Kidneys. Under normal conditions nature disposes of the contents of this reservoir (the Bladder) promptly and without pain. Once inflammation sets in, however, the contents may be retained for an unusual length of time, thus producing much pain and discomfort, or may be expelled with abnormal frequency and be the cause of much inconvenience and trouble.

Pains in the back, "lumbago" and all kinds of so-called "Kidney Symptoms" are generally produced by a disordered Bladder. The most serious of Bladder diseases is the formation of "Gall Stones" from the accretion of mineral matter taken into the system through drinking water or the solidifying of Uric Acid.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL (the only genuine) is sold by all druggists. Capsules, 25c and 50c; Bottles, 15c.

SENATE TAKES UP TARIFF ON COTTON

Cloth Schedule Probably Will Be Basis of Hardest Fight of the Session.

ALDRICH IN HOT CLASH.

Dolliver Has Wordy Battle with Rhode Island Man Which Grows Bitter.

Washington, D. C., June 1.—After receiving information from Chairman Aldrich that, beginning tomorrow night, it would be expected to hold night sessions, the senate today began consideration of the cotton cloth schedule.

Mr. Aldrich proposed amendments reducing from 25 to 20 per cent ad valorem the minimum duty that may be charged on spool thread of cotton, crochet, darning, embroidery, cotton on spools, etc., and from 20 to 15 per cent the minimum n cotton thread and carded yarn, etc. These amendments were agreed to.

A clash between Senator Aldrich and Senator Dolliver occurred almost when the Iowa senator attempted to obtain agreement to an amendment offered by him to replace with ad valorem rates the specific rates on cotton cloth, not bleached, dyed, mercerized, colored, stained, or printed. Mr. Dolliver declared that this amendment was to prevent increases in the rates in 70 per cent of the articles affected, according to the book of estimates compiled by the committee on finance.

Resisting this amendment, Mr. Aldrich referred to "senators who bring importers' briefs here" to affect the schedules, and argued that the ad valorem rates, through interpretations made upon the rates of the Dingley law, had been reduced from 60 per cent ad valorem to 2, 3, or 4 per cent. It was to prevent this kind of lowering of the rates that the committee proposed to have specific rates, he said.

The reference to senators bringing "importers' briefs here" brought the Iowa senator to his feet. Mr. Aldrich declined to yield the floor, and Mr. Dolliver was obliged to wait.

Dolliver Urges His Changes.

"The honorable senator from Rhode Island," began Mr. Dolliver, in sarcastic tone, when he got the floor, "seems to think this is a good time to settle things, and I agree with him. There is one thing that ought to be settled. I do not propose to submit without protest and an appeal to the senate to insinuations that I stand here reading any briefs or that I represent anybody except the people of the United States. What little light I have been able to throw upon this subject I have gained by careful study."

Mr. Dolliver said his amendment was to apply the ad valorem rate of the Dingley bill to cotton goods, valued at more than 7 cents per yard, as the application of specific duties as proposed by the committee on finance resulted in increases over the Dingley rate.

An acrid altercation followed reference by Mr. Dolliver to Marion Devries, chairman of the board of general appraisers of New York, as having used undue influence in the framing of the tariff bill. Defending Devries, Mr. Aldrich said neither he nor any manufacturer had seen the cotton schedules until after they had been framed by the committee.

In reply Mr. Dolliver expressed surprise that Mr. Aldrich was so ready to resent any remark concerning a former Democratic member of congress, while he had referred to his own colleague in the senate "in language unbecoming in this chamber."

Smoot Lauds the Committee.

Senator Smoot then sought to demonstrate by elaborate argument that the amendments to the cotton schedule made by the senate committee did not increase the average equivalent ad valorem duties contemplated by the Dingley law. Mr. Smoot said the amendments prepared under direction of the finance committee met the approval of members of the committee after a most careful consideration of the subject and without regard to who may have suggested the particular phraseology.

According to Mr. Smoot, the importers do not desire any change in the present law because those who handle the high classes and those who handle the low classes of goods have agreed upon a division of trade territory, so that the interpretation of the Dingley law is perfectly satisfactory to both. He sought to show also that it was satisfactory to a number of the manufacturers, but unfair to those who are seeking to develop the manufacture of high class goods in this country.

Processes of mercerization were the subject of a complete demonstration by Senator Lodge. Before entering upon this demonstration Mr. Lodge discussed the tariff question as a whole.

Lodge Fears "Cheap Labor."

Citing comments on the tariff by prominent Republican speakers and declarations of the platform at the last national Republican convention to show that there was no pledge of a revision downward, Mr. Lodge undertook to show that it had been the policy of the party to uphold protection as an offset to cheap foreign labor. "In point of fact," said Mr. Lodge, "the revision on which we are engaged is a revision downward. There have been 379 reductions and thirty-three increases."

Taking up the question of mercerization Mr. Lodge said that at times the cost of the process was as high as 12 cents a yard and in many cases as much as 3 and 4 cents. Yet in all these cases the bill provided a duty for mercerization of 1 cent a square yard.

An earning of 6.67 per cent, shown to be the average earnings of forty-four New England mills during the last twenty years, Mr. Lodge declared to be a fair example of earnings of New England cotton mills. These figures were given to meet charges that cotton manufacturers had made enormous earnings.

Mr. Lodge said a great influence to advances in prices is overlooked in discussions. The addition of $200,000,000 annually to the gold currency, he said, accounted for much of this advance in prices. The only exception he found was where there was an oversupply.

Senator Root defended the board of appraisers of New York against criticism for taking part in the framing of tariff legislation. Replying, Mr. Dolliver said he did not mean to cast reflections upon any one unfairly, but he complained that his own conduct had been impugned "from behind the doors of the finance committee."

Senator Cummins introduced his income tax amendment to the tariff bill. It provides for a tax of 2 per cent on all incomes of individuals or corporations over $5,000 a year. A feature is included which is intended to eliminate double taxation by allowing a rebate to the individual stockholder of a corporation whose dividend assessment has been paid through the corporation itself.

that the German government felt a peculiar interest in defending itself from the charge of fostering an industrial system which put its men on starvation wages, but the information was asked by the United States, and the charge of "impertinence" made by the leader of the United States senate and printed in the official reports was an unfortunate insult, of which Senator Aldrich would not have been guilty if he had not been goaded by the persistent attacks of the western senators and by the fact that he was particularly interested in seeing that this report should not be made public.

The facts which have been developed in connection with the history of this German report are particularly damaging. It was received in due course by the state department. By the direction of the president, the secretary of state, who is an ardent protectionist and former member of the senate, transmitted the report to the finance committee, of which Mr. Aldrich is the chairman.

Original Report in German.

The original report, of course, was in German, but, knowing that many of the senators were deficient in their knowledge of the modern languages, the secretary of state thoughtfully sent along with the original document a complete translation in plain English. Both of these documents were in the possession of the finance committee, but their existence was carefully concealed from the senate, and, in order to further this policy of deception, both the original report of the German government and the translation were returned to the state department.

When the story got out and the western and southern senators began to demand that the senate should have this information, Mr. Aldrich lost his head for once, at least, in his busy and successful life, and began to denounce the German government. He did not attack the figures themselves, because he knew perfectly well that they had been gathered with great care from the various chambers of commerce, which in Germany are official bodies, and the figures were therefore official and entitled to as much credence as any prepared in this country by our own bureau of statistics.

Aldrich Resorts to Trick.

These figures showed for a great variety of articles the cost of labor and material, and in a general way indicated the profits to the manufacturers. Germany, it must be remembered, has a protective tariff and is not running any propaganda for free trade.

When the explosion came in the senate, Mr. Aldrich with characteristic cleverness asked the state department to send back the original document which he had returned secretly some time before. This was done and he made a good point in the senate by showing that the table was in German. He declared he would have it translated carefully and then submitted to the senators for their information. He did not disclose the fact that the state department sent an official translation of the whole thing when it sent the original document and that it might be, and should be published tomorrow morning.

The trick is an evident one. The plan is to put some of the expert tariff artists at work on the translation with private instructions to them to do their work with such minute care that it will not be finished until after the tariff bill has been passed by both houses.

MacVeagh Also Upsets Plans.

In the same way the finance committee is mortified that Secretary MacVeagh should have given out the statement showing the amount of protection on about forty familiar articles, with the retail prices in the United States and the figures supposed to be fixed by the tariff bill as framed in the house and senate. Some people in congress attach a great deal of importance to this statement by the secretary of the treasury, because they think it foreshadows a decision on the part of President Taft that the changes in the existing law are altogether too slight and that neither the Payne nor Aldrich bills proposes any serious reduction in the cost to the consumer of things he buys at retail almost every day. If President Taft gets that idea into his head firmly a veto message is certain.

Just at the present time, therefore, Mr. MacVeagh, like the German government, is classed as decidedly "impertinent" by the high tariff crowd, which surrounds Mr. Aldrich. They say other harsh things about the secretary of the treasury—to wit: that he was once a Democrat and that they believe he is a confirmed free trader, such arguments being, according to the senate code, quite sufficient to upset any table of figures, no matter how correct they may be.

Fortunately, Mr. MacVeagh, like the German government, is not suffering, and managed to get his figures into circulation just at the right time. They did not have to be translated and they will be quoted from a great deal during the coming bitter fight on the textile schedules.

GERMANY STIRRED BY INSULT.

BERLIN, June 1.—The charges made at Washington by various senators that the German government was endeavoring to influence tariff legislation in the United States by supplying official information regarding wages which, upon examination, proved them to be much higher than the wages attributed to German manufacturers in the hearings before the ways and means committee of the house, has caused a disagreeable impression in governmental offices here. This is especially the case at the ministry of the interior and the foreign office, where the information in question was prepared in reply to a request sent in by the American state department.

German officials have been enduring attacks at home, but they are amazed at the accusation from America that they acted strangely in complying with the request of the American government. The matter is likely to come up in the reichstag.

FIGHT REMOVAL IN LIBEL ACTION.

Delavan Smith and Charles R. Williams of Indianapolis in Federal Court.

DEFENDANTS WIN POINT.

Judge Says Express, Not Implied, Malice Must Be Shown; Evidence Taken.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 1.—Delavan Smith and Charles R. Williams, owners of the Indianapolis News, were before Judge Anderson of the United States court today resisting removal to the District of Columbia for trial on indictments charging them with having committed criminal libel in publishing articles intimating that there was an enormous graft in the purchase of the Panama canal zone.

Messrs. Smith and Williams were indicted in the District of Columbia jointly with the proprietors of the New York World.

Stuart McNamara, assistant United States attorney for the District of Columbia, and Charles W. Miller, district attorney, represent the government and Ferdinand Winter of this city is attorney for the defendants.

Presents Question of Malice.

Mr. Winter maintained that the publishers were not guilty of the malice necessary to complete criminal libel, and that they had not committed an offense for which they could be removed from one district to another for trial, and that the indictment charging them with criminal libel was baseless.

The government resisted the introduction of evidence in the hearing, Mr. McNamara and Mr. Miller contending that it was inessential for a committing magistrate to hear evidence. The exhibits of editorials printed in the Indianapolis News, they held, were libelous if they violated a statute of the District of Columbia providing that criminal libel may lie in the publication of an article not justified in truth and that a person found guilty may be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both. The government maintained that on the face of the indictment and the information the defendants should be transferred to the District of Columbia for trial.

Point Against Government.

Judge Anderson ruled against the government. He called attention to the necessity of proving express not implied malice in a prosecution for criminal libel, and said that it was his duty to determine this question by hearing the evidence before he should decide if the defendants should be removed for trial.

Judge Anderson declared malice in a civil action was different from malice in a criminal case. Implied malice in a newspaper publication might be sufficient to justify a judgment for damages against the publisher. But in a criminal action a different degree of malice was required. It must be express malice.

"Of course, there is back of this the intent," said Judge Anderson. "The owner of a newspaper might well be held civilly for anything that appeared in his pages, because the men who put it there are his agents, but when it comes to a question of criminal liability for publication of an article it is a different thing. As, for example, if the proprietor of a newspaper in New York (I could not cite this illustration for a western paper because, rich as they are, they are not rich enough to own their own yachts), but suppose the proprietor of a New York paper should be away six months, cruising in his yacht. During his absence a vicious article appeared in his paper. Should he be held criminally? It does not occur to me that he could be held criminally liable.

"I am speaking about the ultimate facts. If the owner is not present he actually knew nothing about the publication and could not possibly be held guilty of the crime."

Defense Offers Testimony.

The defense then placed upon the stand Ernest I. Lewis, a staff correspondent of the News, who denied that he had had any instructions from his employers as to handling the Panama canal matter in his dispatches from the political headquarters at Chicago during the last campaign.

Questioning Charles R. Williams, editor in chief of the News, Mr. McNamara drew out that Mr. Williams had not written the editorials complained of, in which it was declared to be desirable that the part of C. P. Taft, Douglas Robinson, William Nelson Cromwell, and J. Pierpont Morgan in the Panama transfer should be investigated. He had, however, approved them. Mr. Williams said the publication of the editorials, he thought, was in the interest of public morality and integrity.

Author of Editorial Testifies.

Louis Howland, who wrote the editorials and handed them to his chief, Mr. Williams, told the court on the stand that he wrote them because he thought the subject was "the biggest thing in the campaign" and he should not have discharged his duty if he had not discussed it.

"So it seems," put in Mr. McNamara, a bit sarcastically. "You thought, only, it was the biggest thing current at the time."

"Yes," retorted Mr. Howland, "and I think so yet. I was suspicious and I am yet suspicious. I think I had good reasons for everything I wrote."

Earlier in the afternoon Delavan Smith was on the stand and said he had no personal knowledge of the editorials before they were published.

Arguments will be made tomorrow.

SAYS PRINCE ANGERED GOULD

Mrs. Alice S. Bankhead Tells of Incident at Cairo, Egypt.

RODE WITH FORMER ACTRESS

Deponent Asserts Husband Complained of His Wife's Conduct.

New York, June 1.—[Special.]—Howard Gould, so his wife's friends allege, was jealous of Prince Mohamed Ali, brother of the khedive of Egypt, when the prince rode in a carriage with Mrs. Gould, who was Katherine Clemmons, the actress. That was when the Goulds were visiting in Egypt in 1902. They were entertained by the khedive and Prince Mohamed Ali. Among the others who attended the entertainments were Bourke Cockran, Mr. and Mrs. William Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Fairfax Longstreet, and Gen. John G. Long, the United States consul at Cairo.

It is Gen. Long's ward, Mrs. Alice Stickney Bankhead, and her husband, Lieut. Henry M. Bankhead, who is stationed at Fort McPherson, Ga., who have thrown further light on the Goulds' stay in Egypt. Depositions given by the army officer and his wife were filed in the county clerk's office today to be used by Mrs. Gould in the prosecution of her action for a legal separation.

Mrs. Bankhead says she met Mrs. Gould in Cairo for the first time. Mrs. Bankhead was then 22 years old. She states she saw Mrs. Gould nearly every day during her mother's stay in Cairo and dined at a hotel with Mr. and Mrs. Gould frequently. It was after a dinner given by Gen. Long in honor of Prince Mohamed Ali the drive took place to which Mr. Gould is said to have objected.

Says Gould Made Complaint.

Says Mrs. Bankhead:

"I remember Mrs. Gould drove in a carriage from Gen. Long's house to the khedive's palace with Prince Mohamed Ali at his request, and I drove in a carriage with Mr. Gould. Mr. Gould complained to me of the fact that Mrs. Gould was driving with the prince, saying it was the first time since their marriage that she had driven with another man. This seemed to offend him.

"Before leaving the palace on our return, Mrs. Gould asked me to drive with the prince, so she could drive with Mr. Gould, but I declined, because I considered it proper she should return with the prince."

Mrs. Bankhead once attended a concert on the Goulds' yacht, the Niagara, at Alexandria, and had remained over night on the boat.

"Mrs. Gould's conduct on that occasion," said the witness, "was perfect. I never saw Mrs. Gould drink more than one cocktail before luncheon or dinner."

"Mrs. Gould Not Boisterous."

Mrs. Bankhead says she had never seen Mrs. Gould drink to excess on any of her visits to New York, some of which lasted for two or three weeks, nor had she ever found Mrs. Gould boisterous. At Castle Gould she said she had heard Mrs. Gould correct a butler for making too much noise in the pantry, but that it was nothing but what any good housekeeper would have done.

Mrs. Gould, it was stated, had mentioned Dustin Farnum, the actor, to her only once, and then that she said it was an outrage that her name and that of Farnum had been connected in any way, for she knew him only slightly.

BILTMORE LEASE STIRS VANDERBILT

Action Transferring Game Preserve Rights Is Repudiated.

GOES TO SEE COUNSEL.

J. A. Pugh and J. M. Chiles, Chicago Parties to It, Deny Money Making Intent.

Asheville, N. C., June 1.—[Special.]—George W. Vanderbilt has repudiated the authority of Dr. C. A. Schenck, head of his Biltmore estate forestry department, to enter into the ten year lease of the fishing and hunting rights on the 80,000 acres of Piagah forest, which was made in April to H. F. Adickes Jr. of this city, claiming that Dr. Schenck exceeded his authority.

Dr. Schenck and James A. Pugh and J. M. Chiles of Chicago, whom Adickes associated with himself in the lease and formed the Biltmore Rod and Gun club with several hundred members, have taken anew the matter, although the lessees claim their lease is valid and will yield no subsequent right under it.

Mr. Vanderbilt consulted with his attorneys here and then went to New York last week to consult with counsel there in the hope of breaking the lease, if necessary.

Paid $10,000 in Advance.

The lease of 80,000 acres near Brevard to Adickes provided that the lessee should have the use of the game preserves for a term of ten years, at a rental of $5,000 a year. An interest was acquired by Mr. Pugh and Mr. Chiles, who spends much of his time here, and they paid the two years' advance rental required by the lease executed in the name of Mr. Vanderbilt by C. A. Schenck as agent.

The Chicagoans then secured the game rights to an adjoining tract of 50,000 acres and were negotiating for other lands when Mr. Vanderbilt arrived here and declared Dr. Schenck had no right to make such a lease. His action followed close on the reports that the Chicago men were organizing a club of 250 members, who would each pay an initiation fee of $250 and annual dues of $100, so that the lessees would easily make a profit of $50,000 a year out of that which cost them but $5,000 a year.

HAD NO IDEA OF MONEY MAKING.

James A. Pugh, who is connected most closely in the minds of Chicagoans with the plan of the Pugh Terminal company to build an outer harbor north of the river mouth, denied Mr. Vanderbilt's charges that the holders of the lease on the North Carolina property contemplated making money on their lease.

"Mr. Adicks, Mr. Chiles, and a few other friends, including Lawrence Heyworth of Chicago," he said, "went into this matter as a proposition of personal recreation and not for the purpose of making money. The men in the south have the arrangements in hand, but I know that the plan contemplates only the organization of a shooting and fishing club, the dues and charges of which will only pay expenses."

KNOWLEDGE

¶ Knowledge is the key which unlocks the treasure house of things and if you possess it you can "get in" even if you do arrive late.

¶ Ten years ago there were two classes of men's clothes—the ready-made and the custom-tailor kind.

If you did not want the one you had to take the other.

ELY Meyer and M. C. Simon have created another class of clothes, a class which stands alone—alone in the manner of design and method of making and superb style. Every garment is designed at their own tailoring shops in Rochester, N. Y., organized on their own unique lines.

¶ No man of judgment can fail to note the superiority of these superb garments,—and they are ready for immediate wear.

ENDS NOTED CASE OVER A COPYRIGHT

U. S. Court Dismisses Suit Regarding Publication of Law Encyclopedia.

VAN WYCK IN SADDLE.

Judge Asks Democrats to Get Together During Coming New York Campaign.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, June 1.

Noted Copyright Suit Is Dismissed by U. S. Judge.

The case of the West Publishing company of St. Paul, Minn., against the Edward Thompson company of Northport, L. I., one of the most famous copyright cases of modern times, was terminated today when Judge Chatfield in the United States Circuit court handed down an opinion dismissing the suit without costs. The action was brought in an effort to have the Thompson company restrained from publishing, circulating, or selling a law encyclopedia. Judge Chatfield decided while there might be a few instances where the text of the West publications had been used there was not enough to warrant the suppressing of the entire edition of the encyclopedia, consisting of seventy-four volumes, and that there was but one action for comparatively small damages, which could not be considered in connection with the case at issue.

Judge Chatfield also decided that enough sources of material involved are open to the use of others because of defects in copyrights, and that it is not equitable to enjoin the publication of an entire encyclopedia.

This intricate series of litigations has occupied the attention of the federal court here for over five years. It would take months to read all the testimony taken in the case, an opinion giving merely comment on all salient points brought up in the arguments of counsel and exhibits offered in evidence being a document in itself of 125 typewritten pages.

The death at sea today of Emil C. Hansen Erch of Chicago was reported by the steamship United States on arrival from Copenhagen. Mr. Erch died of heart disease. He was 59 years old. The body was brought to port.

Van Wyck Pleads for Democracy to Get Together.

In the interest of the harmony movement instituted to bring about peace and concerted action between the adherents of State Senator Patrick McCarren, Democratic leader of Brooklyn, and the members of the party who have been opposed to the senator's leadership, former Supreme Court Justice Augustus Van Wyck during the evening addressed the "provisional committee of twenty-one," which was appointed to take charge of the party in Kings county during the approaching municipal campaign.

Judge Van Wyck, who was chosen as chairman of the committee, said:

"In our local politics, as unfortunately in wider fields, the forces lined up in opposition to the Republican party have for many years seemed to glory in separation and a multiplicity of factions. This has naturally resulted in a disastrous retrenchment in power of the Republican party until it seemed as if the great historic Democratic party was facing its final dissolution.

"Now the time has come for a reunited Democracy throughout the country. In Brooklyn and in the nation the Democracy must recover and reassert its rightful place in the economy of society. We must all assist in a mighty effort to make the Democratic party triumphant in state and nation."

Irish Cook Leaves Her Wealth to a Negro.

Bridget Torpy, an Irish woman, who for twenty-seven years was a cook in the family of Mrs. N. B. Taft of 46 West Twenty-fifth street, died at the age of 70 in a house tenanted by negroes at 221 West Eighteenth street on May 13 last. Some time previously she had left Mrs. Taft's employ and was succeeded as cook by James Edward Johnson, a negro, who had been her assistant. Johnson lives in the house where Miss Torpy died.

A will was produced during the day and filed for probate with the surrogate, which bequeaths the woman's entire estate to Johnson. The document was attested by the testatrix's mark, as she was unable to write her name.

The petition accompanying the will gives the value of the estate as "more than $10,000" in personal property, but according to her former employer, Miss Torpy left at least $30,000.

David Belasco's Daughter First of June Brides.

The first of the fashionable June weddings took place during the day at Sherry's, when Miss Reina Belasco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Belasco, became the bride of Morris Gest. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Rudolph Grossman. The only attendant of the bride was her sister, Miss Augusta Belasco. William Elliott was best man. There were no ushers. The bride and bridegroom will sail Saturday on their honeymoon.

Woman Stabbed by Shea Makes Formal Complaint.

Alice Walsh, who was stabbed on May 29 by Cornelius P. Shea, the former national president of the teamsters' union, appeared in the Jefferson market police court during the day to make a complaint of felonious assault against Shea. She bears many marks of a knife on her face and neck. Magistrate Steinert sent her to the house of detention as a witness.

RICH INDIANA MAN ENDS LIFE AT THE TURTLE LAKE CLUB.

Jesse Fletcher of Indianapolis Shoots Himself as Result of Ill Health—Act a Shock to Friends.

Alpena, Mich., June 1.—[Special.]—Jesse Fletcher, aged 46, a wealthy retired business man of Indianapolis, committed suicide last night in his room at the Turtle Lake club in Montmorency county, about thirty miles southwest of this city. He had been in poor health for some time.

Mr. Fletcher, after spending the fall and winter traveling in California with George N. Pierce of Buffalo, came here about three weeks ago with Harry S. New of Indianapolis. Mr. Fletcher was not well when he arrived and several days ago became sick. Last night, while in his own room at the club, he fired a bullet from his rifle through his head, dying instantly. It is believed that his illness had unbalanced his mind.

Shock to Indianapolis Friends.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 1.—News of the suicide of Jesse Fletcher was a shock to social and business circles in Indianapolis. Mr. Fletcher belonged to one of the most prominent of the old Indiana families.

KEMP TRIAL IS POSTPONED.

Deferring of Prosecution Consented To Because of Illness of Little Son of Attorney Platt.

State's Attorney Wayman consented yesterday to an indefinite postponement of the trial of the Rev. Robert Morris Kemp, former rector of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, because of the illness of Attorney Henry Russell Platt's 7 year old son. The minister, who was indicted on charges made by choir boys of his former church and bellboys at the Auditorium Annex, probably will be placed on trial the latter part of July.

DOG FED WITH DOG SEEMS ANSWER TO PROTEIN THEORY.

Londoner Finds Scientific Justification of Cannibalism in Seeking Food Efficiency.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 1.—Scientific justification of cannibalism was propounded by Dr. F. Gowland Hopkins in an address at the Royal Institution today.

"What would be the most efficient protein for men?" he asked. "Clearly, although not a point of practical dietetics," he answered himself "the most sensible person in this connection is the cannibal. In consuming his own kind he is eating exactly the right stuff, though it may seem grewsome.

"The experiment of a worker in Heidelberg university just lately proved this point. He found that a dog, when fed with dog, was able to do with a much smaller quantity of protein than when fed with any other protein.

"Whatever there is in the chemistry of species the nearer the two species of animals are together the more nearly does the chemistry of their bodies agree."

ENGLAND SEES PICTURE LOST.

Subscriptions to Purchase Holbein's Portrait of Christina Not Ready When Option Expires.

LONDON, June 1.—Crowds of the curious stand daily before Holbein's portrait of Christina, duchess of Milan, in the National gallery, wondering how soon it will go to America, which is now regarded as it ultimate destination.

The period of option for its purchase by the nation expired today, but the promised subscriptions are nowhere near the purchase price, which is fixed at $350,000, and it was expected that Colnaghi & Co., who paid $305,000 to the duke of Norfolk for the famous painting, would remove it when the gallery closed tonight.

It is still hanging in its accustomed place, however, and Sir Charles Holroyd, director of the gallery, although he confessed he had no information on the subject, seemed hopeful that another period of delay would be granted.

Negro Arrested as Abductor.

James Tremble, alias "Kid" Tremble, a colored prize fighter, was arrested yesterday on complaint of Mrs. Rosie Molipe, white, 355 Morgan street, that he abducted her daughter Rosie, 20 years old, who also is in custody.

AIRSHIP IS NEARING MANZELL AFTER VOYAGE MAKING RECORD

Zeppelin's Sky Craft Makes Successful Landing in Order to Get Fresh Supply of Gas.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, June 1.—The Zeppelin airship is expected to arrive at Manzell at daybreak on its return trip from Bitterfeld. Following temporary repairs, the airship ascended at Geoppingen yesterday afternoon and headed toward Friedrichshafen. It landed at 9 o'clock last evening near Biberach, which is about forty miles from Friedrichshafen, as it was necessary to replenish the gas, a supply of which was shipped from here. The landing was effected without difficulty.

Count Zeppelin, accompanied by a large number of military officers, followed the airship by automobile across country, always keeping the craft in sight, in order to render assistance if needed. The ship, however, made excellent progress and met with no mishap.

The balloonets were filled by midnight and the bensine tank also was replenished, as a considerable quantity of bensine had been thrown out during the trip in order to keep aloft. The airship resumed its journey at 12:40 a. m.

ALFONSO INJURED AT POLO.

Spanish King Thrown from Horse and Suffers Sprained Ankle—Continues to Play Game.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MADRID, June 1.—While playing polo yesterday King Alfonso was thrown from his pony and one of his ankles was slightly sprained. He continued playing for twenty-five minutes after the accident. Inquirers at the palace were assured his injury was slight. His usual occupations have not been interrupted.

POPE SEVENTY-FOUR YEARS OLD

MAYOR SUSTAINS BEACH ORDINANCE

Lets Signature Stand When Lawyer Suggests a Contest in the Courts.

BID FOR AUTOS OPPOSED.

Ald. McCoid Declares City Sold Machines to Homan Garage at a Sacrifice.

Surprise was expressed by members of the city council last evening that the ordinance requiring frontage consents for the maintenance of bathing beaches was not brought up. The explanation came in a statement that Mayor Busse had determined to let his signature remain on the document and that by that fact it had become a law.

Further inquiry by those interested in the north shore beaches which were hit by the measure, since they were not operated under license last year, disclosed that the mayor's action had followed a declaration of independence by attorneys representing the owners of the beaches unintentionally hit.

Attorneys Elmer Schlesinger and Charles A. Churan called on the mayor in the afternoon and "advised" him that he would better revoke his signature, as the law would be shown unconstitutional. His reply was that if they were so confident they could go ahead and fight it out in the courts.

Proposes to Regulate Beaches.

That accounted for the silence in the council meeting that bewildered the beach representatives who sought information from Ald. Winfield P. Dunn, chairman of the license committee, which recommended the ordinance for passage at a previous meeting.

"The mayor has not revoked his signature," said Ald. Dunn, "and under the circumstances with the ordinance in the hands of the city clerk I understand it becomes a law at once. It has been agreed by the attorneys of the beaches which operated without licenses last year that the question will be taken into court at once and settled. If they win the beaches will have a right to continue in business."

Another statement by Ald. Dunn indicated that the beaches in question might have a second chance to continue operation if they lose in the legal contest.

"At the next council meeting," he said "I shall introduce an ordinance for the regulation of bathing beaches. The residents of the north shore do not object to the beaches themselves, but to the manner in which they are conducted. Regulation may remove some of the objections."

Bid for City Autos Criticised.

Plans of the financial department of the city received a setback when Ald. Arthur B. McCoid protested against the sale of the city automobiles for $6,400 to purchasers represented by Daniel D. Healy. The finance committee had approved of this bid, which was made at a private sale, and it was rumored that the ten machines had been delivered. The case also had been complicated by the acceptance by the controller's office during the afternoon of the bid of the same people—the Homan garage—for automobile service to city officials on a scale ranging from $2.50 to $3 an hour.

"I think $6,400 is a small price for those machines," objected Ald. McCoid when the sale was brought up for approval by Ald. Bernard W. Snow, chairman of the finance committee. "They cost the city $30,000 only a short time ago. If I weren't an alderman I would bid more than that for them myself. I would bid now $7,000 on sight without examining the machines."

Ald. Coughlin added that the engines alone ought to be worth $6,000. Ald. Powers questioned the value of the service to be given by the same machines sold by the city, and Ald. Snow, on the request of Ald. McCoid, consented to let the matter go over one week.

Lighterage Lease Is Upheld.

The question of the rights of the Chicago Lighterage company to occupy the stub ends of ten north side streets, raised officially by Ald. Koraleski, was said to have been disposed of by opinion from Assistant Corporation Counsel Barge. Its conclusion was:

"We are of opinion that this lease is in proper form and is one that the city had full power and authority to make. We are of the opinion that the corporation is legally licensed to do business in this state."

The old attack on the rights of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad to occupy Bloomingdale road from Western avenue to Sawyer avenue, based on an opinion of the corporation counsel casting doubt on the road's claim, was revived by Ald. Biencoe and Ald. Litler of the Twenty-eighth ward. They had passed an order instructing the corporation counsel to proceed to compel the company to vacate the street.

Permit for Mail Tunnel.

Ald. W. J. Pringle called up the report of the committee on gas, oil, and electric light and had passed the ordinance permitting the Postal Pneumatic Tube company to construct a five foot tunnel under the river west of Wells street to connect the postoffice with the Northwestern railroad depot. He also had passed an ordinance reducing the scale of charges for electrical inspection of motors and generators of more than fifty horse power.

Chairman Snow of the finance committee had passed the action of the committee in approving the payment to George W. Jackson, Inc., $75,000 from the reserve due the firm on the southwest land tunnel contract on condition of its replacement by a bond, and the committee's settlement for $7,500 of the city's claim against Joseph Hanreddy, a paving contractor, for his refusal to resurface Wabash avenue between Twelfth and Twenty-second streets.

Ald. Francis W. Taylor had referred to the judiciary committee an ordinance prescribing a penalty from $5 to $100 for the unnecessary blowing of steamship whistles.

By resolution the next meeting of the council was set for next Tuesday evening, Monday being election day.

HILDRETH AND HUMMEL QUIT: POWELL CHOOSES OLD FRIEND.

W. A. Moulton Named to Succeed Assistant Treasurer, Who Resigns with Assistant Cashier.

Harry Hildreth Jr., assistant city treasurer and Democratic opponent of Isaac N. Powell, the successful candidate for treasurer in the recent election, and Ernst Hummel Jr., son of former Treasurer Hummel, resigned from the city service yesterday.

Mr. Hildreth's resignation had been predicted because of his political opposition to Mr. Powell and his campaign criticism of the administration's handling of the traction fund.

Mr. Powell immediately chose an old friend, William A. Moulton, of the lumber firm of Gillis & Moulton, to succeed Mr. Hildreth.

Representatives of the four railroads involved in track elevation at Grand Crossing agreed in the afternoon to proceed with the work at once.

The Lake Shore and Pennsylvania will cross above the Illinois Central at Seventy-fifth street, twenty-seven feet above the street level. The Nickel Plate will pass under the Illinois Central at Eighty-first street, turn and proceed along that road's right of way and under the Pennsylvania and Lake Shore at Seventy-fifth street.

The council committee on local industries refused to approve the proposition of the Pennsylvania system, which, with the Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul roads, occupies a long stretch of West Water street with about fourteen tracks, that compensation for $8,000 for eleven of the tracks be paid to the city and that the question of compensation for the others be fought out in court.

The committee made a counter proposition that the roads pay the usual compensation for all the tracks and that for the tracks in dispute as soon as a court decision is reached.

Alphonse and Eva Dufour Freed.

Indictments against Alphonse and Eva Dufour, alleged "white slavers," were dismissed before Judge Scott yesterday pursuant to the United States Supreme court decision declaring unconstitutional the immigration law prohibiting the harboring of alien women for immoral purposes.

Cut Down Your Store Lighting Bill

The Tungsten Cluster rental charge has been twice reduced from $1.50 per month—first to $1.25, now to $1.00 per month. This charge includes wiring, fixtures, lamp renewals and care, and covers 3 hours use of lamps per day—exclusive of light which is furnished on regular meter basis. Slightly increased charge for over 3 hours use per day.

The Tungsten Cluster

Gives a pure white light of great brilliancy, without flare, heat or flame, at a very low cost. With the same cost for current, the volume of light is over double that of ordinary carbon filament lamps. For store interiors and show windows the Tungsten Cluster is most economical.

At Electric Shop, our show rooms, corner Michigan and Jackson Boulevards, an interesting feature is the demonstration by comparison of the lighting efficiency of various types of electric lamps. Visitors always welcome.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

INSURANCE HEADS PAY OUT MILLIONS

Figures in Fifteen Leading Cities Show New York First with $32,823,432.

CHICAGO A GOOD THIRD.

Largest Claim in Illinois That of L. D. Kneeland, $105,000; 60 Others Over $10,000.

New York, June 1.—[Special.]—The year 1908 was a year of practically no progress for life insurance organizations, according to computations which will be published in the Insurance Press tomorrow.

The grand total paid out by all companies in the United States and Canada during the year is estimated at $480,811,000. The amount paid to insured persons or their beneficiaries in the forms of matured endowments, death claims, or other benefits total $330,811,000.

Payments for dividends and for surrender values and to annuitants and foreign policy holders are estimated at $150,000,000.

To some extent the falling off is believed to be due to the extension of the business disturbance during the last months of 1907. The effects of adverse legislation begun in 1906 also were toward the reduction of protection through the decrease of agency forces and the limitations on the business.

Returns from fraternal societies showed in most cases considerable declines in amounts paid in, indicating for them the effect of the hard times.

Policy Loans Show Increase.

According to the returns to the insurance department of the state of New York there was an apparent increase of more than $55,450,000 in loans on policies in 1908. At the close of the year the charge against policyholders for loans on their policies in companies that reported was $362,029,417, reducing the insurance protection of $10,497,923,599 to $10,135,894,182. The apparent increase of the loans on policies by the companies that reported to the state of New York in 1907 was $72,587,325, as compared with the increase of $27,270,820 in 1906.

In the estimate of the payments of all kinds to the amount of $480,811,000 in 1908 the amount paid for lapsed, surrendered, and purchased policies by all of the regular life insurance companies in the United States was more than $74,000,000, indicating an effect of the financial scare. The amount for the similar account in 1907 was about $59,000,000.

Partly Offset by Dividends.

An offset, in part, to the amount paid for surrendered policies was the amount of dividends paid to persistent policyholders, the returns of companies to the New York department showing nearly $52,840,000, an apparent increase of $7,730,000.

Concerning the formation of "wild cat" companies and their operation the Insurance Press says:

"The horde of new companies on the stock plan was enlarged by appeals to local pride and promises of large returns to stockholders. Already the promises of some of the promoters in the early part of the period of agitation have not been fulfilled. Utter failure must result in many instances. The public should beware of gold brick schemes. Especially should the eyes of the people be open in the south and the west.

Illinois Pays Out $20,200,000.

The figures show that in Illinois $20,200,000 was paid out by insurance companies and the sum of $8,705,570 was distributed among Chicago beneficiaries. The distribution in the leading states was as follows:

New York	$65,000,000
Pennsylvania	36,000,000
Massachusetts	24,200,000
Illinois	20,200,000
Ohio	17,500,000
New Jersey	15,000,000
Missouri	9,000,000
Indiana	7,450,000

The payments in the leading cities were as follows:

1. New York (Manhattan, Brooklyn, The Bronx), N. Y.	$32,823,432
2. Philadelphia, Pa.	13,078,566
3. Chicago, Ill.	8,705,570
4. Boston, Mass.	6,175,368
5. Pittsburg, Pa.	4,650,772
6. Baltimore, Md.	4,286,115

14. Minneapolis, Minn.	1,693,647
15. Cleveland, O.	1,628,583

Kneeland Claim Is $105,000.

In the United States and Canada there were more than 2,100 separate payments of $10,000 and over. The biggest claims, one of $535,000 and one of $332,000, were Pennsylvania cases. There were six payments of more than $300,000 and thirty-five between $100,000 and $200,000. The largest claim paid in Illinois was that of Lorenzo D. Kneeland of Chicago, which was for $105,000. Baptist Association Celebration.

The celebration of the seventy-fourth anniversary of the Chicago Baptist association will open June 3 and continue for two days at the Normal Park church, Seventieth street and Stewart avenue. Among the speakers will be Prof. Shailer Mathews and Prof. Allan Hoben.

Will Become Bride of City Librarian.

Harriette Amy Johnson.

Carl B. Roden, the new librarian of the Chicago public library, and Miss Harriette Amy Johnson of 3 Buena terrace will be married in St. James Episcopal church this afternoon. Mr. Roden obtained the position of librarian through the civil service, heading the list of those who sought the position formerly held by Frederick H. Hild. Miss Johnson is 18 years old and has devoted much of her time to literary pursuits.

ASK BOMB OR GAS? POKER OR WHIST?

Police Hold to First Theory, but Firm at 261 Wabash Avenue Takes Issue.

INSISTS "ALL WAS WELL."

J. H. Dimery Says His Tenant, the Southern Club, Was Innocent of Gambling.

J. H. Dimery, president of the T. W. Wilmarth company, 261 Wabash avenue, last night stated that he will have witnesses, if necessary, to testify respecting conditions in the rooms of the Southern Whist club on the fourth floor previous to the explosion which wrecked the interior of the building on Monday night.

Mr. Dimery said that his firm leased the fourth floor of the building to the club, and that the afternoon preceding the explosion players in the club were driven out by the smell of gas prior to 6 o'clock, and that personally he knows the club to have been closed at that time.

As to whether the organization was a gambling club, Mr. Dimery said he was of the opinion that its size and appointments did not merit the designation; that H. Levy, who signed the lease, in his opinion was not a gambler. However, Mr. Dimery granted the theory that the elusive bomb artist of the gambling world who has been perpetrating a series of explosions may have been responsible for the explosion about which there is much dispute.

Calls It Question of Time.

"It is difficult to say whether the message to the City Press association said to have been telephoned by a man calling himself 'the bomb thrower' reached there just before or just after the explosion," said Mr. Dimery. "If it reached there before the explosion I am free to admit that it must have been a bomb that did the damage.

"As to the Southern Whist club, Mr. Levy was one of the signers of the lease and so far as I know there was nothing up there worthy of the name of gambling. The only paraphernalia consisted of one or two round tables such as might be used in a private residence for card games and a pool table or two.

"Today a man came to me and said he would testify that the smell of gas was so strong in the rooms in the afternoon that it was found necessary to close the place. I was in the building about a quarter to 6 and the club was closed then."

The recipients of the telephone message said that it arrived about the same time that the fire alarm was rung in.

Bomb Thrower "Starting Again."

The message Monday night was as follows: "This is the bomb thrower again. I've just touched off one at 261 Wabash avenue. There is a gambling place on the top floor there. I haven't done anything for a good while, but I'm starting again."

Assistant Chief of Police Schuettler and Inspector Patrick J. Lavin made visits to the building, the interior of which had been wrecked by the explosion. The police were noncommital in expressing opinions as to the cause of the explosion and said they would investigate in an effort to determine the real cause. They leaned to the gas theory, however. Chief of Police Shippy ordered all policemen to exercise the utmost vigilance in reporting gambling.

A police guard was placed at the building and ingress to the rooms of the Southern Whist club was obtainable only by the back way and by stealth. There was no denial that card playing took place there, although the kind of card playing was left to speculation. Some "dope" sheets were found, but whether bookmaking was going on in the place also was left to speculation.

The firemen who investigated the explosion held to the bomb theory, for the reason that they believe that had the explosion been caused by gas there would have been flames.

Fined for Poker Playing.

Michael Mitchell, 172 West Fourteenth street, who was arrested with eleven other men Saturday evening by detectives from the Maxwell street station, while, it is charged, they were playing poker, was fined $25 by Municipal Judge Beitler at the Maxwell street court in the morning.

The other men were discharged after they had been cautioned by Judge Beitler to refrain from playing cards for money.

MRS. THOMAS FEARS FOR LIFE

Wife of Cubs' Secretary, in Divorce Plea, Charges Threats.

NAMES MRS. LOKER IN SUIT.

Wife of Printing Foreman Says 'Hubby' Told Her to Hang Herself.

Charles H. Thomas, secretary of the "Cubs" National league baseball club, was made defendant in a suit for divorce filed in the Circuit court yesterday afternoon by May V. Thomas, who names Mrs. Helen Loker, 522 Byron street, co-respondent. The action is the result of an unexpected visit by Mrs. Thomas early Sunday morning to the home of Mrs. Loker. At the time Mrs. Thomas was supposed to have been in Milwaukee.

The Thomases, who live at 1131 Winona avenue, were married August 15, 1896, at Brooklyn. The date of the final separation is given as Sunday.

According to the plea of Mrs. Thomas, her husband was in the company of Mrs. Loker, May 26, and at other times since their marriage had been with her, or "divers other women," none of whose names are mentioned.

Charges Threats to Kill.

The complainant also asks that Thomas be enjoined from seeking to dispose of their household furniture or automobile, which, she says, he had threatened to do. Further, she asks that the court enjoin him from trying to molest her or carry into effect threats he is said to have made to kill her. Thomas is said to have an income of $200 a month.

Told to Go Hang Herself.

Mrs. Minnie G. Binmore, 707 Spaulding avenue, filed a bill for separate maintenance in the Superior court yesterday. Her husband is Urbain H. Binmore, a printing foreman employed by the Huschman & Cardy Printing company. They were married Aug. 19, 1899, and separated recently.

Mrs. Binmore ascribes much of her domestic infelicity to her husband's aversion for children. She declares that her husband refuses to take her anywhere, and has often told her to go out in the barn and hang herself, or he would aid her. In her complaint she sets up that her husband earns from $40 to $50 a week, and that he has a bank account.

Judge Barnes enjoined Binmore from entering the home or from disposing of his money, and also from interfering with their two children, Evangeline, 9, and Minnie, 2 years old.

CAR CUTS PIPE LINE IN WRECK.

Axle Breaks and Derails Fright Near Crown Point, Ind., and Oil and Gasoline Flow.

One of the sixteen cars that were ditched in the wreck of fast freight train No. 1766 on the Erie railroad broke the Indiana pipe line near Crown Point, Ind., yesterday, and a stream of oil shot skyward. A tank car was smashed and all the gasoline ran out. The train crew escaped injury. An axle on the sixth car broke while the train was running at the rate of thirty miles an hour. Passenger and freight trains were delayed all day.

VOTE DOWN THE MOTION.

The motion to reconsider the vote by which the state senate passed the asylum reorganization bill should not prevail. It will not if senators put the interests of the asylums and their inmates above those of some local bankers, merchants, and trustees. The latter have a fixed idea that the asylums exist largely for their benefit or that they have some vested rights in connection with them which should not be rudely disturbed.

If supplies of different kinds were purchased for the asylums by one agency they would not cost the state so much as when bought separately for each asylum by its officials. But then supplies would not be bought in "the home market." Local dealers would lose trade. If the money appropriated for the asylums remained with the state treasurer until needed and none of it were deposited in local banks by asylum boards of trustees the profits of those banks would be slightly diminished. There are seventeen boards of trustees which would lose much of their power and importance if the reorganization measure were a law.

These are the selfish influences that have been working assiduously and quietly against the introduction of business methods in connection with the charitable institutions. But for these influences there would have been no opposition to the reorganization bill. All who have friends in the institutions should understand this. Then, if the motion to reconsider were to prevail and the senate to defeat a measure which would add greatly to the comfort and happiness of the inmates of the asylums, they will know why it was defeated.

THE CLOTHING DUTIES.

With the clothing duties what they are the man who imported a summer suit of the quality retailing here for $15 would have to pay on it a duty of $4.76. On a winter suit of the same cost he would have to pay $5.64. The same duty would be collected on a $15 winter overcoat. Neither the house nor the senate tariff bill reduces the duties which such goods would have to pay, although they are prohibitive. If the duties were lowered the consumer would get his suits and his overcoat for less money.

Woolen underwear costing $1.50 at retail is imported to some extent. The duty is 41½ cents, or over one-fourth of the retail price. On woolen hose retailing for 50 cents the duty is 13 cents. On 25 cent cotton hose the duty is 65 cents a dozen, and the framers of the Payne bill would raise it to 85 cents. On women's cotton dresses retailing at $10 the duty is $2.55. Neither the committee on ways and means nor the committee on finance recommends a lower duty.

These are interesting figures for all who have small incomes. The wage earner with a family who makes about $1,000 a year finds food the largest item of expenditure. Next comes rent, usually, and then clothing. It uses up about 15 per cent of his income. If he could buy for himself, his wife, and his children clothing which would be cheaper either because less was asked for it or because it was of better quality, and hence lasted longer, he would have more money to put in the savings bank, to invest in life insurance, or to buy more home comforts. If there were no duty on tapestry rugs he could buy for $10 one which would now cost him $15.

The senate has reached the cotton schedule. Now is the time for it to do something tangible for the wage earners. If there are senators who are interested in cotton or woolen mills, and the profits which they are making under the Dingley law, those senators should forget their personal concern in the matter and vote on the side of the consumers. A downward revision of the clothing schedules would reconcile the men and women consumers to any sins of commission or omission congress may be guilty of in connection with the other schedules.

THE FAIR AT SEATTLE.

"The snowy mountains, which are considered a part of the fair, loomed up grandly." The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition is open. The president of the United States has touched the golden key that was sent him as a souvenir of the formal opening of the gates in response to the electric flash across the continent. And following that electric current many American citizens will seek the northwest corner of the country in coming months.

"What went ye out to see?" will be the query. Not exposition grounds or buildings. Not great structures filled with machinery or fancy woods or other exhibits of the Pacific northwest, of Alaska, of Hawaii. The world is tired of expositions. It is the grander exhibit of nature that will attract. The carefully prepared grounds of the University of Washington furnish the localized objective point. But the snowy mountains looming up grandly on the horizon, and all the wealth of natural resources of the region beyond the Rockies have the real drawing power.

To thousands of citizens of the United States the words "the great west" mean little. They are provincial as a rule. The New Englander is provincial. So is the New Yorker. So, in less degree, is the resident of Illinois who has never crossed the great divide. What the observing eye sees on the long trip to the Pacific coast and what the reflecting mind stores up in its treasure house of memory are worth far more than the displays in the artistic buildings or the passing amusements of the "Pay Streak."

"This Country of Ours" was the title of a little book prepared by former President Benjamin Harrison. It was the personal pronoun that attracted attention. The country is "ours." The exposition at Seattle was designed to exploit the resources of Alaska and of other possessions on the Pacific. It was to emphasize the expansion of territory far beyond the original continental bounds. It will do that, incidentally perhaps. But the real positive value is likely to be in the enlargement of vision on the part of those fortunate citizens who are able to make the transcontinental trip during coming weeks.

PERMANENT TRAFFIC BUREAU.

The problems of the carrier and the shipper are many. They take various forms. Some of them are comparatively easy of solution. Others are troublesome and perplexing. That there is much friction all the time is apparent from the constant complaints noted in the newspapers. The proposal to establish a permanent traffic bureau under the auspices of the National Association of Manufacturers is based upon what seems to be a real need of the situation.

Such an organization, wisely managed, might accomplish a good deal. The outline of its possible activities includes the study of the simplification of tariff construction, uniformity of state and national laws governing the regulation of carriers, carload ratings, prompt settlement of claims, uniform classifications, pooling of freight from the shipper's side, unwarranted increases in carload minimums, and similar subjects. The committee appointed last year, when the proposed increase of 10 per cent in rates stirred the shippers, believes that the establishment of the bureau might be attended by many advantages.

If the problems were attacked intelligently this bureau might be instrumental in giving the interstate commerce commission material assistance. Some of the contentions of shippers have solid and substantial basis. Others have little to support them. The commission wastes much valuable time in considering cases of little merit. A permanent traffic bureau, working from the viewpoint of shippers, might quickly establish principles and recognized rules which would serve to discourage appeals in some instances as well as to indicate the right line of procedure in others where definite and positive action is essential. The savings on the negative side often are overlooked. But the records of the interstate commerce commission show many illustrations of the need of a repressive agency.

The desirability of the bureau for aggressive work is granted. The other aspect is worth some consideration.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

A Memorial day feature was the decoration of the grave of Andrew Johnson in the cemetery of Greeneville, Tenn. Perhaps 5,000 people witnessed the ceremony. In connection with the other events on the program the "Andrew Johnson Memorial association" was organized. There were some present who proclaimed with pride that they had known the man of the hour in the stormy days of the civil war. A son of Tennessee came from New York to set forth in glowing eloquence the homely virtues of one who has been little esteemed by his countrymen.

The loyalty of Johnson in standing by the union when other southern senators left the capital to join the confederacy has been overlooked. Long after his native state had withdrawn to cast its lot with the other seceding commonwealths Tennessee, out of the union, was represented by this uncompromising man in the upper house at Washington. As Lincoln's first appointed military governor he labored faithfully to restore the state to its former proper practical place in the union. His fidelity won for him the vice presidency and led to his exaltation to the higher position when Lincoln died.

What followed as the difficulties of reconstruction thickened everybody knows. The widening of the breach between the president and congress was inevitable, perhaps. The temper of the former southern Democrat was distinctly different from that of the gentle hero from Illinois whose successor fate made him. It is not hard to point out the stages of a conflict that left him outside the ranks of the party. The trend of events left him in an unfortunate position so far as the opinion of his contemporaries was concerned.

But there are a good many signs of a better feeling toward Johnson. It is reflected in many recent publications treating of the reconstruction period. The theories of the radical Republicans have not stood the test of the years as their advocates thought they would. And as things have developed the opinions of the president have gained greater favor in connection with the softening effects of time. The organization of an association to perpetuate the memory of Andrew Johnson will not bring him popularity. It may, however, help to secure a fairer appreciation of his merits, abundant allowance for his defects being made always.

IN A MINOR KEY.

Unseemly Conduct.

Mrs. Lapsling was in a high state of indignation.

"I'm done with Mrs. Whilks," she said, her eyes snapping. "She got hold of a letter I wrote to my brother, in which I said something about the Snaggses, and she's going around giving a gargled version of it."

Possibly?

Teacher—"What do you conceive to be the motive that leads people to wish to open communication with Mars?"

Young Man with the Bad Eye—"Well, I think they want to talk to Mars because every fruitful source of gossip on this planet has been exhausted."

Unforeseen Accident.

"It took you six hours to come from Fort Sheridan in your motor car? Did you have a breakdown?"

"Sort of one. I broke a speed ordinance in Wilmette. Cost me $15 for—er—repairs."

Retribution.

"A curse on the man that invented bald spots!" he exclaimed.

But the curse came home to roost, and roosted.

With the result that his head is as bald now as an eggplant.

Benches.

First Thespian (as they trudged wearily along)—"I've had my share of hard luck, but, by Jupiter, I've never yet been in the poorhouse!"

Second Thespian—"Well, I have. Zounds! I've played to many a one!"

Not Traveling Incog.

"Hi, there!" said the park policeman. "Keep of th' grass!"

The weary wayfarer who was lying in the shade of a huge oak tree turned his head languidly and looked at the sparrow cop.

"If you're talkin' to me, awficer," he said, "me name ain't Keepoff de Grasse. I ain't no nobleman in rejooced circumst'nces. I'm a independent American citizen, an' me name's Wareham Long."

Rolling a little farther away from the encroaching sunshine, he closed his eyes and went to sleep again.

Several Thousand Miles Removed.

Ruffon Wrats—"What is a wart hog?"

Saymold Storey—"It's a distant relation of the groundmole."

Turkish Lawyers Are Recognized.

[London Globe.]

Things are moving in Turkey, and it seems as if the advocate will no longer be looked upon as one possessing no calling nor even profession. The Young Turks have accomplished a veritable revolution. Henceforth the advocate will be permitted to have his note paper "headed," bearing his name, profession, address, and even the number of his telephone. The advocate, it is true, is not yet permitted to place on the paper the hours at which he can be consulted, nor can he have a tariff of honorariums.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

ALTHOUGH the duke of Buccleuch is comparatively unknown outside his army of relatives and his restricted circle of friends and acquaintances and would pass unnoticed in a crowd, yet his consort has long been a familiar figure at court, first as grand mistress of the robes to the late Queen Victoria and since the beginning of the present reign to Queen Alexandra, the grand mistress being the head of the entire feminine household of the queen. Moreover the duchess is celebrated as one of the most exclusive hostesses in London, who declines to invite any one to her entertainments who is not on her visiting list or to accept the hospitality of people whom she does not know. In fact, she is probably the most notable and powerful leader of the great world of the united kingdom, and, this being the case, more than ordinary interest is being manifested in the arrangements that are being made for the celebration of her golden wedding some weeks hence.

Time has dealt lightly with both the duke and duchess, and while the duke (who is both Knight of the Garter, Knight of the Thistle, captain general and commander of the king's ancient Scottish bodyguard of archers, as well as chieftain of the historic clan of Scott), looks considerably younger than his years, no one to see the duchess standing immediately to the rear of the queen at the courts at Buckingham palace would ever dream that she was over 73.

She is the eldest of the daughters of the late duke of Abercorn, "the duke" of Lord Beaconsfield's novel, "Lothair," and who was so magnificent in his appearance and in his ways that King Edward used to nickname him "Old Splendid." Among her sisters are the marchionesses of Blandford and of Lansdowne. Her nephews include the dukes of Roxburghe and of Marlborough. While her husband is the head of the clan of Scott, she may be said to dominate the so-called clan of "hungry" but comely Hamiltons, who with their matrimonial ramifications and affiliations are more influential than any other in English society.

Burke's "Peerage" and similar works of reference describe the sixth duke of Buccleuch, who is also eighth duke of Queensberry, as descended from "Sir Richard le Scot, a personage of great distinction in the reign of Alexander III. of Scotland and of Edward I. of England." Yet according to old Scottish tradition the dukes of Buccleuch are descended from an outlaw and a poacher who lived much earlier—namely: in the reign of King Kenneth Macalpine. It seems that the outlaw, John, was following the king and the latter's huntsmen through one of the royal forests. The stag which the king was stalking stood at bay in a narrow chasm or "cleuch," in border parlance, "and no man durst follow" but the outlaw John, who, "seizing the buck by the horns, threw it on its back, and, exhibiting a pretty enough feat of strength, threw it at the king's feet."

There was nothing left for the monarch to do but to revoke the decree of outlawry against John and to christen him "Buck Cleuch," or "Buccleuch." It is this John the outlaw, therefore, who was the founder of the great ducal house of Buccleuch in Scotland.

One of its members, Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch, figures in "The Lay of the Last Minstrel" as the laird who made a gallant but abortive attempt to rescue the Scottish king, James V., from the control of the earl of Angus. It was his great-grandson who was the first Lord Scott of Buccleuch and warden of the west marches, while his son Walter in turn was created first earl of Buccleuch, with remainder to his heirs, both male and female. This earl's granddaughter, Lady Anne, inherited all his vast estates, as well as his earldom of Buccleuch and minor dignities, and became the daughter-in-law of Charles II. through her marriage with his favorite son by Lucy Walters. Charles had created this son duke of Monmouth, but on Monmouth's marrying Lady Anne Scott he converted her earldom of Buccleuch into a dukedom.

Monmouth, it may be remembered, headed a rebellion against his uncle, King James II., firmly convinced that his mother had been married to King Charles and that he, therefore, had prior rights to the throne and was encouraged in his rising by all that Protestant element which had become offended by James' efforts to restore Roman Catholicism in England.

Monmouth was defeated, taken prisoner, convicted of high treason, and beheaded on Tower hill. But while his dukedom of Monmouth was attainted, his widow was left in undisturbed enjoyment of her dukedom of Buccleuch and of her own honors and vast estates.

Not that the duchess did not grieve for her husband. She was deeply attached to him, and when, after bidding him farewell on the eve of his execution in the tower of London, she retired first to Moor park in Hertfordshire and afterwards to Dalkeith, she caused the tops of all the oaks in the immense park there to be cut off as a curious token of mourning their master's decapitation. She had lost not only her husband but her only daughter.

The little Lady Anne had accompanied the duchess to the tower, and there Monmouth had given the child, as a farewell memento, one of those silken scarfs which the cavaliers of the day wore tied across their armor. This bit of silk the child refused to part with. Just a week after the ax fell on Tower hill the little girl was found dead in her crib at Moor park with Monmouth's scarf pressed tight against her lips. She was buried in Westminster abbey on Aug. 31, 1685, where her tomb is still to be seen to this day.

Dalkeith, the home of the duke and duchess of Buccleuch, near Edinburgh, is full of mementos of the duke of Monmouth, including the suit worn by him on the day of his execution. Dalkeith, indeed, is one of the most interesting places in all Scotland. It belonged first to the Grahams, who received it by a grant from King David I. From them it passed through marriage to the Douglases, who hospitably entertained there the famous historian Froissart, who describes it in his "Chronicles." It was purchased from them by the first duchess of Buccleuch in 1642. Almost every king of Scotland had sojourned beneath its roof.

Both James I. and Charles I. of England held court there. It likewise harbored for a time Oliver Cromwell, and it was in the dining room at Dalkeith that Gen. Monk planned the restoration of Charles II. George IV., Queen Victoria, and King Edward with Queen Alexandra have all in turn been guests at Dalkeith and have had an opportunity of admiring its priceless treasures, including the portrait of the duke of Monmouth, which is declared by experts to be the most perfect and valuable painting of Holbein in existence, chairs and tapestries embroidered by Mary Queen of Scots' own fingers and by her "four Marys," ebony cabinets inlaid with gold, presented by Louis XIV. to Charles II. and given by him in turn to his daughter-in-law, the first duchess of Buccleuch, the famous Bellenden banner of the Scots, centuries old, and recalling many a strange tale of border raid and foray, etc.

In fact, there is no end to the treasures of Dalkeith, which is still said to be haunted by the duke of Monmouth's ghost, who on the night of the anniversary of his execution is supposed to glide along beneath the shadow of the 400 year old trees of the superb avenue that bears his name. Incidentally it may be of interest to add that the dukes of Buccleuch hold Dalkeith by one of those strange and ancient tenures of the crown, which calls upon him on each feast of Pentecost or Whitsuntide to pay to the sovereign a pair of gloves or a silver penny. The duke and duchess of Buccleuch have about a dozen other country seats, but none to which they are so much attached or where they feel so much at home as at Dalkeith palace.

The duke's estates extend over some 600,000 acres of land in Scotland and in England, and in London he makes his home at Montagu house, Whitehall, one of the most stately mansions of the metropolis. Its great windows and majestic terrace look out on to the Thames embankment and to the river beyond. The duke and duchess have several sons and daughters. Their eldest boy was accidentally killed nearly a quarter of a century ago while out deer stalking in Scotland, and his younger brother, the present heir to the two dukedoms of Buccleuch and Queensberry, is a former lieutenant of the royal navy, bears the title of earl of Dalkeith, and is married to pretty Lady Margaret Bridgeman, daughter of the earl of Bradford.

Public Land and Cattle Prices.

Chicago, May 31.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—S. W. Allerton in a communication to THE TRIBUNE says the reason cattle are cheap is because the government will not permit him and others to fence in government lands for their private use in raising cattle.

On the contrary cattle are cheap and beef dear because of the existence of land monopoly. There is no reason why cattle cannot be raised at a profit on land which is not fenced in. There was probably more fencing in of government lands in former years than there has been since Roosevelt got after land stealers. How any individual can imagine that he has a right to appropriate 4,000 acres of other people's land for his own enrichment is utterly inconceivable.

Because the government, in the past, permitted men like Mr. Allerton to put a fence around large tracts of land and call it their property and build railroads on it, a transportation monopoly now exists which regulates the price of cattle and the price of beef.

As far as the cattle industry is concerned it will come out all right, because it is a big and necessary business, but that will be when all shippers pay equal rates and there are no discriminations in railroad rates—a state of affairs which is not as far off as some captains of industry may imagine.

E. C. BUECHLER.

Opposes Duty on Tea.

New York, May 30.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The proposition to tax tea 10 cents a pound in order to protect the tea industry of South Carolina is an insult to American intelligence. South Carolina, after over twenty-five years of work, produces on an average little more than 10,000 pounds yearly, and that with government assistance. The consumption of tea in the United States is about 100,000,000 pounds yearly. Shall 80,000,000 people be taxed for their tea for the benefit of a few holders and against the protest to the senate and house of consumers and wholesale, jobbing, and retail associations from all over the United States?

The poorer classes now pay 25 to 35 cents a pound for their tea (not 60 to 65 cents, as falsely stated), which can be verified by inquiry at any retail grocery store. A tax of 10 cents a pound would simply mean that the price to the consumer would be increased that much.

There is no tea trust, hence competition is keen and the retailer for his own protection cannot ask excessive profits.

FRED C. WILLIAMS.

Suggests a Traction Guide Book.

Chicago, June 1.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have been in Chicago on a waiting business for several weeks, and to pass the time have been endeavoring to see the city from the street and elevated cars, but found great difficulty in laying out trips from day to day.

There is no satisfactory map or guide book to give the needed information how to go out one way and back another way, with the transfer points so plainly marked that a stranger would know what to do. It strikes me that this is a great oversight in the management of the traction lines, and if provided would lead to an immense business which would cost little extra to carry on.

There are, I judge, thousands of strangers in the city at all times, many of whom would utilize spare time in going around if they only knew where to go and how to get there.

A Man with a Suspicious Mind.

Chicago, June 1.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The editor of The Tribune got up on his hind legs and howled when he discovered that three city paid patrolmen were assigned to the Anti-Cruelty society, one city paid patrolman was assigned to the German Orphan asylum, and one city paid patrolman was assigned to the Children's Aid society, but had no complaint to make over the fact that patrolmen in large numbers are daily assigned to the American and National league baseball parks and that hundreds of patrolmen desert their beats and neglect police duty to attend all big games. Perhaps Murphy and Comiskey do not understand the value of handing out a few season passes, and then again perhaps they do. Hypocrisy is loathsome at all times and in all places.

FRANK J. BAKER.

Believes Book Trust Exists.

Chenoa, Ill., June 1.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—For the benefit of President Schneider, who seems to think that Chicago is the whole state of Illinois, here are some of the probable reasons for the new school book law: For books that Chicago pays 68 to 75 cents, we out in the state pay $1.25; for books that you pay 50 cents, we pay 75 cents to $1. The average school director out in the state believes and has good evidence to believe that there is a school book trust. I was on the text book committee in my home town for years, and will say that there is little difference in the quality of the books of the different firms.

Dr. Robert J. S. Cruise of 1550 West Jackson boulevard, is 41. He is a Dublin product and a graduate of the Chicago College of Dental Surgery.

Dr. Arthur R. Elliott of 138 Lincoln Park boulevard was born in the province of Ontario 40 years ago.

William Howell of Pitkin & Brooks, whose home is at 1031 Evanston avenue, is 41. He is a native of Glasgow.

Edward D. Kimball of 4828 Kenwood avenue, president of the iron concern bearing his name, is 60. Hennepin, Ill., is his birthplace.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS

The Servant in the House.

"The Servant in the House" began a limited engagement at the Bush Temple on Monday, the performances of the present week being under the auspices and patronage of the Chicago Teachers' federation. The play was seen during a long run at Powers' last season and comes therefore with its popularity assured. It is a play which no one can see without being interested and without being bettered. For even a brief contemplating of the more earnest and better things in our social and soul lives cannot but result in some portion of good to the contemplator.

Thoughts are in truth things, and even the hastiest and most fleeting thinking of the good has its value. "The Servant in the House" has beauty, it has strength, it has meaning, and it has splendid theatric values. Its place, therefore, on the stage is an honorable one, and its presence in the local field is subject for congratulation.

The performance at the Bush Temple is in certain respects superior to those seen at Powers' during the former engagement. Tyrone Power still has the rôle of the drainman, and plays it with the same splendid understanding, the same manly tenderness, and the same evident affection for the rôle which made his former work so admirable. While to some his comedy in the second act when at the breakfast table may seem slightly extravagant and unnecessarily boisterous, yet this blemish—if blemish it be—does not prevent the portrayal from being one of exceptional strength and beauty. Mr. Power is an actor who acts, and both intelligence and rare technical facility are combined to make his work in high degree artistic, convincing, and satisfying.

The improvement of the present performances over the previous ones springs from the supporting company. Mr. Power's central figure remains a fixed quantity, but the players surrounding him are now better in their rôles than were their predecessors. Miss Jessie Glendinning is the present Mary, and she plays the rôle of the young girl with winning sweetness, charm, and naturalness. She is simple and direct, and in this freedom from all pose and affectation adds greatly to the betterment of the performance.

Frank Mills is now the Manson, and while he has not as yet developed quite so completely the spirituality of the grateful rôle as did Mr. Hampden, he does the part with beautiful sincerity, poise, and dignity. He has conceived the character along the right lines and doubtless will intensify and deepen his portrayal as he works into it. Frank Gilmore as the vicar suggests skillfully the struggle and the groping uncertainty of the man who is being roused to the incompleteness and falseness of the life he is leading. George Gaston gives an effective and well thought out presentment of the hypocritical Lord Bishop. Edith Crane makes a dignified and commanding figure of the vicar's wife, and Harold De Becker is wholly competent as the page boy. The staging is in the good taste that is expected in a Henry Miller production, and the performance moves with enjoyable smoothness.

The Greatest Gift.

Monday night at a benefit performance given at the People's theater for Manager Pilgrim of that popular west side house, a one act play of interest and merit was presented by Isabelle Randolph, John Prince, and Louis Kelso. It is entitled "The Greatest Gift," and is by C. W. Collins, dramatic editor of the Chicago Inter-Ocean. The playlet proved neat in construction, attractive in line, and effective in story. It is not strikingly novel, but familiar material is used with deftness.

A newspaper critic who has reached the age of 40, and is still unmarried, has become the devoted admirer of a girl just half his age. He has proposed and has been accepted, and on Christmas eve, returning to his rooms with his future brother-in-law, talks of his present and his coming happiness. The brother warns him that the sister is a bit of a joker, and tells him not to be misled by anything she may chance to do.

The lover writes a note to his sweetheart, and has scarcely finished it when she enters. She has come, she tells him, to make a confession. Her father is financially embarrassed and she is marrying the critic only for the wealth he possesses. The critic, shocked at the disclosure, ends by insisting upon her keeping her bargain, however, since she declares that no matter whom she marries she will marry only for money. She leaves, but returns, and he, realizing what a wrong he is doing her, releases her from her engagement, assuring her that the father shall have the financial assistance he needs, but that she must not sacrifice herself.

Then she tells him it all was a deception, that she does love him, and did what she had done only to test his affection and to discover the real man under the severe exterior of the critic. The realization of his love is "his greatest gift" to her.

The play is compact and direct, and barring an occasional line or phrase the wording of which is a bit highflown—"cryptic" and similar terms are a little over the range of general conversation—and the awful improbability, not to say impossibility, of picturing a dramatic critic as being the possessor of vast wealth, the little comedy is deserving of only the sincerest commendation.

Down at the American Music hall this week Eddie Foy is the headliner. His act is called "Hamlet by Freight," but save for one amusing short scene in which the graveyard episode in the Shakspearean tragedy is travestied, the offering has nothing to do with "Hamlet." It is a series of ridiculous "impersonations" in the true Foy manner, and has value, as does everything the capital comedian does, only because he does it. This is value sufficient so far as the audience at the American Music hall is concerned, and every utterance, every tone, every movement is received with the accustomed glee. Associated with Mr. Foy on the bill this week are Willa Holt Wakefield in planologue, J. J. Corbett and company in a one act farce, "A Thief in the Night," Joe Whitehead and Flo Grierson, Eddie Redway, Editha Helena the soprano, and the Wilton brothers.

At the Majestic the most important act on the bill is a sketch called "Circumstantial Evidence." It is played by twelve men—jurors—who in the jury room are endeavoring to agree upon a verdict. Eleven of them are unanimous for conviction, but the twelfth man holds out for acquittal. The eleven amuse themselves with cards and singing, but the one man remains apart. They twit him and finally accuse him of having been bribed and he ends by confessing that it was he who committed the crime and that while voting for conviction of the prisoner would mean his own freedom he cannot accept liberty at the price of an innocent man's death. One of the individual stars of the Majestic bill is Marie Dainton, the English mimic, who impersonates stars of the legitimate stage and favorites of the London music hall.

COME TO WAR ON CRIMINALS

Leaders in National Conference Deal with Many Subjects.

SEE NEED OF LAW'S REFORM.

Celebrates Anniversary of Founding Northwestern Law School.

Chicago is to be the criminal center of the United States next Monday and Tuesday, for here will meet on those two days, under the auspices of Northwestern university, the leaders in the great war on crime from all parts of the country.

The national conference on criminal law and criminology, with which the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Northwestern University School of Law will be commemorated, is expected to have important consequences in formulating and crystallizing twentieth century thought on the subjects dealt with. Acceptances have been received from scores of men of international reputation in their various lines, physicians, psychologists, criminologists, prosecuting officers, wardens, lawyers, penologists, and interested laymen.

The plan of the conference is unique in that there will be no set speeches and no formalities.

Topics Handled by Experts.

Thus specialists from all over the nation will be gathered to concentrate their attention on the matters with which they are most peculiarly conversant. The conference will close with a dinner at the University club Tuesday evening.

A few of the topics to be discussed show the range and interest of the conference:

1. The unnecessary multiplication of criminal laws as a cause of disrespect of, and disregard for, the law.

2. Needed reforms in the use of medical expert testimony, and the feasibility of establishing state commissions of specialists for expert testimony.

3. The problem of the jury system.

4. The problem of the simplification of judicial procedure by eliminating certain of the cumbersome and antiquated forms of the common law.

5. Limitations and restrictions on the right of appeal. To what extent should reversals for errors be permitted?

Solving Black Hand Crimes.

6. Measures for the supervision of suspects, especially in such matters as the "Black Hand" crimes.

7. Is irresponsibility coextensive with insanity?

8. The mixed high school as a factor in adolescent criminality.

9. Whether all technicalities in pleading and practice which do not affect the substantial rights of the accused should be disregarded.

Prof. Roscoe Pound of Northwestern University School of Law is chairman of the committee of organization. The executive subcommittee is composed of Prof. John H. Wigmore, Judge Orin N. Carter of the Supreme court, Judge Albert C. Barnes of the Superior court, Dr. Archibald Church, Dr. Henry B. Favill, Prof. Charles R. Henderson, Robert N. Holt, Frank J. Loesch, and Supt. John L. Whitman of the bridewell.

ARBITRARY POWER URGED FOR PRIVATE PHYSICIANS.

President James of University of Illinois Would Not Limit Authority to Health Officials.

Arbitrary power for all physicians in treating cases was advocated yesterday by Edmund J. James, president the University of Illinois, at the convocation of Rush Medical college in Mandel hall. Seventy-five students received their degrees. Dr. A. K. Parker, recorder of the University of Chicago, preached.

"I see no reason," he said, "that physicians delegated by political appointment to take certain liberties in securing public safety are any more justified in so doing than are other physicians. In cases affecting public safety and health the doctor should not be restricted in any way."

Dr. Henry Favill declared at the banquet in the evening that physicians should work in the slums and perform other social services in a philanthropic way, just as sociologists do.

"The shibboleth of medical organization is the public weal," he asserted. "If we seek power it is to that end, and whatsoever deflects us from that course is reprehensible."

He drew a sharp line between those who should and should not receive medical attention free.

MELLEN PROTESTS ON BOARD.

New Haven Road's President Says Political Control Will Injure the Company's Operation.

New Haven, Conn., June 1.—[Special.]—President Mellen of the New Haven road has sent an address to the Connecticut legislature emphatically opposing the bill for appointing a public utilities commission as injurious to the road. He said:

"This bill provides that a proposed political board shall dictate to the directors of the New Haven railroad the prices they must receive for its securities. The communities served by this company are growing in population and in magnitude of commerce. The company will in future have to add largely to its facilities in order to handle economically the increasing traffic and for this purpose it will require new capital in large amounts and the financial managers of the company need a free hand in the preparation of their financial plans.

"It is impossible to know what terms can be made with the bankers until the end of negotiations, and when these negotiations are concluded it is important to close the contract, but under the proposed law there can be no certain basis for financial negotiations until after a public hearing and a decision which may be delayed for months."

The New Haven road today officially announced the retirement of John F. Stevens, who has been vice president. Mr. Stevens left last night for St. Paul, where he will be given a commission by James J. Hill.

GALA WEEK AT ANNAPOLIS.

Board of Visitors Organizes by Electing George A. Sanderson of Chicago President.

Annapolis, Md., June 1.—"June week," the gala season of the year at the naval academy, opened today with the reception of the board of visitors appointed by the president and congress to inspect the national naval school and report upon its needs.

The board of visitors organized by electing George A. Sanderson of Chicago president. The list of honor men of the graduating class was made public. It follows:

CHANGES AT ART INSTITUTE

Architectural Terrace to Grace Front of the Building.

PLAN FOR A SUNKEN GARDEN

Construction of East Wing Will Increase the Hanging Space.

Announcements of important improvements in connection with the Art institute were made yesterday at the annual meeting of the board of trustees. One of them is an architectural terrace which will be a sort of pedestal for the institute.

It will consist of a stone wall with a balustrade at a distance of thirty of forty feet from the building. The south park commissioners have under consideration the formation of a sunken garden immediately south of the institute, with Lorado Taft's fountain of "The Great Lakes" placed against the east wall.

Subscriptions of about $100,000, headed with $25,000 from James A. Patten, have been received for the construction of the east wing, which is now building. The new galleries will increase the skylighted hanging space by about one-half.

Year a Profitable One.

The institute has 3,683 members—a gain of 361 over last year. The receipts from memberships have been $42,929. The attendance of visitors to the galleries has been 681,708, an increase over last year of 8,263.

The receipts of the museum department have been $100,800 and the expenses $108,120, a surplus of $1,679. In the school department the receipts have been $76,821 and the expenses $74,368. The income from endowments has been $18,127. The invested funds have increased $72,000 and the indebtedness has decreased about $8,000, a net gain of $80,000.

Bequests and gifts were reported as follows:

O. S. A. Sprague, bequest	$20,000
W. Moses Willner, bequest	80,000
Henry J. Willing, bequest	5,000
Joseph Brooks fair fund, for purchase of prints	15,000
Norman W. Harris prize fund	14,000

Seven Trustees Are Re-elected.

Trustees whose terms had expired were re-elected as follows:

Edward E. Ayer, Clarence Buckingham, John C. Black, Bryan Lathrop, John J. Glessner, R. Hall McCormick, Charles L. Hutchinson.

At the end of his thirtieth year C. L. Hutchinson and S. M. Nickerson are the only original trustees remaining.

The building and collections of the Art institute are estimated at something over $2,000,000, exclusive of land. There have been accessions of paintings and other works by Lepine, Betts, Weiss, Carlsen, Saint-Gaudens, French, and Blashfield.

With regard to the Donald Robertson plays the trustees disclaimed any intention of supporting him farther than to furnish a place for occasional performances.

SOCIETY AT NATION'S CAPITAL.

Secretary and Mrs. MacVeagh and Secretary Dickinson Will Visit Chicago This Week.

Washington, D. C., June 1.—[Special.]—The secretary of the treasury and Mrs. MacVeagh will leave here Thursday and go to Chicago. Secretary MacVeagh and Mr. Dickinson, secretary of war, will be guests at a banquet there Saturday night. After a few days in Chicago Secretary and Mrs. MacVeagh will return east, the secretary to remain here till congress adjourns, and Mrs. MacVeagh to go on to their country place at Dublin, N. H.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Beekman Winthrop and the party they took with them have returned to Washington, all but Miss Marion Oliver and Miss Josephine Durand, daughter of Sir Mortimer Durand. They have gone to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Otway Byrd, cousins of Miss Oliver, at their country place at Upper Brandon on the James river.

Mrs. Lewis More, sister of Mrs. Taft, is prolonging her visit with Mrs. Taft, though their father, Judge Herron, is on his way home to Cincinnati. Mrs. Taft's condition remains about the same and consequently there will be little or no entertainment for the young daughter of the house. Miss Helen Taft, who is home from Bryn Mawr.

Canon Henson of Westminster Abbey and Mrs. Henson have completed their visit at the British embassy and have left for Chicago. The British ambassador and Mrs. Bryce will leave Washington next week for Northeast Harbor, Me., where the embassy will be established for the summer.

GEOLOGISTS LEAVE FOR ALASKA

Prof. U. S. Grant and Northwestern University Students Will Spend Summer Exploring.

Prof. U. S. Grant and D. F. Higgins and F. Jacobson, geology students at Northwestern university, will leave tonight for Seattle to sail for Valdez, Alaska, where they will be met by four other students who left some time ago. Under the jurisdicton of the government geologic survey service they will explore the territory adjacent to Prince William sound and Cook inlet and the island of Kodiak, returning in the fall.

IN THE SOCIETY WORLD.

The suburbs gave most of the weddings for the first day of June. The most elaborate of the day was that of Miss Grace Lyda Jewell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Jewell, 324 South Euclid avenue, Oak Park, and Guy Bertram Kipney, which took place last night at the residence of the bride's parents, with some 400 friends and relatives as guests.

The bride chose one or two new features for her wedding service, chief of these being the absence of ushers, although there was a wedding party of fifteen. Eight girl friends stretched broad satin ribbon from the stairway to the parlors, where a complete altar and chancel rail of ferns and palms had been erected for the service.

The ribbon bearers were Miss Marie Hall, Miss Edith Furlong, Miss Ethel Hall, Miss Bess Bevington, Miss Mollie Hayes, Miss Gertrude Dungan, Miss Maud Hulbert, and Miss Loraine Cleary. All wore gowns of white lingerie, with knots of pink ribbon in their hair. Miss Mabel Earle, the maid of honor, wore white silk tissue over pink messaline and carried a shower bouquet of pink sweet peas. Miss Ethel Hill as bridemaid wore an empire gown of pink silk tissue over pink satin and also carried pink sweet peas.

Miss Jewell Herrick, cousin of the bride and her personal attendant—another wedding party feature created by the bride—wore pink chiffon over pink silk mull and carried a muff of maidenhair fern with tiny bows of pink baby ribbon falling in shower effect therefrom.

Little Esther Wells was a 4 year old flower maid and carried an ivory basket of lilies of the valley.

Instead of entering the drawing room with her father, the bride came in alone, and was met by Mr. Jewell a short distance from the altar just before she met the groom. Glenn Kerr as best man had the distinction of being the one man in the party of attendants. The service was performed by the Rev. William E. Barton.

The bride's gown was particularly elaborate. It was fashioned of ivory satin, with a train several yards in length. The bodice was embroidered in seed pearls and trimmed in duchess lace, with yoke and sleeves of baby Irish. An effective feature of the gown was a tunic of old lace which fell from the shoulders in bolero effect to the waist in front and in special pattern covering the entire back of the gown, reaching to the hem of the long train. The veil was of tulle and was held in place by a diamond tiara, the gift of the groom. The wedding flowers were orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinney have gone to New York and Atlantic City for their honeymoon, and will be at home on the north shore after Sept. 1.

The Rev. James S. Stone officiated at the marriage of Miss Louise Shoenberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Shoenberger, 567 East Division street, and Barret Conway, which was celebrated at 8 o'clock in the evening at St. James church. The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Edwin R. Shoenberger, was the maid of honor and Miss Nina McNally, Miss Della Conover, Miss Muriel Waite, and Miss Gladys Silsbee were the bridemaids. E. V. Conway, brother of the groom, was the best man and the ushers were Edwin R. Shoenberger, Norris B. Henrotin, Orville Taylor, and Frank Bryant. A reception followed at the family residence. Mr. and Mrs. Conway will live at 385 North State street.

The bride wore a gown of soft white satin, in which the long severe lines of the day predominated. The skirt was made with a great length of train and the bodice was cut high around the throat. Over it all fell the ample folds of the bridal veil, which parted over the bride's face and came together on her head under a crown arrangement of orange blossoms.

The bridemaids wore gowns exactly alike, consisting of white organdie with long trains and Dutch necks. The skirts just below the knees were decorated in a wide border of pink flowers, handpainted. The young women wore pink sashes and pink hats, and they carried great bouquets of pink peonies. The bride's bouquet was of white lilies.

The marriage of Miss May Pearl Dorr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Dorr of Berwyn, and the Rev. William Johnson Longley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Longley of Oak Park, was celebrated in the evening at the Berwyn Baptist church, the Rev. W. A. Abernethy, pastor of the church, officiating.

The bride wore a simple frock of white messaline with a short train and veil. She was attended by her sister, Miss Jennie Dorr, who wore a white lingerie gown made empire. Little Ruth Appleton, also in white, carried a basket of white enamel filled with rose leaves, which she scattered in the path of the bride. Miss Gertrude Longley, sister of the groom, and Miss Georgia Allen were the bridemaids, and carried pink roses and maidenhair ferns. Ten young girls in white led the bridal procession to the altar, singing the wedding march from Lohengrin. The groom, who was graduated on May 12 from the Baptist Theological seminary at Rochester, was served as best man by his classmate, P. J. Bolger, and the ushers were Robert W. Erskine of Champaign, Edward Greenberg of Wheaton, and William W. Lanterman, L. B. Dorr, the bride's brother, was master of ceremonies. A reception was held from 9 to 11 o'clock in the church parlors.

The Rev. and Mrs. Longley will leave today for a short wedding trip, and will return next week to prepare for their journey to the orient, where the Rev. Mr. Longley will take up missionary duties in south India. They will go directly to Portland, Ore., to attend the annual missionary conference in July, after which they will visit Seattle as the guests of the groom's brother, Ralph Longley, and attend the exposition. Early in September they will sail for their new home in the Teluga missionary fields.

The marriage of Miss Lucile B. Marks, daughter of Mrs. Harry M. Marks, 3434 Michigan avenue, and Elias Mayer, son of Mrs. Helen Mayer, was celebrated in the evening at 7 o'clock at the residence of the bride's mother, and was a service of prominence in Jewish circles. Dr. Hirshberg officiated. There were no attendants, and after the service the twenty guests were entertained at dinner.

The bride wore a gown of heavy white satin with long court train and waist and sleeves of rose point heirloom laces. A rose point wedding veil was caught with lilies of the valley and a shower bouquet of the lilies was carried. The decorations throughout the house were in pink orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Mayer will spend their honeymoon in the Adirondack mountains and will be at home after Sept. 1 at the Marks residence.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Murray, daughter of Mrs. Shade Murray, 203 East Forty-sixth street, and Frederick Cleland Lindsley was celebrated at 6 o'clock in the evening in Grace church chapel, the Rev. W. O. Waters officiating. Edwin Murray gave his sister in marriage. There were no attendants other than the flower girl, little Cornelia Murray, the small niece, who carried a basket of sweet peas and wore white muslin and lace with pink ribbons, and Murray Sandusky, the young nephew, who bore the ring. A dinner at the Annex followed. Mr. and Mrs. Lindsley will go west and later will live in Minneapolis.

The wedding of Miss Sarah Mears, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mears, 122 South Howard avenue, Austin, and Wilbur S. Kinne, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Kinne took place at 8:30 o'clock at night at the residence of the bride's parents, the Rev. Frank G. Smith, pastor of the Warren Avenue Congregational church, officiating. Only the immediate relatives and most intimate friends were guests. The bride wore an empire gown of white satin with train. The bodice was cut high and was heavily embroidered in seed pearls. Her flowers were bride roses and lilies of the valley in shower effect, her veil being held by a coronet of lilies. Miss Gladys Driscoll was the only attendant and wore an empire gown of pink liberty satin.

Edgar Hall served the groom as best man. After a wedding trip through the north Mr. and Mrs. Kinne will be at home at 5934 Ontario street, Austin, where they will receive their friends after Aug. 1.

The wedding of Miss Alice Marie Bates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marmaduke Bates, 5712 Ohio street, Austin, and Horace Roy Denton took place at 7:30 o'clock in the evening at the First Presbyterian church, the Rev. Robert H. Beattie performing the ceremony.

The bride was attended by Miss Olive L. Adams of Hyde Park as maid of honor, while her three most intimate friends—Miss Helen McNeal, Miss Hazel Beaubien, and Miss Hazel Milnor—served as bridemaids. Miss Arams wore a gown of white silk messaline and the maids were dressed alike in white peony flowered organdie over pink silk slips.

The men of the wedding party all are college men. Mr. Denton is a graduate of Amherst, and his best man, Winston Henry, his ushers, Scott Donahue and Clarke Richie, are University of Chicago men. The bride's gown was of white crêpe de meteor, with panels of renaissance lace edged in deep silk fringe. The bodice was trimmed with a design in pearls. She carried lilies of the valley and orchids. A reception at the residence followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Denton will leave today for a tour of the northern lake resorts, and will be at home after Sept. 1 at 209 North Franklin avenue, Austin.

Jesse L. Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chapin Phillips of Chicago, and Miss Helen Purington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Purington of Galesburg, were married during the day at the bride's residence. The wedding march was played by Miss Mary Johnson of Bloomington and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Stewart M. Campbell, the bride's pastor. Attending the bride as maid was Miss Alice Hobbs of Aurora, and the best man was Ralph Housel of Galesburg. The bride wore white satin. After Oct. 1 the couple will be at home at 2029 Kenmore avenue.

At the marriage of Miss Winifred Perry Dewhurst and Franklyn Bliss Snyder, which is to take place on June 15, the bride's sister, Miss Helen Dewhurst, will be the maid of honor, and the bridemaids will be Miss Alice Snyder of Rockford, Ill.; Miss Grace Barker of Welland, Ont.; Miss Harriet Harding and Miss Margaret Spence of Chicago. The Rev. P. M. Snyder, D. D., of Rockford, assisted by the Rev. Charles Francis Carter of Lexington, Mass., will perform the ceremony.

The marriage of Miss Elenore E. Frobenius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Frobenius, 820 Wilson avenue, and Herbert Immenhausen will be celebrated quietly at St. Paul's church this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, the Rev. R. A. John officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Tighe, 5353 Michigan avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances Gilbert, to Clifton Frederick Woods of Butte, Mont., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Woods of Bostop.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Henley-Black recall their invitations for Saturday, June 5, on account of the death of Elmer E. Black.

ILLINOIS CLUB LIKE PHŒNIX

Opens Its Fine New Quarters Five Months After Fire.

SUNSHINE SOCIETY MEETS.

Hyde Park Improvement Association to Discuss New Car Line.

The Illinois club, which was destroyed by fire less than five months ago and rebuilt in record breaking time, was formally reopened last evening with a musical and dance.

Five hundred members and their guests filed through the additions of the clubhouse and expressed themselves delighted with the rehabilitation. The library, lounging rooms, smoking rooms, card rooms, billiard hall, and bowling alley all have been subject to numerous improvements.

The art gallery has been transformed into a huge assembly hall and provided with a stage and all the necessary settings. The famous "cozy corner" of the men has been retained and a special one fitted up for the women.

The only picture rescued from the fire has been hung in a conspicuous place in the hallway. An art committee has been appointed to collect a new gallery. Among the many additions which pleased the members is the dining room.

The affair was in charge of Fred W. Edwards, William J. King, Dr. F. Ziegfeld, Harry B. Maxwell, and Frank A. Moody.

Meetings and Entertainments.

THE HYDE PARK IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION will convene tonight at the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A. The matter of a connecting car line between Forty-seventh and Sixty-third streets will be discussed.

THE LIVERMORE SCHOOL OF DOMESTIC SCIENCE will hold its first annual exhibit this afternoon and evening.

A MEMORIAL MEETING in honor of Charles B. White will take place at the Whitney Opera house Sunday afternoon. Dr. John Emerson Roberts of Kansas City and Judge C. C. Kohlsaat will deliver addresses.

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNSHINE SOCIETY, Harmony branch, will gather at the residence of Mrs. E. Leavensworth, 3731 Langley avenue, tomorrow afternoon.

"ANGEL" OF PEKING A BRIDE.

Mrs. Ann McCarthy, Heroine of Boxer Rebellion, Weds Chauffeur in California.

San Francisco, Cal., June 1.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ann McCarthy was married to Gus Rhenatrom, her chauffeur, at Redwood City today. The bride was the wife of August Chamot at the time of the boxer rebellion in China and she and her husband were instrumental in saving many lives in Peking. Chamot was interpreter at court and also kept a hotel for foreigners. Mrs. Chamot was called the angel of the legations.

In return for their services in Peking they received $450,000 from the allied powers, many rare jewels and gifts, and August Chamot was made a mandarin of China, one of the first Europeans to be accorded this honor.

In making even as short a trip as that between Chicago and St. Louis, it is pleasanter if you meet someone you know. Because it is the popular line, you are almost sure to meet one or more acquaintances, in the buffet smoker on the Chicago-St. Louis trains of the

BY R. W. LARDNER.

Cincinnati, O., June 1.—[Special.]—Mordecai Brown, who has become the champion extra inning pitcher of this man's league, won another battle today, defeating the Reds in ten rounds by the unusual overtime score of 9 to 3.

It's getting to be more than a joke in the case of this Mordecai. He has joined the ranks of the triflers, and although he continues to win with pleasing regularity, he manages it so that one is forced to sit on the anxious seat all the time and stay at the ball yard much longer than is absolutely necessary.

Mordecai looked an easy winner all over this afternoon until the ninth inning, when the Reds overcame the lead of two runs, tied it up, and forced the Cublets to labor in the broiling sun until the said sun was beginning to lose its broil.

Realizing the seriousness of matters as they stood, the champions started after Eddie Karger and Chauncey Dubuc and proceeded to accumulate half a dozen extra runs, more than half as many as the Cardinals gathered here in the first round of Sunday's game. Incidents worthy of mention were the use of three pitchers by foxy Griff, the bouncing of Artie Hofman by Umpire Truby, and the brevity of Frank Schulte's vacation.

Griff Switches Pitchers.

Of course it is nothing extraordinary for Griffith to employ a dozen or more twirlers in one afternoon, but this time everything seemed to be breaking against him and every change he made worked harm to the Reds. Hofman's banishment occurred in the third inning immediately after he had been caught stealing, rather right after Umpire Truby said he had been caught stealing. Artie, called out when he didn't believe he was out, spake as follows: "You're a rotten umpire; now don't walk away until you see a play through"; whereupon Truby responded, "You are through for this afternoon."

Now, it happened that Frank Schulte had been laid off by Manager Chance for lack of pepper, and Joe Stanley had been tendered the right field job. When Artie was banished Joe had to move over to center, and Schulte was sent to his old post. He didn't have much chance out there to show whether or not the pepper market was on the boom. Suffice it to say he did everything asked of him and spoke his piece, which was on the art of sacrificing in the tenth inning, which piece helped us to win. Manager Chance doesn't know whether or not Schulte will be in the game tomorrow. It's a pipe he'll be there if Hofman draws a suspension for his conversation. If not, it's only a guess.

Should Have Won Early.

As is usually the case, the champions should have won the game twice before they did once. Their tally in the second inning would have been sufficient if Brownie had not grown careless in the sixth and again in the ninth. It was not all his fault at that, his bad knee, for he has one as well as Zimmerman, and a slip by Joe Stanley helping to put the Reds in the running, after they appeared to be distanced. The sore limb prevented Mordecai from making his stride perfectly and thence from pitching his curve ball with any effect. He was on bases four times during the game and had his troubles running. It was all he could do to score from second on Sheckard's clean-up triple in the tenth and that is getting pretty bad when a sprinter cannot go two sacks while another sprinter, not a bit faster, is going three.

But that is all beside the case. The Cubs scored in the second inning and again in the eighth and ninth. The Reds, after being held helpless by Brown for five and two-thirds rounds, got busy with two gone in the sixth and counted one. Then they made a despairing effort in the last half of the ninth and tied it up after half the crowd had started homeward.

Brownie started this ninth wrongly by passing Kid Egan. Rebel Oakes followed with a single to center and Stanley fumbled the ball. Egan set out for third, drawing the throw from Joe, who might have saved lots of trouble if he had played it safe and pegged to second to stop Oakes at first, but his heave towards Steinfeldt enabled the rebel to reach the middle station and Egan third base. Thus was there men on second and third, no one out, and the Reds two runs behind. Lobert's bounder caromed off Brownie's glove to Kane, Egan scoring and Oakes going to third while Kane was throwing out the finely trained athlete. Mitchell singled to right, counting Oakes and tying it up. Hoblitzell popped to Moran, but Mike stole second when Pat dropped a pitch out. Larry McLean, as is the custom, was walked purposely and Downey ended the round with a fly to Sheckard.

Cubs Get Busy.

Thereafter the result did not remain long in doubt, although it took the Cubs quite a while to put over the tally in the tenth. Stanley dropped a Texas leaguer into center and Schulte sacrificed. Steinfeldt walked and Howard was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Tinker hit sharply to Downey, who tossed to the plate, forcing Stanley. There were two down and it was all up to Pat Moran. Karger, knowing Pat likes the left handers, was afraid to give him anything in the grove, and as a result pitched four balls in succession, forcing Steinfeldt in from third and leaving the bases all occupied.

Manager Griffith then yanked Karger and gave up Chauncey Dubuc. The latter would have retired the side without further scoring, but for Egan's boot of Brown's grounder, which permitted Howard to tally and kept the bases full. Kane was punctured in the ribs, Tinker trotting home. Then Sheckard pounded the ball to right far past Mitchell, cleaning the sacks of every one but himself. Stanley, batting for the second time in the inning, ended it with a roller to Egan. Thus were six tallies made on two hits and some other things. Of course, the Reds had no chance to win after all that. They died in rapid order in their part of the tenth, for which much thanks.

The champions' run in the second inning was the result of Steinfeldt's triple to left center, Howard's walk, and Tinker's double down the right foul line. The outlook for a few more tallies was bright, but they were not forthcoming, Moran popping a foul to Larry McLean, Brown going out on an easy one to Rowan, and Kane lifting a tall fly to Oakes.

Hofman Is Bounced.

Hofman walked with two down in the second and attempted to steal. Truby called him out and Artie made it strong by getting all the way out. Neither side had a real opening thereafter until the sixth, when Brownie grew reckless after two were out and allowed Ward Miller and Egan to bunch doubles for the tying run.

This state of tied-upedness continued until the eighth, when Brown himself started the Cubs on the way to the front. He singled to left and Kane sacrificed him to second, whence he hobbled home on Sheckard's safe punch to right. Stanley walked, but Lobert made nice stops of the drives of Schulte and Steinfeldt, retiring the side. Two out in the Reds' part, Griffith took out Rowan and sent Huggins to bat. He singled and got away with a delayed steal of second, where he perished when Moran picked up Ward Miller's hopper in front of the plate and tossed it to Howard.

The Cubs apparently made it safe in the ninth. Karger took up Rowan's burden and Howard greeted him with a single to center. Tinker laid down a sacrifice bunt which Lobert fielded to first, Del going all the way to third because Downey forgot to cover it. Then Moran was walked intentionally, and Brown showed the wisdom of the move by cracking a single to left which counted Howard. Miller had a hard time trying to pick up the ball, Pat and Mordecai both taking extra bases. But it got them nothing, for Kane was the victim of Karger and Hoblitzel, and Sheckard died on a grounder to Downey. Then the Reds made it a temporary draw with the rally already spoken of. Score:

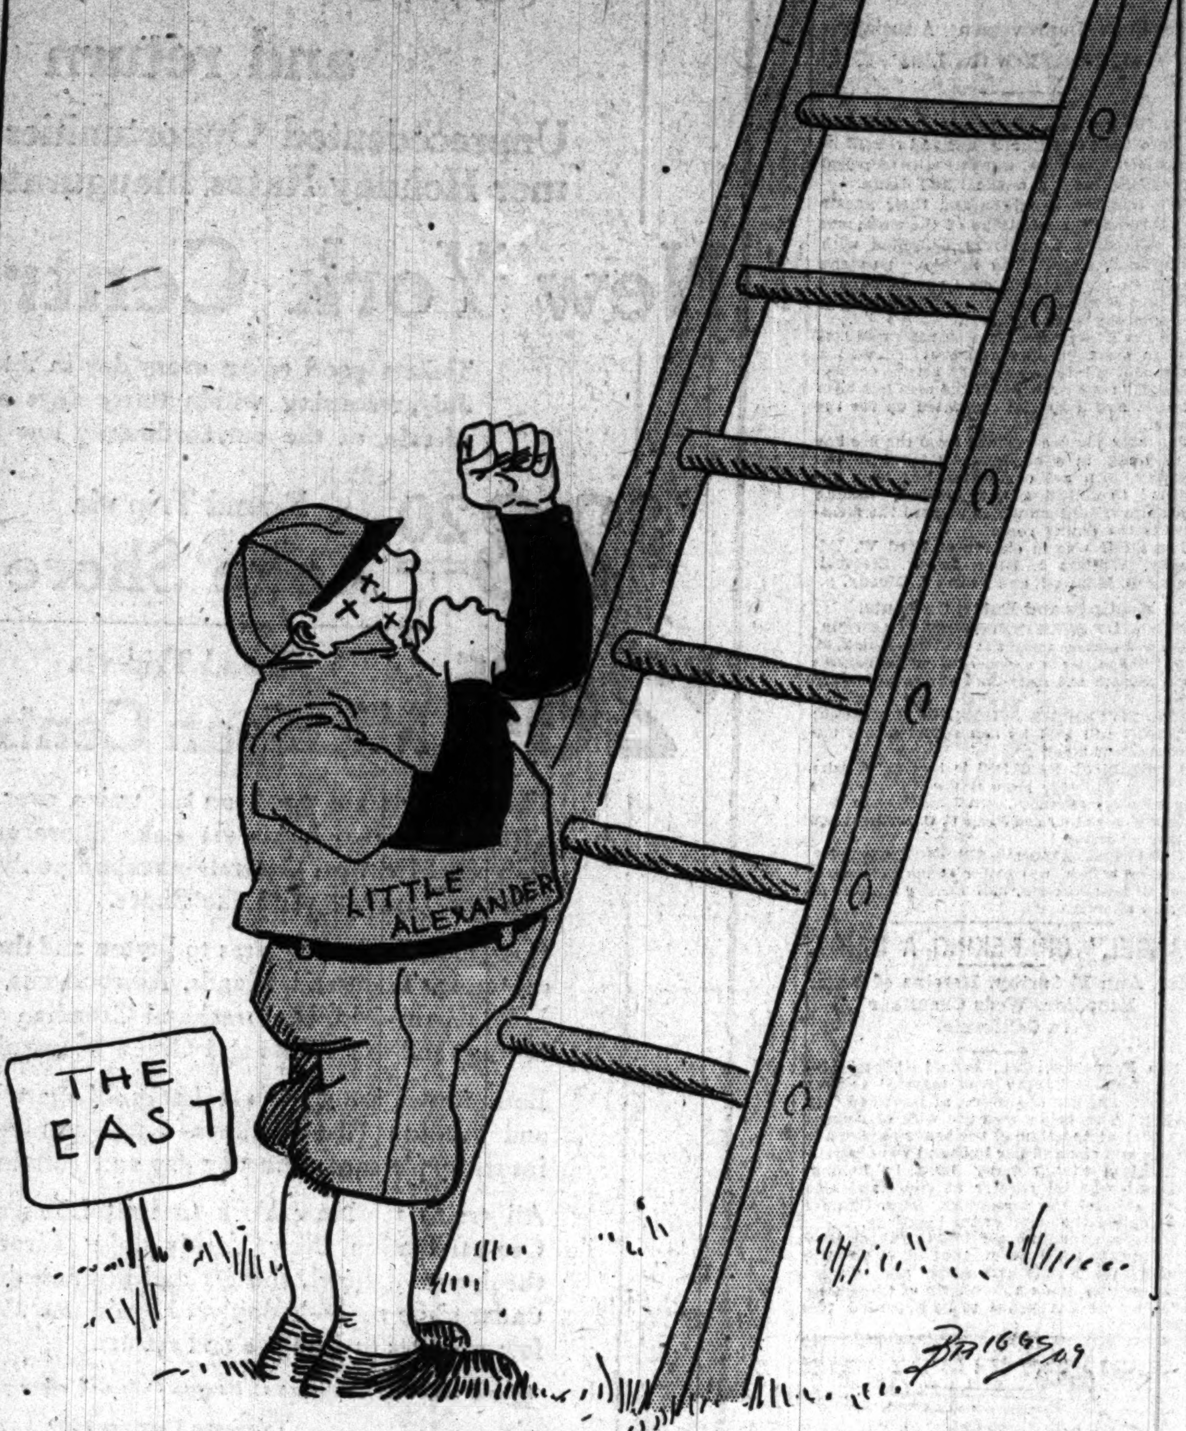
NOW WATCH OUR LITTLE HERO CLIMB.



NOTES OF THE CUBS.

Cincinnati, O., June 1.—[Special.]—Umpire Hank O'Day was among the spectators.

The Cubs and Reds will wind up the series tomorrow. Ragon may work for the champions.

Ed Aschenback, one of the managers in the Tri-state league, was among the spectators. He had a lot of new ones to tell.

Long Larry McLean will be all swelled up if the pitchers continue to walk him purposely. It may be out of sympathy for Larry that they pull off this play.

Brown's knee was in bad shape tonight and he had trouble in navigating. He didn't like the extra innings any more than the rest of us, but couldn't help it.

Tinker singled after two were gone in the fourth. He had a big lead off first, but Rowan surprised him by looking around instead of pitching, and Joe was nipped before he reached second.

Stanley claimed a pitched ball hit him on the foot at the start of the fifth, but Rigler wouldn't allow it. Then Joe showed how much he cared by starting the winning rally with a single to center.

Johnny Evers says he has been told that umpires have been instructed to bounce any one who says one word to them. If the Cubs continue to speak to the arbiters there will be no regulars left in the game.

Manager Chance was moved by Schulte's recent batting slump and his apparent indifference to take out the noted horseman. Schulte didn't seem to mind at all and was willing to go into the fray when it was necessary as well as advisable.

A peculiar double play dashed the Reds' hopes in the second round. Hoblitzel singled with one out and McLean hit it to the woods in left field, but Sheckard made a brilliant catch. Hobby had passed second and he beat the ball back to first, but neglected to touch second on his return journey.

New York Scores Three Runs and Victory in Fifth on "Boots" by Shortstop McMillan.

New York, June 1.—New York won from Brooklyn in the fifth inning, all of the three runs being due to errors by Shortstop McMillan. Ames became wild in the ninth inning and forced in a run. With the bases filled, the New York pitcher caught Bergen's liner, ending the game. Sensational catches by Bergen and Burch were features. Score:

Red Sox Show Errorless Ball Throughout Both Contests.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 1.—Philadelphia and Boston broke even in a double header. Each team won a game by 1 to 0, Philadelphia beating Boston in the first game in eleven innings on a two bagger by Ganley and Murphy's single.

Boston won the second contest in the eighth inning on a single by Niles, a wild throw by Baker, and Speaker's single. Superb pitching and fielding, which bordered on the phenomenal, featured the game.

Boston did not make an error in either contest, making four straight games here without a misplay. Ganley, Hooper, Speaker, Wagner, and French all made sensational plays. Scores:

Philadelphia, Pa., June 1.—[Special.]—Under cover of darkness Manager Billy Sullivan sneaked his White Sox ball team into Philadelphia tonight without attracting the least bit of attention. The athletes did not care for any publicity because of the state of their feelings and because of their unprepossessing appearance.

The ride from the south side ball yard to this city was a tiresome one and a vast amount of grime and coal dust was accumulated on the way, so the players preferred going to their quarters as soon as possible tonight and not stopping to shake hands with any friends that might be on hand to welcome them.

Secretary Charley Fredericks provided a new home for the weary players tonight. Instead of going to the Aldine, where they have been stopping for several seasons, the Sox are now making their headquarters at the Majestic hotel, which is a long way from the center of the city. This is something of a hardship for the men because of the street car strike that has tied up all the car lines, and if any of the Chicago men want to do any shopping while here they will have to walk some twenty blocks or hire a cab.

Strike Warm Weather.

The weather is just what the White Sox have been looking for for several weeks. It was so warm today they traveled with all the windows in their car wide open, and they would have had the electric fan going if there had been one to go. Sully thinks that a little of this heat will do his cripples a lot of good. They have been shivering in the cold lake winds for so many weeks this spring that the change in climate may bring about an improvement in the playing of the men. He thinks the limit of decadence has been reached and that any change must be for the better.

"Doc" White has recovered fully from the siege of tonsilitis that kept him out of the game the last part of last week. "Doc" says he was so weak yesterday when he went to bat that his knees bumped into each other, but there is no such feeling left in him now. He is back in his own country and thinks his batting eye will be even better here than it has been in Chicago, and all the fans who have watched him recently agree that he is "some" hitter.

Pat Dougherty dropped off the train at Olean, N. Y., this morning. He took the next trolley over to Bolivar, which is ten miles distant, and had a half day to spend at home with his folks before catching the train which will bring him here in time for the opening session with the Athletics tomorrow afternoon.

Davy Altizer will not be with the team on the trip unless he is sent for. He will go to Pearl, Ill., to attend the funeral of his mother.

Sullivan felt much better today than yesterday. He had a good night's sleep, and this morning could see a little hope for the Sox, while last night everything looked so gloomy he was wondering how they would be able to hold together through this trip.

Sullivan Hopes to Climb.

Seventh place is not a nice place for the Sox to be in and Sullivan says he will see to it that they are not there long. The Athletics have not been doing much better than the Sox in the last few days, and Sully says the Mack men will not have any easier time for the next four days if he can help it.

Ed Walsh will be sent to the rubber in the opening game and Jimmy Dygert likely will be his opponent. Connie Mack is noncommittal, but Dygert is the only pitcher on the local staff who has not worked in the last two days.

THAT $10,000 BONUS IN SIGHT.

Only Present Members of Cub Outfit Will Receive Reward at Flag Raising on Thursday.

Cub youngsters along with the veterans now with the world's champions will get a slice of the $10,000 bonus which President Murphy has promised to hand out at flag raising on Thursday.

Coincident with this news comes the announcement that some of those who were useful in bringing the third pennant to Chicago will not share in this reward, which President Murphy designates not only as a bonus, but as an incentive toward bringing a fourth straight pennant to this city and establishing another world's record, the Cubs now holding the mark for the most games won in one season.

According to present plans, Slagle, Coakley, Fraser, Lundgren, and last but not least, Johnny Kling, will not share in the largesse, whatever that means. This possibly will not prove a surprise to Kling and undoubtedly his attitude this spring may have had something to do with the framing of the conditions.

Want Salary Limit Raised.

Kewanee Ill., June 1.—[Special.]—President M. E. Justice of Keokuk today sent out notices to the directors of the Central association calling a special meeting at Hannibal this week. The session is called for the purpose of increasing the salary limit, which is $1,300. Several club owners declare this amount is too small and will endeavor to have it increased. It is known the raising of the limit will be fought by several cities of the league.

SALARIES RAISED IN 3 EYES

Limit Is Increased to $1,750 and Fourteen Men Allowed.

ADD ONE UMPIRE TO FORCE.

President Sexton to Name Playing Dates of Postponed Games.

At a meeting of the Three Eyes league magnates at the Sherman house yesterday it was unanimously decided to raise the salary limit from $1,600 to $1,750, to take effect immediately. Another important concession was the permission granted each club to carry fourteen men, including the manager. It also was decided that no club shall pay any individual player more than $150 a month.

The president of the league was voted the privilege of determining the dates of all postponed games without consulting the clubs. This will do away with any wrangling among the managers as to the time a postponed contest should be staged. The magnates also passed a motion that, at the discretion of the president, the number of umpires carried by the league may be raised from four to five, if he finds it necessary.

Better Baseball Insured.

The raising of the salary limit was the result of considerable agitation among the managers as well as the magnates. It was found impossible to give the public good ball and play through the season with thirteen men, four of whom were pitchers, without allowing for a utility man. Pitchers last year were worked "almost to death," especially when regular members of the teams were unable to play because of injuries. The additional man consequently called for the raise in the salary limit.

The umpire ruling was brought about principally through the poor working of the arbitrators this spring. Several have been chased off the field under police protection because of contrary decisions. In such cases the league found itself short an umpire and the directors decided the additional money spent for a fifth arbitrator would be the league's gain.

Memorial Day Crowds Small.

Unfavorable and threatening weather conditions wrought havoc with the Three Eyes' receipts Decoration day. Games were played in only three cities, before small crowds, and each club received $202.11, which is usually about one-third of the average Decoration day receipts.

The league attendance record was smashed last Sunday at the Davenport-Rock Island game at the former city. The contest was witnessed by 5,760 people, which beats the previous number that passed the turnstile last year by 800, at the same town. Davenport has been drawing the best crowds of the season in the Three Eyes, averaging a little more than 1,500 daily.

The meeting was attended by the following: President M. H. Sexton, E. E. Donnelly, and E. E. Pierson, Bloomington; L. F. Broberg, Cedar Rapids; J. T. Hayes and D. R. Lane, Davenport; M. E. Penlwell, Decatur; J. A. Palen, Dubuque; R. H. Johnson, Peoria; F. O. Van Galdor, Rock Island, and R. F. Kinsella, Springfield.

CLARKE SILENTLY RAPS CUBS.

Pirate Will Not Protest Champs' Game, Declaring He Wants to Win on the Diamond.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 1.—[Special.]—The Pittsburg club will not protest the victory of the Cubs at Exposition park on Saturday because Umpire Johnstone contended that the ground rule should operate in this instance whether or no there were spectators in that part of the field. Johnstone ruled that "a hit into the crowd" meant the sending of the ball behind the ropes and that Wagner could have only two bases. "I am positive that Johnstone erred and that the misunderstanding on the ground rule cost us the game," said Clarke today, "but I am not going to protest because I don't want to win games that way. We want to win out there between the chalk lines and not before the board of directors."

BADGERS INVITED TO MIKADO'S LAND

Wisconsin Baseball Team May Play at Tokio, Japan, This Fall.

KEIO VARSITY IS HOST.

Seattle and Exposition Will Be First Stop on Long Trip to the Orient.

Madison, Wis., June 1.—[Special.]—The University of Wisconsin baseball team has received an invitation to go to Tokio, Japan, to play ten games with Keio university during September. The Japanese school guarantees to pay the expenses of the Badger team both ways, besides giving them a royal reception while in the land of the mikado.

Athletic Director Hutchins believes the consent of the faculty can be secured and that the team will leave the latter part of July or the first part of August.

Keio plays an American university team each fall, the California colleges being favored in the past. The Badgers were selected this year through the efforts of Genkwan Shibata, a Japanese student at Wisconsin, and his friends in the orient.

If the team makes the trip it will first stop off at Seattle for games with the University of Washington.

Court Decision Favors Turfmen. Johnson to Fight Kaufmann.

NEW YORK JUDGES UPHOLD TURFMEN

Court of Appeals Holds That "Advance Information" Is Legal.

NOT A GAMBLING DEVICE.

Decision Grows Out of Arrests at Brighton Beach Racetrack Last Summer.

Albany, N. Y., June 1.—The Court of Appeals handed down a decision today which in effect holds that the dispensing of advance racing information on the Brighton Beach track last July was not a violation of the anti-racetrack gambling laws.

The court unanimously and without an opinion affirmed the decision of the lower court sustaining the demurrer interposed by William Engeman, Christopher Fitzgerald, president of the Brighton Beach association, and John G. Cavanaugh, who, it was claimed, were responsible for the issuance of the advance sheets.

They were indicted as "common gamblers," but demurred on the ground that the acts complained of did not constitute a crime. The question before the court was whether the advance information sheet is a device and apparatus for gambling within the terms of the penal code.

New York, June 1.—Bookmakers and others interested in racing consider the decision of the Court of Appeals as making another loophole in the Hart-Agnew anti-betting law. The sheets in question contain entries, scratches, names of jockeys, overweights, and other information necessary to bookmakers and bettors in advance of a race.

It was contended by the authorities that the distribution of these sheets was a part and process of bookmaking, and therefore a violation of the law, but the ruling allows John G. Cavanaugh, official purveyor of advance information at the jockey club tracks, to distribute the sheets unmolested as in the days before the passage of the anti-betting legislation in this state.

BUCKMASTER REFUSES TO PLAY.

Leading English Polo Expert Declines Invitation to Take Part in Matches Against the American Team.

LONDON, June 1.—Walter Buckmaster, who is acknowledged to be the best polo player in Great Britain, has declined to play for England in the games with the Meadowbrook, Long Island, team that begin here June 23 for the American Polo cup. Those behind the scenes attribute his action to resentment at the tardiness of the selection committee in asking him to play.

AMEND RULES FOR THE TRIP.

Schedule within Law to St. Louis, Then Speed Is Order of Things.

New York, June 1.—Five motor cars, competing for a $2,000 trophy offered by M Robert Guggenheim, started today from the New York city hall on a 4,000 mile endurance run to Seattle.

Mayor McClellan sent them away at 3 o'clock, precisely the instant President Taft pressed the button in Washington that officially opened the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition in Seattle.

When first proposed, the race was discountenanced by the Manufacturers' Contest association, which does not approve speed contests in violation of the law.

The American Automobile association, however, took the ground that, as an international contest, it should be sanctioned. The rules were then amended to provide a schedule within the law as far as St. Louis, thence across the plains, and over the Rockies go-as-you-please. The Manufacturers' Contest association refused to the last to be placated.

Tonight the racers expect to make Poughkeepsie. Succeeding stops, as scheduled, are: Syracuse, Buffalo, Toledo, Chicago, and St. Louis.

The cars, their crews, and competitive numbers were:

No. 1—15 horse power Ford runabouts, Frank Kulick, driver; H. B. Harper, relief.

No. 2—15 horse power Ford runabout, B. W. Scott, driver; C. J. Smith, relief.

No. 4—50 horse power Acme, George Salzman, driver; Jerry Price, Fay R. Sheets, and J. A. Hemstreet, reliefs.

No. 5—40 horse power Shawmut, F. A. Pettingill, driver; C. H. Chapin and R. H. Messer, reliefs.

No. 6—45 horse power Italia, Gus Lechleitner, driver; Albert Bellows and F. B. Whittemon, reliefs.

At the last moment a Stearns car withdrew. There were originally thirteen entrants.

The racers were preceded by a six cylinder Ford, driven by F. W. Tevis, with John H. Gerrie as pilot, which will act as pacemaker as far as St. Louis.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 1.—The five motor cars in the ocean to ocean contest from New York City to Seattle arrived in this city at 7 o'clock tonight. The cars remain here over night and leave in the early morning for Syracuse.

CLEAN SWEEP FOR STRANG.

Young Driver Wins All Three Events in the Postponed Memorial Day Motor Races at Decatur.

Decatur, Ill., June 1.—[Special.]—Lewis Strang made a clean sweep in the postponed Memorial day motor races here today, using for the first time his Cobe trophy racer Buick. The mile track here is an egg shaped affair, but the daring youngster won the $1,000 cash prize fifty mile derby in better than an hour's time. Summary:

Fifty miles, Decatur Derby—Won by Lewis Strang [Buick 30]; De Witt [Buick 22], second; Cleveland [Pope Hartford], third; Fowler [Haynes], fourth. Time, 59:04 1-5.

Five miles, free for all—Won by Lewis Strang [Buick 30]; De Witt [Buick 22], second; Hart, third. Time, 5:52 3-5.

Five mile handicap—Won by Lewis Strang [Buick 30], scratch; De Witt [Buick 22], 15 seconds, second; Dunkle, 45 seconds, third. Time, 5:59 1-5.

CORBIN IN AUTO ROAD RACE.

Thirty Horse Power Machine Is Nominated in Light Car Event of Indiana Carnival.

Entry of one of the cars that distinguished itself in the national hill climb at Wilkesparre, Pa., last Monday was made for the light car road race of the Chicago Automobile club yesterday afternoon when the Corbin Motor Vehicle corporation of New Britain, Conn., nominated a thirty horse power Corbin for the Indiana trophy race, a car with a four and one-half inch bore and four and one-quarter inch stroke engine.

This Corbin, driven by Swan, went out of its class at Wilkesbarre and in the free for all made the climb in 1:58 2-5, as against the 1:35 5-5 of the Great Chadwick six. While no driver has been named, it is understood Jack Swan will pilot it. The machine is expected to arrive this week.

This brings the total entry list up to twenty-two cars, twelve in the curtain raiser and ten in the Cobe cup, with the prospects good for another dozen coming in before the lists close next Saturday.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION GAMES.

DAY SET FOR PRELIMINARIES

Athletes to Be Tried Out Friday for Conference Meet.

WEEDING OUT INELIGIBLES.

Quarter and Half Mile with Pole Vault and High Jump on Card.

The track committee of the Intercollegiate Conference Athletic association will hold the preliminary heats for Saturday's meet of the half and quarter mile runs Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock on Marshall field. Preliminaries in the high jump and pole vault also will be held that day and a height of ten feet set in the latter event. No height was agreed upon for the high jump.

There are thirty-three entries in the quarter and thirty-two in the half mile, and it is the intention of the committee to have not over ten runners in the finals of each event. There will likely be four heats in each event and the first two men will qualify for the finals.

The decision of the committee to weed out contestants who have little chance of winning the pole vault and high jump has met with popular approval, as these events always have been drawn out and several times have kept the officials on the field long after the other events have been decided.

No protests were received by the committee at its meeting yesterday from any of the schools entered.

Iowa will be represented by only four athletes. Capt. Sturseman will compete in the discus throw; Hyland in the hurdles; Kohl in the sprints, and Engstrom in the jumps.

Grinnell and Morningside colleges have decided to take part in the Missouri Valley conference meet on Saturday, although there is some doubt concerning the entry of Morningside, as the secretary of the Missouri conference asserts he did not receive the entries until after the entries had closed.

All the members of the Missouri association will take part in the meet with the exception of Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, and Grinnell are considered as having the best chances of winning the event.

DRAWINGS FOR BIG REGATTA.

Wisconsin Varsity Is No. 2, While Freshmen Will Have Position 4 at Poughkeepsie.

New York, June 1.—[Special.]—Drawing for the courses for the intercollegiate boat races at Poughkeepsie, which may be held July 2 if the stewards don't change the date again, has been made. The courses are numbered out from the shore to the Highland side. Under some conditions it is best to be on the outside lanes. Syracuse and Columbia have these stretches this time. Curiously enough, they were far out last year, when Syracuse finished first and Columbia second. The year before last the inside courses had the winning crews. The drawings are:

Varsity fours—Cornell, 1; Columbia, 2; Syracuse, 3; Pennsylvania, 4.

Freshman eights—Cornell, 1; Syracuse, 2; Columbia, 3; Wisconsin, 4; Pennsylvania, 5.

Varsity eights—Pennsylvania, 1; Wisconsin, 2; Cornell, 3; Columbia, 4; Syracuse, 5.

TANGLE IN FOOTBALL DEAL.

Iowa May Not Meet Other Schools in State Because of Conference Ruling.

Des Moines, Ia., June 1.—[Special.]—Long conferences between the representatives of Iowa, Ames, and Drake, following the state collegiate field meet, have failed to settle the football situation, and the indications are that the other big Iowa schools will not meet the state university this year. Iowa claims they are prevented by their Chicago conference rules from signing contracts for games under the Missouri conference rules, while the other schools refuse to sign contracts under rules which they have no part in making.

Dole as Athletic Supervisor.

New Haven, Conn., June 1.—William C. Dole, formerly a physical director at Yale university, confirmed the report that he had been appointed as an athletic supervisor at the University of Iowa. He expects to take up his duties about Sept. 15.

At the Billiard Rooms.

At Foley's—Nelson [135] defeated Murray [125], 135 to 122, at 18-2. Tattersall and Sperry tonight.

At Hemmer's—Fuller [42] defeated Lauben [50] at three cushions, 42 to 28. Force and Wright tonight.

At Bensinger's—George Wheeler [50] defeated Manassau [45], 50 to 34, at three cushions. This afternoon Wheeler plays O'Neil and tonight White.

JOHNSON AGREES TO BOX KAUFMANN

Articles Are Signed and Provide for Forty-five Round Affair.

SHORTER BOUT ON COAST.

If California Club Secures Scrap the Black Refuses to Go More than Twenty Rounds.

New York, June 1.—[Special.]—A fight for the heavyweight championship of the world was arranged tonight between Jack Johnson, the present holder, and Al Kaufmann of San Francisco. Charley Harvey, acting for Billy Delaney, manager of Kaufmann, signed the articles of agreement for Kaufmann, while Johnson acted for himself.

The papers provide for a contest of forty-five rounds, which is practically to a finish, if the mill takes place in Nevada or any other state outside of California, where encounters of this length are permitted. Johnson, for reasons not plainly defined, refused to fight over twenty rounds in California, so if the battle comes off in that part of the country it will have to be for only twenty rounds.

Johnson further stipulated that he is ready to meet Kaufmann in any part of the world with the exception of Australia, where he wrested the title last year from Tommy Burns.

The club making the best bid is to get the match. The articles call for 65 per cent to the winner and 35 per cent to the loser. Bids for the fight are to close on July 15 of the current year. No particular date was decided on, but from present indications the scrap will be fought after Johnson's fight with Stanley Ketchel if this affair ever takes place.

JEFFRIES TO FIGHT, PERHAPS!

Californian Is Wanted in Six Round Bout at Pittsburg—Opponent Is Not Picked Yet.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 1.—[Special.]—Unless present plans miscarry, Jim Jeffries will appear in a six round bout before the National A. C. here on June 15.

It has not been decided whom the Californian's opponent will be, but the odds favor Hugh McGann ("Kid" Hubert) of Indianapolis, who made a good showing against Ketchel two weeks ago. Matchmaker Jimmy Dime of the National has the matter in charge, and a decision is expected within a day or two. It is asserted by the officials of the National A. C. tonight that Jeffries has consented to appear.

This decision, according to the National men, was made by the champion in order that he could determine just how good or how bad he is. Jeffries is quoted as saying: "If I show up well it will be time for me to go after the 'smoke' [Johnson]. If not, I'll have to wait." In the event that McGann is not matched against Jeffries Tony Caponi or Tony Ross will be put on.

M'FARLAND TO FIGHT KNIGHT.

Thunderbolt Will Meet Kansas Fighter on June 11—Walsh Matched with Fitzgerald.

Packey McFarland yesterday signed to meet Phil Knight, the Leavenworth, Kas., lightweight, for ten rounds at catch weights at Kansas City on June 11. Knight twice met Trendall, McFarland's recent opponent, once getting a draw and on the other occasion losing in nine rounds. He is reported to be a harder puncher than Trendall and is a great favorite with the Kansas City fans. McFarland is to get 50 per cent of the gross receipts. Manager Harry Gilmore Jr., who made the match for the Chicago boy, closed a deal for Cess Walsh to meet Young Fitzgerald of Milwaukee in a ten round bout before the Madison A. C. of Memphis on Saturday night. The weight is 112 pounds at 3 o'clock.

A PROBLEM POEM.

What shall we spiel about?
What shall we squeal about?
What is the hammer or boost for today?
Aren't the joyous receptions
Or bills of exceptions?
The sweet or the bitter now? What is the play?

Shall we go out and roast a bit?
Or shall we toast a bit?
Shall we pick out the flaws, or the virtues instead?
Shall we serve 'em the mustard
Or deal out the custard?
Shall we slip 'em the stone; shall we pass 'em the bread?

Give the gent what he's lookin' for—
That's what we're bookin' for.
Is he happier living or happier croaked?
It is hard to guess up to it
Unless he 'fess up to it.
Is he happier dry than he is when he's soaked?

Is it better to wait for it,
Or to be late for it?
Is it better to loaf for the tide comin' in?
The answer is here set down:
When you have the queer bet down,
It is better to win with a kick in the shin.

All of which goes to show that there are many ways for getting things over without allowing any superior mind to get Joseph to it.

We understand from a careful perusal of the head lines that there are twenty-four golf clubs in Chicago and the vicinage.

The pill dropping gent kicked off another one the right before last that almost put the gas fixtures firm of our friend Joe Dimery on the touch and go. Joe is not a wakeful person, so he had to bind on his pajamas and tear down to the center of the village to ascertain what they were doing to his shop. Of course, Joe cawn't tell what they are doing upstairs, as he doesn't control the blooming establishment.

Is there anything doing, Mr. Shippy, or don't you know anything about it?

We have to hand it to the shopmate who switched the caption on yesterday's wheezes. He builded better than we thought.

We are not particularly squeamish about a call. We swarm amain on one that is brighter than the original thought.

The bloke who enjoys being foolish is always delighted when he finds somebody who is more foolish than he is. That is, if his heart is in the right fix.

We have been asked from several quarters to describe the peculiar ailment of the White Sox, who bat well when they don't have to, field well when there's no one on bases, pitch well when the game is won, make beautiful sacrifice hits with two men out, who can get three runs on one hit and no runs on twelve, who can make phenomenal plays when the bases are empty, and throw fits when the bases are full, who have the greatest pitching staff in the country that can't pitch, the greatest bunch of hitters that can't hit, the greatest lot of fielders that can't field, and the greatest lot of catchers that can't throw.

And the answer is: We don't know.

The Cubs seem to be getting along nicely without Kling and if Moran makes the same kind of a holler next year they may get along just as nicely without him.

THOMPSON EQUALS WORLD'S RECORD.

New York Bowler Scores 699 Pins in Madison Square Tournament.

TIES MARK OF WENGLER.

Bowes and Windheim of Utica Take Lead in the Doubles with 1,243.

New York, June 1.—Edward Thompson of the Park Row Bowling club of New York took first place in the singles of the national bowling tournament at Madison square today with a total of 699, which equals the world's tournament record set by Archie Wengler of Chicago in the American Bowling congress tournament at Cincinnati in 1908.

Thompson, who is a newcomer in tournament play, rolled scores of 246, 210, and 243. On his last shot he wabbled the number 10 pin, but it failed to tumble and he had to be satisfied with a nine count.

Fred Clinch of the Corinthian club of New York scored high single game of the tournament this afternoon, getting 268.

Bowes and Windheim of the Elks team of Utica took the lead in the doubles with a score of 1,243.

Leading scores in singles and doubles:

INDIVIDUAL—Edward Thompson, New York, 699; Charles Buonomo, Rochester, 671; Frederick Hageman, Brooklyn, 670; H. J. Miller, New York, 640; Paul Loetje, New York, 642.

TWO MEN—Bowes and Windheim, Utica, 1,243; Carl and Haller, Brooklyn, 1,230; Helitas and Cohn, Brooklyn, 1,215; Smith and Gebhardt, Buffalo, 1,211; Edwards and Welsert, Buffalo, 1,210.

Final Pin Tourney Games.

Closing games in the Greater Chicago individual bowling tournament will be played tonight when Phil Wolf, the new champion, will play Charley Collier at Gus Steele's place in South Chicago, and Mattie Paetz will tackle Ernie Peterson at Wellstein's.

YOU prefer our way of selling clothes; and we know it. You may not have tried it, but when you do you'll see what we mean. It's worth something to any man to do business by daylight, where service rather than trying to sell is the rule. We're waiting for you to find it out, if you haven't.

Better see these

The Hart Schaffner & Marx suits we're selling at $20 and $25 are certainly worth seeing. We had them made especially for us; made with more than usual care as to tailoring, with special attention as to selecting fabrics and design of the models. They're not to be matched at $20 and $25 anywhere else in the country; and we're sure of it.

These will suit

There are lots of men who are used to paying high prices for clothes; who think $40, $50, $60, $75 about right. If you're that kind, take one look at what we'll do for you at $30, $35, $40, $45, $50. You don't wear any better clothes than these; you can't buy any better; better clothes are not to be had. We have an unusual stock of them; very large, complete; such as you don't see anywhere else; we have a big trade in such clothes.

At lower prices

On the other hand, some men must keep their clothes-costs down to the minimum; and we offer here at $15 a wonderful line of high value at low price. All wool or worsted, 100 per cent pure; every size.

We'd like to have every young fellow, college or high-school man, see the special styles here in the very ultra fashions; a whole floor of young clothes; $15 to $30.

You'll be pleased with the smart style we get into our boys' togs; they're very smart in pattern and color; $5 to $20.

PEARLS: Every shade of these popular hats; grays of all sorts; other colors; and straws of every kind from the soft braids up to the costly Panamas. Stetson's $3.50; Stetson's "Special," $5; Stetsons $8 and $10 stiff hats; here only. Our $3 Crofut & Knapp has set a mark for hat value at the price.

THE 50 cent neckwear is coming in new and fresh every week: an amazing variety and value. At 50 cents some stunning hosiery in all colors. Manhattan shirts continue their long lead for style and quality; $1.50 to $5; special value at $2. Golf shirts in fancy silks and flannels, $3 to $5.

COUNTY WILL SUE FOR ESTATE TAXES

Assistant Attorney Believes $1,000,000 Can Be Collected from Administrators.

HOLDS EXECUTORS LIABLE

Court Decisions Cited to Show Distribution of Property Makes No Difference.

Assistant County Attorney Behan prepared yesterday to bring suits against executors and administrators for part of the $1,000,000 in taxes which he believes to be due from estates that were closed and distributed without payment of assessments. It was explained that certain estates were closed on June 4, 1908, and that the tax collector did not receive his tax books from the county clerk until December, 1908.

It is held by the county attorney's office that executors, administrators, trustees, agents, and guardians are liable personally, on the ground that they should not have closed and distributed the estates they represented until they had made provision for the payment of the taxes.

Defendants in County Suits.

Immediate suits are planned against these persons:

Jan D. Dycke, 218 Cass street, executor Helen E. Buell estate; tax, $266.

A. H. Schumacher, 5608 Michigan avenue, conservator of Kathrine Schumacher estate; tax, $60.

Donald McLaren Miller, 4237 Grand boulevard, executor Mary B. Miller estate; tax, $827.

Roy McWilliams, 2131 Calumet avenue, executor Amanda W. Belden estate; tax, $75.

Josephine Allegrette, 88 Twenty-sixth street, executrix Joseph Allegrette estate; tax, $601.

Frank R. Blain, 5014 Grand boulevard, administrator Mary Blain estate; tax, $60.16.

Katherine J. Stump, 5407 Jefferson avenue, executrix Horace E. Stump estate; tax, $120.

Joseph C. Smith, 238 Fifty-fifth street, administrator Eunice N. Smith estate; tax, $142.

Edith Sloats, 5021 Lake avenue, executrix William Sloats estate; tax, $60.

James C. Church, 6636 Harvard avenue, administrator Annie E. Scott estate; tax, $112.

Inquiry Lasts Months.

Because the county attorney's office was in doubt as to means of collecting these alleged unpaid taxes, months were spent in investigation into statutes and Supreme court decisions.

It was found that the Supreme court of New York state had decided that such taxes could be collected by suit and that the laws of New York and Illinois on this subject were similar.

YOUTH HELD ON GIRL'S CHARGE.

Accused of Driving Child with Pistol from Church to Resort, Keeper of Which Is Arrested.

Angelo Reuria, 18 years old, is under arrest on a charge of forcing Antoinette Rocco, 13 years old, at the point of a revolver to accompany him to a resort, and Anna Shaw, 75 years old and keeper of the resort at 205 West Lake street, is in custody, accused of harboring a girl under age. The girl says Reuria stopped her while she was ascending the steps of the Guardian Angel Roman Catholic church at Halsted and Forquer streets to attend mass Friday morning, compelled her to accompany him with threats of death, and kept her in the resort an hour, discoloring her eyes with blows when she tried to escape.

TEXT BOOK REPORT IS READY.

Will Be Presented Next Friday at a Meeting of the Committee of the Board of Education.

A meeting of the committee on school text books of the board of education will be held Friday afternoon at which a report of the results of the investigation into the prices charged for text books will be received.

"This report will be the first authoritative one on the subject," said John J. Sonsteby, chairman of the committee.

President Schneider recently said the bottom had fallen out of the "book trust" investigation and that the publishers had not been charging unfair prices for books sold to the board of education and school children here.

SMUGGLING WITNESSES IN CITY.

American and Two Chinamen Brought from New Mexico to Testify by Brother of Foraker.

John Heitzell, an American accused in the Chin Yen Quai Chinese smuggling conspiracy, and two Chinamen, who are to be government witnesses before Judge Landis on June 8, were brought to Chicago yesterday by United States Marshal Foraker of Albuquerque, N. M., a brother of former Senator Foraker. The Chinese witnesses, who are said to have been smuggled into the United States from Mexico, were found at Alamo Gordo, N. M., where Heitzell was taken into custody.

LINCOLN HOME; FEELS BETTER.

Martyr President's Son Belittles Illness from Heat Suffered at Unveiling in Kentucky.

Robert T. Lincoln, son of the martyr president, returned to Chicago yesterday from Hodgenville, Ky., where he was overcome by heat while attending the unveiling of a statue to his father on Memorial day.

"We had small protection from the sun," said Mr. Lincoln, "and I felt weak and voiced a desire to go to my carriage.

"It was nothing serious and I feel first rate now, as, in fact, I did a few minutes after the affair."

GOV. HASKELL GETS MORE TIME.

Oklahoma Executive and Others in Lot Fraud Cases Given Ninety Days to File Bill of Exceptions.

Tulsa, Okla., June 1.—Federal Judge Campbell today granted a motion of Gov. Haskell and others indicted for alleged town lot frauds for an extension of ninety days in which to file a bill of exceptions to the rulings of Judge Marshall, while the third grand jury investigation was in progress last week. The refusal to dismiss the grand jury because of the manner in which it was impanelled is the principal point of exception.

UMPIRE HIT BY BALL DIES.

Officiates in Two Games the Following Day, but Blood Clot on Brain Is Fatal.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 1.—[Special.]—John Donaldson, an umpire of amateur baseball games, died today in Zelienople from a blood clot on the brain, caused by his being struck between the eyes with a batted ball while umpiring a game at Millvale Saturday. Yesterday he umpired two games at Millvale and last night went to see a player at Zelienople, where his death occurred.

Head of Detective Agency Goes to Omaha to Search for Men Who Held Up Overland Limited.

Omaha, Neb., June 1.—William A. Pinkerton, head of the Pinkerton Detective agency, arrived in Omaha today to take part in the search for the robbers who held up the Overland limited on the Union Pacific May 22. He declined to talk.

LEASE ON RANDOLPH STREET

Plumbers Get Site from Chicago Home for Friendless.

OLD CATON RESIDENCE SOLD.

Eugene Wendnagel Buys House from Mrs. Marshall Field.

An interesting deal closed in the central district yesterday was the lease by the Chicago Home for the Friendless to the M. J. Corboy company, plumbers, of 177 Randolph street for a term of ninety-nine years. For the five story building the Corboy company paid $10,000, and for the land, 20x180 feet, it is to pay an annual rental of $3,500 for the first ten years and $4,000 a year for the remaining eighty-nine years. The latter is 4 per cent on $100,000, which is at the rate of $5,000 a front foot and $27.77 a square foot. The Corboy company is spending about $10,000 in remodelling the building. Cremin & O'Connor represented both parties.

Purchases Caton Residence.

The old Caton residence at 1910 Calumet avenue has been sold by Mrs. Marshall Field to Eugene Wendnagel. In addition 55 feet vacant frontage on the opposite side of the street, was included in the conveyance, the consideration for the two being $27,500. Mr. Wendnagel will occupy the Caton property as his residence, although he bought the property largely as a speculation.

The lot has an east frontage of 110 feet, with a depth of 177 feet, and the dwelling is a two story, basement, and attic brick structure, containing about twenty-five rooms. The interior finishings of the house are of an elaborate and costly character. The house, with its finishings, is said to have cost more than $100,000. After Mrs. Field's marriage to the late Marshall Field her sister, the late Mrs. Augustus N. Eddy, and family occupied the home for some time. The sale was negotiated by Eugene A. Bournique & Co.

Deal Secures $100,000 Loan.

A trust deed to secure a loan of $100,000 filed for record completes the financing of the modern eight story building to be occupied by the Moser Paper company, at 111-119 Plymouth place, and which is expected to cost $200,000. Francis M. Gray of Niles, Mich., the owner of the property, gave the deed to Edward G. Pauling, trustee, and the loan runs one year at 4½ per cent. The lot front 122 feet, with a depth of 101 feet.

A loan of $60,000 on State street property north of Polk street was recorded. Joseph Bobbe was the borrower from the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, the property securing the loan being the premises 416-418, and the interest rate 5 per cent.

Sale in Kimbark Avenue.

John Hamilton has purchased from William A. McCarthy the property on Kimbark avenue, 140 feet south of Sixty-second street, 50x165 feet, east front, with brick improvements, for $20,000, subject to an incumbrance of $4,500. Mr. Hamilton gave in part payment 100x125 feet in Seventy-second place, 275 feet east of Madison avenue, south front, for $10,000, with incumbrance of $3,500.

Evidence of improved condition in the realty market was furnished by the transfer figures for May, which show a substantial increase over May a year ago. The figures are 3,052 in number and $12,977,787 in amount, as against 2,589 in number and $11,265,391 in amount a year ago. The large increase is regarded as indicating activity in small properties.

INDUSTRIAL EXHIBIT IS MADE BY THE CHICAGO BOYS' CLUB.

Friends of the Organization at Noonday Meeting Explain Its Objects and the Good It Is Doing.

A noonday meeting was held yesterday in Willard hall in the interest of the Chicago Boys' club, in connection with the third annual industrial exhibit of the club. Judge Judson F. Going presided and talks were made by Prof. S. C. Bronson, Thomas C. MacMillan, John H. Whittier, and Harry Monroe.

"The basis of all human action is need," Prof. Bronson said. "These children are not responsible for the conditions under which they suffer, but society is. It is our duty to meet these children's needs."

In the last year 160 boys, who had been looked after by the club, grew to be self-supporting and their average wage is now $386 a year.

"We are proud of the showing that our boys are making," Judge Going, the president of the organization, said.

The industrial exhibit, which is free to the public, includes work from one-third of the 1,220 boys and 180 girls in the club. It consists of a great variety of handiwork. Specimens of hats, trimmed and untrimmed, designed and made by the girls, form an interesting portion of the exhibit.

The exhibit will continue through today and a noonday meeting will be held. The Rev. Charles J. Little will preside and the Rev. Hugh T. Kerr will make an address. The Colored Southern Jubilee quartet will sing.

TROUBLE AMONG PARTNERS OF CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL.

Alfred E. Zapf Declares "Technical World" Magazine Was Sold for Half Its Value by His Associates.

Dissolution of the partnership controlling the American School of Correspondence and the American Technical society was asked for yesterday in a bill filed by Alfred E. Zapf, who claims to own one-fifth interest in the business.

Zapf charges that for years R. T. Miller Jr., president of the board of managers of the school, has been carrying on a conspiracy to drive him from the partnership. The other partners, he asserts, are Martin W. Russell and Olive C. Miller.

The main offices of the school were transferred to Chicago in 1903 and for three years it was in a measure associated with the Armour Institute of Technology.

The partners, Zapf asserts, established the Technical World company, which publishes the Technical World magazine. He charges that R. T. Miller Jr. induced him in 1907 to consent to the sale of the Technical World magazine for $25,000, although it was well worth $50,000.

An audit, Zapf says, showed that the surplus of the partnership for 1907 aggregated $510,443, but Miller revised the figures causing them to show a surplus of only $193,270. Zapf says the annual income of the school is about $2,000 a day. He asks the court to appoint a receiver for the assets pending a dissolution of the partnership.

CURED ITCHING PAINFUL HUMOR

Which had Spread Over Face, Body and Arms—Swellings were as Large as a Dollar—When they Broke, Sores would Not Heal—Suffered 3 Years.

MADE SOUND AND WELL BY 3 SETS OF CUTICURA

"My trouble began about three years ago with little black swellings scattered over my face and neck. They would disappear but they would leave little black scars that would itch at times so I couldn't keep from scratching them. Larger swellings would appear in the same place and they were so painful I could hardly bear it and my clothes would stick to the sores. The first doctor I went to said the disease was scrofula, but the trouble only got worse and spread. By this time it was all over my arms and the upper part of my body in big swellings as large as a dollar. It was so painful that I could not bear to lie on my back at night. The second doctor pronounced my disease inflammation of the lymphatic glands. He stopped the swellings, but when they would break the places would not heal. He tried everything that he could but to no effect. He said I might be cured but it would take a long time. I bought a set of the Cuticura Remedies and used them according to directions and in less than a week some of the places were nearly well. I continued with the Cuticura Remedies until I had used three sets, and now I am sound and well. The disease lasted three years from the time it commenced until I was cured. Before Christmas something broke out on my seven year old brother's hands in the form of large sores. I tried everything I could think of but to no effect until I happened to think of Cuticura and one application cured him. Also, not long ago, my sister got a bad burn on her ankle. I have been using Cuticura on that and it gave her scarcely any trouble. O. L. Wilson, Puryear, Tenn., Feb. 8, 1908."

Warm baths with Cuticura Soap, gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment and mild doses of Cuticura Pills, afford immediate relief and point to a speedy cure of torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin, scalp and blood of infants, children and adults, when all else fails.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass.

WHEAT SHOWS STRONG TONE

Offerings Light and Prices Advance on Short Covering.

CASH DEMAND MUCH BETTER

Southwest Buys Grain Here; Corn and Oats Work Sharply Higher.

Unexpected strength in wheat was the feature of the market yesterday, July being particularly buoyant, advancing about 2c for the day. Most of the local traders had formed the opinion that prices would ease off a little pending crop developments and they were unprepared for the brisk show of strength. Instrumental in causing the advance in the July was the heavy buying by Clement-Curtis, who took about 1,500,000 bu, supposed to be short wheat sold last week. Other houses that were short bought freely and there was a little accumulation of long wheat by Bartlett-Patten and Logan-Bryan. On the bulge Bartlett brokers sold freely and there was considerable profit taking against ups. Final prices were ⅝@1⅞@2c higher. Outside trade was light, but the volume of business in the aggregate was fair.

Argentine Drought a Factor.

Foreign markets were closed with the exception of Berlin and Buenos Aires, which were ⅝c and 2⅝@3c higher respectively, reflecting the drought conditions now prevalent in Argentina. World's shipments at 12,384,000 bu, including shipments of more than 5,000,000 bu from Russia and the Danube, caused a bearish feeling before the opening, and the increase of 1,288,000 bu on ocean passage was also regarded as indicating substantial relief for European consumers. The opening of the market, however, found little wheat for sale and prices immediately began climbing, the July in the lead. While crop news was mainly bullish, the deferred months were inclined to lag. Weather conditions over the holidays were fine, but had little effect.

Kansas Condition Is Lowered.

Snow was out with a bullish estimate of Kansas conditions, placing the best yield possible under existing conditions at 70,000,000 bu and giving the condition at 75, or a drop of 10 points in a month. Inglis continued to send in unfavorable reports, and other experts were not at all optimistic. Local traders who covered considerable nearby territory Sunday and Monday found crop prospects flattering. In western Ohio and eastern Indiana Inglis said the crop would not be more than half as large as a year ago. The Oklahoma state report for June was a bullish document, showing a decline in condition of 13 points since May 1. Northwest advices were favorable in striking contrast to the lugubrious advices in regard to winter wheat. Primary arrivals for three days were 345,000 bu, against 303,000 bu a year ago.

Corn Shorts Heavy Buyers.

Corn prices gained sharply during the day, sympathizing with wheat and oats and influenced to some extent by the better demand for cash corn. Resting figures were ¾@1⅜c higher. Sales of cash corn were made at advances of 1@1½c, and the demand was much better. Country offerings are lighter and shipping sales contracted for this month are large. Receipts were liberal at 370 cars, with 477 cars expected today. Primary arrivals were 816,000 bu, against 599,000 bu a year ago. Colvin, Edwards, Bartlett-Patten, Geahart, Crighton, and Noyes-Jackson were the best buyers. Bartlett-Patten sold on the bulge. The visible increased 1,348,000 bu, making the total now 2,841,000 bu. World's shipments were 4,234,000 bu. Crop reports were in the main favorable. Oklahoma report made condition 84, against 73 last October. Cash sales were 300,000 bu.

Oats Offerings Are Small.

Offerings of oats were light and this fact, with a little buying by commission houses and cash interests, started values on the up grade and there was a sharp advance. On the bulge Buckley and Wagner were free sellers, causing a substantial reaction. Final prices for the day, however, showed gains of ⅛@¼c. Sample prices were ½c higher, with sales of 125,000 bu. Primary receipts were 898,000 bu for three days. Local cars were 328, with 327 promised for today. The visible increased 93,000 bu. Inglis reported oats making slow progress in eastern Indiana and western Ohio. In this state conditions are considered promising. In western Kansas outlook is poor.

Rye Prices Are Firm.

Rye was strongly held. July closed nominally at 83c and September 82c. No. 2 sold free on board at 90c. No. 3 was quoted 83@87c and No. 4 79@83c. Receipts, 1 car.

Barley advanced ½@1c in sympathy with oats. Malting was quoted 73@76½c, mixing 75@75½c, and screenings 60@77c. Receipts were 46 cars.

No change was made in prices of flaxseed. No. 1 northwestern closed at $1.65, No. 1 from the northwest $1.63¼, and No. 1 southwestern $1.55. Receipts, 1 car.

Timothy seed held steady. September closed at $3.90 bid and $4.00 asked; country lots, $2.75@3.80. Clover seed was 35@40c higher; June closed at $10.00, October $11.25, and March $11.50; cash lots, $7.50@9.50.

Cash wheat prices were not shaded at all yesterday, but on the contrary were firmly held and still sales were larger than for some time. Many millers have evidently been waiting for the end of the May deal to buy wheat and the price was apparently no bar to purchases. The leading holders are confident that present stocks will be worked off rapidly at firm prices. Yesterday No. 2 red was quoted nominally at $1.50 to $1.55, but there was little offered. No. 2 hard was about the same price relatively over the July as during the latter days of May. In the southwest prices were also fully maintained and No. 2 red at St. Louis sold at $1.62, the highest price on the crop. Hard wheat sold at Kansas city at the best values of the season also. Most of the sales from here were of No. 1 northern. Aggregate sales were about 200,000 bu.

Cash corn prices took an upward jump yesterday and at the close the sample market was 1@1½c up. All the offerings were in demand, and, although receipts were large, much of the corn already has been sold and buyers were anxious to secure the remainder. It was reported that Crenshaw, the Los Angeles speculator who took in most of the corn delivered in May, had been offered 3½c premium over the July for all of his corn, but had refused it. Shippers were of the opinion that the July would soon work up to the same level that May sold at in a few days. One shipper sold a cargo of No. 2 yellow c. i. f. Buffalo at a better price than any figure May sold at. Other houses made liberal sales and offerings were not heavy. Oats were ½c up, with a fair demand. Shipping sales were 300,000 bu corn and 125,000 bu oats.

The Oklahoma state report for June, as wired by King of Toledo, placed the winter wheat condition at 61, compared to 74 a month ago and a government estimate last month of 81 when the crop indicated was 14,000,000 bu. A year ago the crop was 13,000,000 bu. Corn condition was estimated at 84; last October 73 and crop 122,000,000 bu. Acreage increased 17 per cent. Cotton acreage decreased 19 per cent; condition 72.

Wheat supplies on ocean passage increased 1,288,000 bu last week, making the total 44,848,000 bu, compared with 41,120,000 bu the corresponding week last year. Corn supplies increased 950,000 bu, and are 18,208,000 bu, compared with 16,502,000 bu last year.

B. W. Snow estimates the average condition of Kansas wheat at 75, a decrease of 10 points in May. He states with best conditions the state may possibly make 70,000,000 bu. Some Hessian fly, but no particular damage from that pest.

The directors yesterday elected Robert R. Curry, Philip S. Arthur, Jones E. Henry, and Edgar T. Jones to membership on the board. The sum of $2,250 net to seller was bid for three memberships.

Winnipeg receipts of wheat were 63 cars, compared with 94 cars a week ago, and 68 cars the corresponding day a year ago.

Estimated receipts are: Wheat, 7 cars; corn, 477 cars; oats, 327 cars; rye, 6 cars; barley, 68 cars; hogs, 29,000.

Minneapolis stocks of wheat decreased 175,000 bu for three days.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CATTLE.

CHICAGO, June 1.—None of the local packers was in urgent need of supplies, and although total receipts of cattle aggregated only 2,000 head, the market had a dull weak tone at easy to a shade lower prices. Early buying by outsiders furnished an outlet for beeves valued at from $6.25@6.55, and for a string of Dakota steers at $7.10, but at about the time that packers were ready to operate, the railroad estimate of 685 cars for Wednesday was posted and this put a check to steady activities, the general disposition of buyers being to hold out for reduced prices. Packers had a lot of grass fed Texas cattle at their disposal and were in a position to make terms in the market for the lighter grades of native offerings.

Butcher stock trade was unsatisfactory and prices averaged weak to 10c lower. Outsiders bought a few loads of heavy beef cows and fat heifers at steady prices early, but as soon as the better class of stock was disposed of the outlet contracted and prices weakened. Bulls also met with an indifferent demand at weak to a shade lower figures. Calves were wanted, and although the receipts of 4,500 were fully up to expectations, prices were rigidly maintained at an advance of 50@75c over a week ago. Quotations:

Beef steers, plain to good	4.75@6.25
Exporters	5.50@6.00
Beef cows, good to choice	4.50@6.00
Beef cows, plain to good	3.50@5.00
Fat heifers, good to choice	5.25@6.75
Canners and cutters	1.35@3.10
Calves, common to choice heavy	1.75@5.00
Good to prime vealers	6.25@7.50
Feeding steers	4.00@5.65
Stock steers	3.00@5.00
Bulls	3.25@5.45

Cattle at six western markets, 23,700, against 20,000 a week ago, 18,100 a year ago, and 31,700 two years ago. Total for 1909 to date 2,902,000, against 2,991,000 the same period in 1908.

HOGS.

Shippers and speculators bought hogs early in the day at prices that were fully steady with the preceding day's level, but shipping orders were not numerous; outsiders soon withdrew from the trade, and when salesmen turned to the packers to furnish an outlet for their holdings they found it necessary to shade values 5c@10c from the early basis. This concession attracted a number of local buyers, but buying did not become general, and a decline of 10c@15c from Monday's prices was necessary before packers condescended to operate on anything like a liberal scale.

Receipts were placed at 15,000 head and the quality was common. Consequently eastern buyers who had orders calling for strictly prime butcher hogs were compelled to take a quick survey of the offerings and choose the class of stock they wanted. For the privilege of doing this they paid up to $7.45 for a desirable grade of stock, and made up droves of medium weight offerings at from $7.35@7.40. When the packers came in the trade it was impossible to get more than $7.35 for strictly choice hogs, and the mixed packing grades had to go at from $7.05@7.20. Pigs sold at 10@15c lower prices. Quotations:

Bulk of sales	$7.10@7.25
Selected butchers	7.30@7.45
Prime heavy shippers	7.30@7.40
Choice light	7.10@7.25
Medium to good light	6.90@7.10
Mixed packing	7.05@7.15
Common mixed	6.90@7.00
Heavy packing pigs	7.20@7.35
Heavy weight pigs	6.50@6.75
Stags	7.25@7.50
Light pigs	5.75@6.25

Average price of hogs at Chicago, $7.25, against $7.32 Monday, $7.38 a week ago, $5.50 a year ago, and $6.25 two years ago.

Eleven markets received 71,100 hogs, against 79,000 a week ago, 96,100 a year ago, and 101,100 two years ago. Total for 1909 to date, 11,223,000, against 13,150,000 the same period in 1908.

Hog purchases for the day follow: Armour & Co., 3,200; Swift & Co., 2,000; Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, 1,600; Morris & Co., 1,044; Boore & Co., 450; Boyd-Lunham, 1,000; Anglo-American, 620; Hammond, 1,065; Roberts & Oake, 870; Western Packing Co., 750; butchers, 1,100; shippers, 3,000; total, 16,699; left over, 2,000.

SHEEP.

Steady to strong prices were paid for prime fat lambs, sales of clippers being made at up to $8.90, a new record price. Intermediate and common light grades of immature muttons and all classes of sheep were not so eagerly sought after, however, and sales of these were made at figures which averaged weak to a shade lower than on Monday. Receipts were placed at 8,000 head, and the quality was so common that packers were obliged to pay firm prices before they could fill orders calling for high dressing stock.

Most of the choice clipped lambs sold at from $8.75@8.85, while common to fairly good killers cleared at from $7.00@8.00. There was only one double deck load of wool skins included in the run, and as this was to be the last consignment of the season, the seller demanded $10.00 for the lot. This price looked exorbitive to the buyers and the salesman was finally compelled to accept $9.85. Wethers and ewes sold at from $6.00@6.65, while full loads of yearlings reached $7.50 and small lots of extra prime offerings sold at up to $7.90. Spring lambs made $8.00@9.35. Quotations:

Clipped wethers	$5.75@7.00
Clipped yearlings	7.25@8.00
Clipped ewes	5.50@6.35
Bucks and stags	4.50@5.50
Colorado and western, choice	9.40@9.80
Cull lambs	6.00@6.50

ON THE BOARD OF TRADE.

Provisions were strong and closed with net gains for the day of 45c on pork, 15c for lard, and 15c for ribs. Much of the buying was based on the expectation of a bullish showing of stocks, which was to a large extent verified after the close, when the registrar's figures were posted. Stocks of all contract product were much lighter than a year ago. Exports of lard and pork were larger than a year ago last week, but less of meats. Swift and Armour were credited with buying product. Commission house longs were free sellers on the bulge. Western receipts of hogs were 65,100, against 79,500 a year ago. Local receipts were 15,000, with 29,000 expected today. The cash trade was called good. Liverpool quotations were unchanged to 6d up for bacon, hams unchanged, and lard 3d up. Shipments of product from here were 123 cars and receipts 33 cars.

Chicago Horse Market.

Attendance of eastern and local buyers was increased, offerings included horses of better quality, and the general trade had a more active tone than on any day last week at prices which averaged firm to a shade higher. The demand favored drafters and they sold with alacrity at from $175.00@215.00 for the general run and at from $225.00@260.00 for 1,700@1,800 lb offerings. Commercial chunks were taken by local traders at from $140.00@200.00, with bulk moving at from $150.00@175.00. Drivers made $150.00@350.00, while well gaited saddlers cleared at from $175.00@400.00. Receipts of 500 head were readily absorbed by the trade and the market closed in a healthy condition.

IN THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

EGGS.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Fancy fresh eggs met with a ready demand at firm prices, but concessions had to be made in the price of the inferior grades, as jobbers did not want to handle them on account of the difficulty in getting candlers. Receipts were 25,187 cases. Quotations:

STRAW.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Rye, $9.50@10.50; oats, $6.50@7.50; wheat, $6.00@6.50.

Groceries.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Attendance of city buyers was larger and the trade in all departments had a more active tone, although the total volume of business transacted was seasonably light. Prices showed few changes of importance, the only radical change being a further advance in flour values. All package cereals were firmly held, but the demand was restricted and the trade unsatisfactory. Canned goods and dried fruits met with a good inquiry at steady figures.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Refined sugars met with a steady demand at unchanged values. Following were the ruling prices in wholesale circles, quotations being on 100 lb lots: Standard granulated, beet and cane, $5.14@5.24; cut loaf, H. & E., $6.17; standard powdered, $5.65; extra C, $4.85; canary, $4.65; chemically pure milk sugar, 19c per lb in brl lots.

NEW YORK, June 1.—SUGAR—Raw steady; fair refining, 3.42c; centrifugal, 96 test, 3.92c; molasses sugar, 3.17c. Refined steady; crushed, 5.65c; powdered, 5.05c; granulated, 4.95c.

COFFEE.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Offerings of roasted coffees met with a steady demand at practically unchanged prices. Receipts at Rio for two days were 5,000 bags and at Santos 7,000 bags.

NEW YORK, June 1.—COFFEE—Spot quiet; Rio No. 7, 7⅞@8c; Santos, No. 4, 8⅝@9c; mild dull; Cordova, 9¾@12½c. Futures dull at unchanged prices, which was about in line with the foreign markets. Trading was quiet early, but became a little more active toward the close, when leading bull interests were moderate buyers of the near months. The close was quiet, net unchanged to 5 points higher. The French market was net unchanged. Sales here were reported at 12,500 bags, including June at $7.00, July at $6.60, and September at $6.10.

Dry Goods.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Hot weather had a stimulating influence on the demand for wash dress fabrics, and while many city retailers and dressmakers were on the market for supplies, jobbers were in receipt of many orders from merchants in the interior calling for percales and ginghams for immediate delivery. Ribbons also met with a broader outlet, and a good volume of business was transacted in cotton goods, staple prints, hosiery, and lightweight underwear.

NEW YORK, June 1.—The jobbing houses are making closing prices on spring goods and are offering wash goods and white goods to clean up. The western and southern trade sent in good mail orders during the day. Cotton goods are firm and tending slightly higher. The export trade is quiet. Cotton yarns opened quiet for the week. In men's wear the duplicate business is light. Preparations are under way for spring openings to take place this morning, cotton worsteds already being shown by some houses.

Cotton.

NEW YORK, June 1.—COTTON—Spot closed quiet, 15 points lower; middling uplands, 11.25c; middling gulf, 11.50c; sales none. The market closed steady, net unchanged to 5 points lower. The opening was steady at a decline of 3 points on July as a result of further liquidation, while other positions were unchanged to 3 points higher on buying through commission houses, which was probably encouraged by talk of further rains in the Mississippi valley. At first the market showed a generally steady tone and shortly after the call July rallied with the general list, selling about 4@6 points net higher, but soon weakened in the absence of aggressive support, and during the middle of the day ruled quite unsettled. The report of the National Ginners' association placing the average condition of the crop at 80.0 and indicating a decrease of only 2.8 per cent in the acreage, was followed by heavy selling, and before the decline was checked the active months were selling about 8@11 points net lower. Futures opened steady and closed steady. Quotations:

March	10.75	10.75	10.66	10.72	10.76

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 1.—COTTON—Spot quiet, ⅛c lower; middling, 10⅞c. Sales on the spot, 125 bales; to arrive, 100 bales. Futures opened steady, 1 point down, on the near and 7@9 up on the distant positions. This widening of the differences was due to bad weather, too much rain over the holidays, which affected the new crop months, but not the old. Weakness developed as the result of heavy professional short selling, which brought about a net decline of 5@13 points. This was a drop from a level established before noon, 5@10 points higher than the close of last week. Toward the close a recovery resulted, July closing at a net decline of 5 points, while the new crops were unchanged from last Friday. The tone on the close was steady. Futures closed steady.

TREASURY SHOWING IS GOOD.

Record for May Much More Favorable than Officials of Department Expected.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 1.—The treasury deficit for the month of May is shown by today's statement to have been $5,453,955, and for the eleven months of the current fiscal year a deficit of $97,858,102 is indicated. The available cash balance was $118,979,764, and the working balance was $40,329,000. The total receipts for May were $53,332,310 and the disbursements $58,786,265.

This showing is much more favorable than was expected by the officials as late as three months ago and indicates that the deficit for the full fiscal year will fall considerably short of the official estimate of $112,000,000.

The working balance is not, however, regarded as fully adequate to the probable needs of the treasury for any considerable length of time, and while the necessity for additional cash is not pressing, it is believed that the officials will take advantage of the present easy money conditions throughout the country by calling on the national depositary banks for the return to the treasury of a considerable part of their holdings.

TREASURY BALANCES.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 1.—Today's statement of the treasury balance in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve shows:

Available cash balance	$119,901,309
Gold coin	46,801,188
Gold certificates	27,461,850

Sues Gas Company for $10,000.

Suit for $10,000 damages was begun against the People's Gas Light and Coke company in the Circuit court yesterday by the Van Buren Paint and Hardware company, 1251 West Madison street, which alleges that carelessness while making repairs in the plant caused an explosion two months ago.

LIMIT ON POLICEMEN'S BAND

Federation of Musicians Says It Must Not Compete with Union

EGG INSPECTORS WALK OUT.

Drivers Deserting Ranks of Strikers and Returning to Work.

President Joseph Winkler of the Chicago Federation of Musicians announced yesterday that the union will enter a strong protest against permitting the police department's brass band, now organizing, to play at funerals and for other functions for which members of the union formerly were hired.

"We cannot allow an organization outside of the union to compete with us for engagements that always have been secured by our members," said Mr. Winkler. "That would be unfair.

"We took a similar stand several years ago against the military bands of the United States army. Of course, we have no objection to the police band playing for policemen's benefits and civic functions, but it must not enter into competition with us."

A lockout has been declared against members of the musicians' union by the management of White City Amusement park. A band wagon announcing the fact will be sent through the downtown streets every Saturday by the officers of the union. Several thousand circulars calling attention to the "unfriendly attitude" of the management toward the union musicians will be distributed during the next few days, in addition to placing advertisements in the newspapers.

Uninspected Eggs Sold Now.

Three hundred and fifty egg inspectors went on strike in the morning in an effort to enforce a demand for a raise from 30 cents to 33 cents an hour during the six months from April to September. The present scale is asked for during the other six months of the year.

All eggs sold during the day were "current receipts," which means they were not inspected. All egg inspectors employed by Armour & Co. and Swift & Co. walked out with those employed in South Water street and West Randolph street commission houses. John Low, vice president of the Wholesale Fruit and Produce association, said the employers may decide to abolish egg inspectors by selling only current receipts in the future.

"Eggs are pretty good this time of the year," said Mr. Low. "We'll let the grocers and buyers inspect their own eggs. If the strikers wish to treat with us they will have to make us a proposition. We offered to renew the old agreement and they turned that down."

Desert from Strikers' Ranks.

Nineteen cab drivers deserted the ranks of the strikers during the day and returned to work for the Owen H. Fay Livery company. Several additional strikers returned to work for other liverymen. Business Agent Gibbons declared only seven strikers returned to work for the Fay concern. He also denied a rumor that the officers were preparing to call the strike off. Appeals for financial aid were sent to all unions in Cook county.

Three hundred and fifty laborers, mostly Italians, employed on track elevation work on the Lake shore & Michigan Southern railroad in South Chicago, went on strike in the morning when they were refused a demand for an increase from $1.35 to $1.50 a day.

TRUNK LINE RATE WAR SERIOUS.

Tariffs Filed Show Reduction of 3 Cents on Hundred Pounds—Sequel to Boston and Maine Action.

Washington, D. C., June 1.—A serious situation has developed in the trunk line rate war. Tariffs have been filed with the interstate commerce commission, effective July 1, by which reductions on import freight traffic from New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore to Chicago are made that restore the old differential between Boston and those points. This differential was approximately 1 cent a hundred pounds.

By the tariffs now filed by the trunk lines the reduction amount to 3 cents a hundred pounds on freight on the first class from New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore to Chicago, and proportionately lower rates on other classes of freight. On commodities the reduction averages 1 cent a hundred pounds.

The war on import rates westbound was begun by the Boston and Maine railroad several months ago as a protest against the differentials in favor of other Atlantic ports. Each reduction by the Boston and Maine has been met by the trunk lines.

The rates now on file with the commission affect only import traffic bound from Atlantic seaboard points to Chicago, but it is regarded as not unlikely that rates on domestic products may be affected seriously if the war should continue.

COMMERCE COMMISSION LOSES.

Test Case of Southern Railroad Involving Right to Fix Charge for Reconsignment Is Decided.

Washington, June 1.—The test case of the Southern Railroad company against the interstate commerce commission, involving the right of the commission to fix the charge for the reconsignment of hay shipped through East St. Louis, was decided today by the Supreme court of the United States against the commission.

The reconsignment charge of the roads is 2 cents a hundred pounds on hay intended for southeastern points when it is not reconsigned, but 4 cents for that which is reconsigned. While the sum involved is not large, the case dealt with the right of the commission to regulate the rates of common carriers. The roads other than the Southern which were involved were the Illinois Central, the Louisville & Nashville, and the Mobile & Ohio.

The court's decision was handed down by Justice Brewer.

The Kenosha Gas and Electric company has surrendered its franchise to the Wisconsin city, and in lieu of it has taken an indeterminate permit under the public utility law of the state.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC LINE REPORTS ACTIVE PROGRESS.

President Hays Declares New Transcontinental Road Will Operate 1,365 Miles by Fall.

Active progress is being made on the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific's new transcontinental line across Canada, according to the president, Charles M. Hays, who as second vice president of the Grand Trunk railway attended the annual meeting of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad here yesterday.

"By the first of September we shall have opened 1,365 miles of our western line," said Mr. Hays, "reaching from Fort William, Ont., to the end of the prairie section at Wolf Creek, 120 miles west of Edmonton, Alberta.

"We are operating a mixed train service from Winnipeg to 700 miles west. About Oct. 1 we expect to open 100 miles more from the western end at Prince Rupert as far east as the Copper river."

The report of the relief department of the Pennsylvania railroad system shows $1,373,856 was paid to employes and their families on account of illness or death in 1908. The amount paid on account of accidents was $347,353. The membership averaged 129,938.

STEEL LIFTS ENTIRE MARKET

Common Stock Sets Another New High Record at 65⅝.

RAIL EARNINGS BAROMETER.

Big Systems Continue to Show Favorable Trend of Business.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

New York, June 1.—[Special.]—Wall street came to business today, following its holiday, in a cheerful frame of mind, prepared, seemingly, to buy securities upon various favorable developments over the market recess.

Traders and professional speculators naturally pinned their faith to the optimistic utterances of Harriman in the long interview accorded by him to newspaper men previous to his departure for an extended sojourn in Europe, while other folks believed it long before Harriman had said it.

Steel Factor in Advance.

Union Pacific received direct attention from those most deeply impressed by Mr. Harriman's talk, and at the close of the day had advanced above two points upon a relatively heavy volume of business. This rise, together with the resumption of activity and the forward movement in United States Steel common, which touched another new high record at 65⅝, served to lift the entire market and to sustain it in its advance until near the close of business, when profit taking depressed prices in one or two directions, notably in Reading.

No better index to the rising tide of business the country over could be desired than that furnished by the various earnings statements for the month of April turned in by widely separate roads today. Included were the Pennsylvania, which increased, gross, $1,353,000; the Southern Pacific, which gained $788,000; the Union Pacific, $276,000; the Chesapeake & Ohio, $464,000; the St. Louis & San Francisco, $336,000, and the Rock Island, $480,000.

Money Rates Unchanged.

In the money market, where the June disbursements were expected to have some effect upon quotations nothing of the sort happened, rates and averages being as low as at any time last week. The heavy surplus reported by the clearing house banks promises continued ease and contributes materially of course to the success of such offerings of securities as those of the Corn Products company and the new dry goods combine, the bonds of the one and the shares of the other having already been sold. An interesting occurrence was the purchase by the Bank of England of practically all the gold reaching London from South Africa on Monday, only a small portion of the $5,000,000 or so laid down going to Austria. Foreign exchange rates here were nominally lower.

Money on call easy, 1¾@2 per cent; ruling rate, 1⅞; closing bid, 1¾; offered at 1⅞. Time loans dull and steady; 60 days, 2¼@2½ per cent; 90 days, 2½@2¾ per cent; six months, 3 per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 3¼@4 per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.8630@4.8640 for 60 day bills and at 4.8790 for demand. Commercial bills, 4.85⅝@4.86⅛. Bar silver, 53c. Mexican dollars, 44c. Government bonds weak. Railroad bonds firm.

IN THE FOREIGN STOCK MARKET

LONDON, June 1.—Money was more plentiful and in good demand today, and discounts were steady. Austria secured about one-third and the Bank of England the remainder of the $6,000,000 gold available. Trade on the stock exchange reopened cheerful and active. Kaffirs were buoyant, the leading shares rising sharply on vigorous buying. Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk jumped sharply on April earnings, but foreign bonds scarcely moved. Consols, in which the settlement has been concluded, hardened a fraction, but home rails were weak on the labor troubles. American securities opened quiet. United States Steel common advanced 2⅜ points, but the rest of the list showed little change from Friday's closing. The market improved gradually, and at noon was steady, with prices from ¼ to 1½ above parity. Steel and the Harriman issues continued active in the afternoon, but New York sold the former at ¾ from the best, and the market closed irregular. The prospectus of the Russian railroad loan of $17,500,000 at 4½ per cent has appeared.

NEW BOOTH SHARES ACTIVE

Commonwealth Edison and Diamond Match Also Steady.

MAY TRAFFIC ON "L" ROADS.

Northwestern Reports an Increase; South Side a Decrease.

Booth fisheries preferred shares were made active on the local exchange yesterday. The price closed at 53½. The stock is being held fairly steady. It has sold as high as 55, though that was the quotation on the opening day. It is predicted that at the end of the first year there will be earnings applicable to the preferred shares. The common sold in moderately large volume at 10.

The old stock, A. Booth & Co., touched 2 for the preferred. The common sold at ⅝.

Commonwealth Edison shares sold again at 119½. The buying was small. Diamond Match shares were steady at 125.

Swift & Co. stock was up to 109⅝. Boston was credited with leading in the movement.

In the bond department, the buying was fairly distributed over the list and prices were steady. A round lot of Armour & Co. 4½s sold at 96½. There is good trading in the bonds between the bond houses. None of the local bidders received the allotment asked for, but Chicago houses appeared to have been fairly treated.

Dividends on Street's Common.

It is understood that directors of Street's Western Stable car line have tentatively considered the payment of dividends at the rate of 4 per cent on the common stock. Of the $2,000,000 of bonds to be issued the proceeds in sufficient amount will be used to retire car trust notes. It is reported that something like $1,000,000 will be expended in new cars and repairs of old ones. The rolling stock is to be put in first class condition.

Corn Products Bonds.

Stockholders of the Corn Products Refining company at their special meeting yesterday authorized an issue of $10,000,000 5 per cent twenty-five year bonds. There has been placed already $5,000,000 of the issue, the proceeds of the sale of which will be used to retire floating indebtedness.

Elgin, Joliet and Eastern.

Announcement was made during the day by the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railway company, by President A. F. Banks, as follows:

"The railroad and property of the Chicago, Lake Shore and Eastern railroad company have been leased to the Elgin, Joliet, and Eastern railroad company, and will be operated by the latter as a part of its system of railroads and under its name, commencing at midnight June 1, 1909."

May "L" Traffic.

Traffic of two local elevated railroads for the month of May showed an increase of about 2 per cent in the daily average traffic on the Northwestern elevated and a decrease of 2.31 per cent in the case of the South Side elevated. The daily average for the latter was 116,553 passengers. The falling off in business may be attributed in part to the unfavorable temperature as compared with May, 1908. The cool weather has operated to prevent large attendance at the amusement parks.

The Northwestern continues to exhibit a good gain. Its business with the old St. Paul traffic and with that of the Chicago and Milwaukee electric has apparently continued to grow. Following are the figures:

Bond House View.

In their monthly bulletin of investments Fisk & Robinson have, among other things, the following:

"In late July we shall be approaching the fall requirements for money, with interior deposits in New York banks from $80,000,000 to $85,000,000. The usual business demands on reserves will be lessened by the retardation of development in certain lines of industry. On the other hand, we have sent abroad approximately $45,000,000 more gold than we imported, which represents not only an actual loss of cash, but a diminution in bank credit facilities. However, the export of gold has been offset to some extent by an increase of $10,000,000 in bank notes and the foreign trade of the United States is diminishing."

NEWHOUSE MINES & SMELTERS

To the Bondholders and Stockholders:

Owing to the recent depression in business generally, and in the copper industries especially, and also owing to numerous unfortunate caves and mishaps at the mines of your company located at Newhouse, in the State of Utah, your company finds itself with an indebtedness of nearly $200,000, partly past due, on which suit is threatened, and with no funds with which to meet the semi-annual interest that will fall due on July 1st, 1909, on its $1,300,000 par value of outstanding First Mortgage bonds, and the $100,000 required also on July 1st, 1909, for sinking fund purposes.

The Company is unable to meet these obligations and requires substantial further working capital for the development of its mines, the alteration of its mill, and to pay its creditors. To that end a prompt reorganization is imperative. The undersigned, who own and control large amounts of the securities of the Company, have, at the request of Bondholders and Stockholders, consented to act as a Reorganization Committee. As the result of their investigations they present the following facts:

PRESENT FINANCIAL CONDITION

Principal on outstanding Bonds	$1,300,000
Interest due on July 1st, 1909	39,000
Floating debt largely represented by notes (approximately)	200,000
Present outstanding share capital, 600,000 shares, par value $10 each	6,000,000
Total	$7,629,000

To this must be added the legal and other expenses incident to the foreclosure of the mortgage and the organization of a new company.

Your Committee, after due consideration, hereby recommends the following:

PLAN OF REORGANIZATION

A new company is to be organized, to acquire the property under foreclosure.

The new company will issue the following securities:

6 per cent 20-year income bonds, convertible into stock at par	$1,300,000
600,000 shares of common stock of the par value of $5 per share	3,000,000
Total securities of the new company	$4,300,000

The New Company will enter into appropriate covenants against the creation of any mortgage upon the property to rank prior to the Income Bonds, except with the consent of three-fourths in amount of the then outstanding Income Bonds, and that the then holders of Income Bonds shall have the right to exchange their bonds at par for the bonds that may be issued secured by any such mortgage.

The interest on the bonds will be payable annually, but only if and when earned and from and out of the net profits of the year. The Bonds may be retired at par by setting apart and applying annually 20% of the net earnings for that purpose, subject to the right of the Bondholders at any time within ten years to convert their Bonds into stock at par.

In order to furnish the necessary working capital for development, payment of debts, expenses of foreclosure, reorganization and underwriting, the Stockholders will be required to subscribe to the capital stock of the new Company and to pay One Dollar for every share so subscribed. Every Stockholder so subscribing will receive one share of common stock of the New Company for each share now held by him.

The cash requirements of this Plan have been fully underwritten.

Under this Plan the depositing holder of:

One share of present stock of the par value of $10, upon subscribing and paying One Dollar, will receive a share of stock of the New Company of the par value of $5.

Each holder of $1000 par value of the present bonds will receive for the bonds and accrued interest, $1000 par value of bonds of the New Company.

APPORTIONMENT OF NEW SECURITIES

	Par Value Bonds.	Shares Par $5.
TO THE PRESENT BONDHOLDERS:
20-year Income Bonds of the New Company, convertible into stock at par, of the par value of	$1,300,000
TO THE PRESENT STOCKHOLDERS:
To the holders of the 600,000 shares of the present stock (or the Underwriters) who shall subscribe for stock in the New Company, and pay therefor at the rate of $1.00 per share		600,000
To be held in the Treasury for the conversion of Bonds		260,000
	$1,300,000	860,000

Security holders who desire to participate in this Plan are required to deposit their securities with the Hungarian American Bank, No. 32 Broadway, New York City, not later than the first day of July, 1909.

Certificates of stock, in order to be entitled to deposit, must be indorsed in blank, and must be accompanied by the payment of the first installment on account of the stock of the New Company. The payments by the Stockholders are to be made in two installments, as follows:

50 cents per share at the time of deposit of the present stock, not later than the 1st day of July, 1909: and the balance of

50 cents per share on August 16th, 1909.

Negotiable temporary receipts will be issued for the securities deposited.

All depositors will be deemed to have assented to the terms of the plan and agreement, copies of which may be had on application to the Hungarian American Bank or to the Chairman of the Committee.

Holders of a majority of the bonds and a large amount of the stock have already approved the above plan.

UNITED STATES TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK
TRUSTEE

Redeemable at par at the option of the Company, on and after October 1st, 1916, upon any interest day, after not less than 60 days' nor more than 90 days' notice by advertisement, and entitled to the benefits of a Sinking fund commencing April 1st, 1912, calculated to redeem the bonds at par on or before maturity, by half-yearly drawings on April 1st and October 1st, in each year, according to the Amortization Table endorsed on the bonds. Coupon Bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100 or equivalent in English, French and Dutch currencies.

These bonds are a part of a series of $5,000,000 of principal, of which $1,000,000 have been previously sold and are the direct obligation of The Mortgage-Bond Company of New York, incorporated under the Banking Laws of the State of New York,

CAPITAL $2,000,000
SURPLUS $400,000

The Trust Agreement dated October 1st, 1906, securing these Bonds, and to which reference is made for the precise terms thereof and copies of which can be obtained at our office, among other things provides for the issue of Series II., limited to $5,000,000. Further issues of Bonds may be made under said Trust Agreement to an amount not to exceed, together with all other indebtedness of the Company, FIFTEEN TIMES THE CAPITAL STOCK OF THE COMPANY OUTSTANDING AT THE TIME OF ISSUE.

RICHARD M. HURD, ESQ., PRESIDENT OF THE MORTGAGE-BOND COMPANY OF NEW YORK, IN A LETTER DATED MAY 15, 1909, WRITES IN PART AS FOLLOWS:

The Company is organized under Article VII. of the Banking Law of the State of New York as a Mortgage Loan and Investment Corporation, with a Share Capital of $2,000,000, the incorporation being completed on April 16th, 1905 and in accordance with that law the Company is subject to periodical inspection by the Banking Department of the State of New York.

The Company owns first mortgages in eighteen cities, amounting to $4,192,314, on property valued at $10,487,582.

All Bonds issued thereunder are secured equally by all the Mortgages deposited irrespective of the actual date of issue of the Bonds.

The Bonds outstanding must be secured at all times by deposit with the Trustee of First Mortgages equal in face value to the face value of the Bonds outstanding on improved real estate in Cities of the United States having a population of not less than 40,000, as defined in the Trust Agreement, subject to the right of the Company temporarily to deposit Cash, United States Government Bonds or Bonds or Stock of the City of New York at a valuation of 5% below the market value thereof.

All Mortgages used as security are limited to one-half of the value of the mortgaged property as appraised for the Company, except that in Cities having a population of 300,000 or over such mortgages may be for an amount not exceeding three-fifths of the value of the property, as appraised for the Company, and in New York City not exceeding two-thirds of the value of the property, as appraised for the Company.

No loans are to be made by the Company on farm property, unimproved property, undivided interests, representing less than the entire ownership of the property, leaseholds, churches, factories, clubs or theatres.

The appraised value taken as basis for the mortgage loans is not to exceed the selling value determined by the Company by careful investigation. In arriving at this value only the established utility of the property and the earning power under systematic management is to be considered.

The appraised value of properties securing mortgages deposited under the Trust Agreement in all cases is to be based on two appraisals, one of which is to be made by the Company's appraiser in the City where the property is located and the other is to be made by a representative of the Company in the home office, who shall have personal knowledge of values in all the Cities in which he makes appraisals. In case any mortgage amounts to $100,000 or over a third appraisal is to be obtained, made by an additional appraiser selected by the Company.

No real estate is to be acquired, except to avoid losses under foreclosure, or to provide offices for the Company's own use. All real estate acquired under foreclosure is to be promptly sold.

The legal proceedings for the creation of this issue of bonds have been taken under the supervision of Mr. David B. Ogden, Counsel for The Mortgage-Bond Company of New York, and have been approved on our behalf by Messrs. Underwood, Van Vorst & Hoyt.

Application will be made to list these bonds on the New York, London and Amsterdam Stock Exchanges.

A simultaneous offering will be made in London by Messrs. Coutts & Co. and in Amsterdam by Administratiekantoor Broes & Gosman, C. S.

LADIES

WITH SUPERFLUOUS HAIR ON THE FACE.
REMEMBER, we do nothing but superfluous hair work; that this is my 20th year in business; that I was the first lady to open an office in Chicago, and that I do the work myself, with two expert assistants.
REMEMBER, with our 5 to 10 NEEDLE METHOD only a few hours' time is sufficient to cure any case.
REMEMBER, we guarantee to kill every hair we treat, and should any return we will gladly remove them FREE OF CHARGE and thank you for the privilege of doing so.

REAL ESTATE—FARM LANDS.

THIS IS AN AGE OF SPECIALISTS.
I am a specialist in my line.

Irrigated Land.

I have what I know to be the best irrigated land in the best location.
12 miles north of Denver, Colo.
The best market advantages.
The best transportation—5 railroads within 4 miles—16 railroads enter Denver.
Cheapest labor, all you want when you need it.
Cheap fuel cost $2 a ton, only two miles away.
The best of water rights with ample storage capacity to guarantee absolute protection to your crops.
$500 or $1,000 invested in my land now will grow faster and surer than any other form of investment you can make.
Because of the valuable crops of fruit and vegetables that can be grown on the land.
Also because of its nearness to Denver it is attractive to the man of means.
Who would not live on the best land in the world, where he could have near neighbors, free mail delivery, telephones, churches, schools, and stores; also theaters?
I can also arrange to take entire charge of your land, cultivate and market your crops, if you are not ready to go now.
NEXT EXCURSION JUNE 5TH.

If a Home and Yearly Income of $2,000 to $5,000 for an Investment of a few hundred dollars interests you, BUY AN

ALTURA FARM

Located immediately east of Denver, on Colfax; 65 of these farms of 5, 10, and 20 acres each, under the High Line Ditch, with Antero reservoir water, will be sold on a small payment down and balance so arranged that the land will pay for itself, raising alfalfa, grain, cabbage, onions, beets, potatoes, any garden truck, fruit, poultry, etc. Write for particulars. WM. BIERKAMP, 210-11 Ideal Bldg., Denver, Colo.

Bitter Root Valley

Buy an irrigated orchard home in the Pacific northwest. Be one of a unique colony with suburban home comforts, good roads, churches, schools, stores, banks, telephones, electric lights, two railroads, hunting, fishing, and a perfect climate. Does your present home give you an income or do you give your income for a home? Berries and vegetables yield silver dollars at once. Apples and hardy fruits yield gold in eagles later. Sold only to people who make good neighbors. Come and talk it over or send for printed matter.

FOR SALE—

RARE CHANCE
IDEAL
COUNTRY HOME

Located within 15 minutes steam car and 30 minutes electric car ride of Milwaukee, Wis., among well kept farms, on Menomonee River; this place has all the points of real quiet and secluded country life demanded by a lover of nature, and combines the advantage of being within easy reach of large stores, fine theaters, concerts, and other entertainments of a high cultured city. A well built house, situated on a hill with magnificent distant view, is surrounded by a park and has large orchard, vegetable garden, and good stable, with coachman's dwelling in rear. Steady spring of fine water on hillside, in center of large original forest of very tall trees. A most perfect place for retired business man or for a sanitarium. For sale at reasonable price by F. MEINECKE, 623 Milwaukee-st., Milwaukee, Wis.

REAL ESTATE—FRUIT LANDS.

FOR SALE—
COLORADO FRUIT LANDS.
NUTSHELL ARGUMENTS.
XVII.
I have placed my order for nursery stock to be delivered next spring, consisting of 4,000 apple trees, 1,660 peach trees, 800 pear trees, 400 cherry trees, 160 apricot trees, and 1,000 grape vines. This is enough to plant about 60 acres.
The superior advantages of my fruit lands on Virginia Mesa are fast being recognized. While I have been in no hurry to advance prices, recent developments make it necessary, in justice to myself.
I can only take on about 60 acres more for planting next spring.
Of these 60 acres still for sale my prices are $220 an acre for the first 20 acres or any part thereof; $230 an acre for the second 20 acres and $240 an acre for the third 20 acres.
When these 60 acres are sold my prices will be advanced to $800 an acre. Terms are, ½ cash on delivery of deed, balance on mortgage, one, two, and three years.
These prices include a perpetual right in the pumping plant, to be erected and in operation this summer, with a guaranteed delivery of two acre feet of water each season, which is ample for fruit culture.
I will enter into a contract with nonresident purchasers to develop their lands into orchards; fencing the property, making the ditches, supplying the trees, giving them the proper care, and bearing all expenses, even to the maintenance charge of operating the water plant, and to the paying of taxes, for a period of 4 years from the time of planting the trees, for the sum of $200 an acre, payable in four annual installments, the first one to be paid on the execution of the contract.
A small orchard will show the same ratio of profit as a large one. If you cannot handle 10 acres, take 5, or even 2, but act promptly, if you want to do business with me.
C. M. PAINE, De Beque, Colo.

FOR SALE — A FIRST CLASS GROCERY AND delicatessen. 1966 N. Marshfield-av.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

I STARTED IN BUSINESS 6 YEARS AGO ON $1,000 [confectionery line]; I sell practically every wholesale grocer and confectioner in the west and south; I could do 10 times more business if I had $3,000 to $10,000 more capital. My net profits are over 30%. Would prefer a western man willing to travel part of the time; do not want to borrow any money; our business will make more than a good living. I want only a live man willing to work and take reasonable chance. Good salary and fair dividends assured to acceptable party that will come immediately and investigate proposition. Commercial references based on past business. I will pay no attention to answers that ask for full particulars. My books are open for personal investigation only. Address X 127, Tribune.

WANTED—PARTY WITH $3,000 TO $5,000 TO join advertiser in handling a 4,000 acre tract of hardwood southern timber, located on river and rail transportation. The right party can secure an interest that will net large annual returns for next five years and return of money invested within eighteen months. Investor can either take active interest or arrange his investment so that same will be under his control at all times. There is no investment that is so safe as timber, and especially hardwood. Highest commercial reference. Address B L 591, Tribune.

IF YOU HAVE $500 TO $1,000 YOU WOULD like to invest in a meritorious enterprise with a splendid possibility before it for very large returns, a special offer for the next $10,000 will be given, as we need this amount quickly to properly handle the business. We will give you our office address where we can talk the matter over if you will write to C 291, Tribune.

GREER & COMPANY, BANKERS TO SALARIED PEOPLE. Suite 813, 140 Dearborn-st., cor. Madison.

BANKERS TO THE PEOPLE— YOU CAN borrow money of us in small sums as well as large. Men and women employed—business men, too—we will give you the fairest terms in Chicago. LADIES of reputable family may EASILY BORROW on their own name and promise. We will give any new patron the same consideration we have given a host of honorable borrowers of quick and emergency money in our eleven years of the people's banking business, culminating in our new quarters, most considerately convenient for those desiring to transact a personal business. Close to State-st. stores—heart of business district. We have no "insurance" or "manufacturing" device or deceit. Our interest is 6% per year. All our charges included are within the very minimum WHICH YOUR PERSONALITY FIXES, consistent with sum and risk involved and with justice. Straight forward and courteously we offer money to any MAN or WOMAN of honorable intention of repayment with or without security. Tel. Central 1064, or call, private offices [also ladies' room] connected with banking room. Seventh floor, 122 Monroe-st., cor. Clarke. WEST & COMPANY.

MONEY FOR SALARIED PEOPLE. IF YOU hold a permanent salaried position, we will loan you any reasonable sum from $10 upward WITHOUT security or knowledge of employer or friends; our rates are LOW; payments easy; REBATE if paid before due; QUICK service; long time if desired; no red tape; no extra charge, nothing taken out of loan in advance. Office hours, 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Will receive courteous treatment whether you borrow or not.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands or incomes from other sources], who want large or small sums, confidentially, with or without security. My location [30 min. from Loop district] and my being the president of a large manufacturing, wholesale, vehicle establishment [Bradstreet's and other agencies show its standing], and not a professional money lender, assures a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings, where money lenders congregate. Professional lenders demand high rates, usually asking so much that the average straightforward citizen realizes that an exorbitant interest for any time is burdensome. My average rate, all charges positively included, is never more than 1, 2, or 3 per cent monthly, depending on risk and amount loaned. Individual waiting rooms. Ask for WILLCOXE, care The Englewood Co., 538-540 E. 63d-st., cor. Greenwood-av. Tel. Hyde Park 4233.

PANIC OF '07 LAID TO RAILWAYS' DOOR

Federal Judge Landis Says He Is Not Concerned with Harriman's Latest Talk.

SIMS FIXES THE BLAME.

Finds Copy of Bulletin 10 in Which Manufacturers Tell of Huge Stock "Waterings."

When Kenesaw M. Landis of the United States court picked up his TRIBUNE at breakfast yesterday morning his eyes fell upon an interview with E. H. Harriman and as he glanced down the column he was interested to read that Mr. Harriman had laid the financial panic of 1907 directly at his door.

Having read what Mr. Harriman had to say about his $29,000,000 fine against the Standard Oil company Judge Landis was asked what he thought about Mr. Harriman. He replied:

"I am not at all concerned about what any one says in opposition to the enforcement of the criminal law."

About the same time District Attorney E. W. Sims, who prosecuted the Standard Oil case for the government, produced from his papers bulletin No. 10 of the Illinois Manufacturers' association. "That is my answer to Mr. Harriman," he said.

Blame Laid to Railroads.

Bulletin No. 10 is a publication purporting to show that the railroads themselves were the real instigators of the panic by unwarranted watering of capital. The Burlington and Rock Island are pointed to as the two awful examples. One of the statements is:

"In 1901 they loaded up the Burlington road with nearly $110,000,000 of water by issuing $2 of bonds in place of $1 of stock. Nominally these bonds were issued by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific and the interest was guaranteed by those roads, but as a matter of fact the Burlington has to raise the money to pay the interest so long as there is any way to squeeze it out of the shippers or employés.

"The company since 1901 has to pay interest on $223,000,000 of bonds instead of paying dividends on $110,000,000 of stock. If they had been obliged to pass the dividends on their stock for a year it would have been no worse than what nearly every manufacturer in the state of Illinois had to do the last year and a half, but since the stock has been turned into bonds and watered $110,000,000 they have to let everything else go to pay the interest."

Why 18,000 Were Out of Work.

"This is the reason why 18,000 men were turned out to shift for themselves or starve. The New York bankers must have their interest, whether the employés get any wages or not."

Taking up the question of the Rock Island overcapitalization, the bulletin states: "In 1902 they (President B. L. Winchell and his associates) bought control in the stock market of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company, and carried through a great stock jobbing deal in which they issued $270 of new securities for $100 of the old stock.

"Mr. Winchell's associates used three corporate 'shells' in the game. They shifted things around so cleverly from one shell to the other that it is impossible to show which shell covered the profits.

Would Pay Cost of Ship Canal.

"The rings that have controlled the Rock Island 'waterway' have added enough bogus bonds and stocks to the capitalization of their various companies to pay the cost of a ship canal that would carry the largest ocean steamers and battleships from the gulf to Lake Michigan."

"That," said Mr. Sims, "is my answer to any one who attempts to throw the burden and the blame for the last financial panic upon the officers of the government. There is a true statement of facts, and if Mr. Harriman wants to know the 'real reason' for the panic, I refer him to bulletin No. 10."

TWO WOMEN BURNED AT STOVES

Mrs. Harry Luther Injured While Preparing Tea and Mrs. Eliza Means While Ironing.

Two women probably were fatally burned yesterday, their clothing catching fire at stoves around which they were working.

Mrs. Harry Luther of 160 Dayton street was preparing a cup of tea while visiting Mrs. Mary Quirk at 58 Osgood street when her clothes and hair were so badly burned that physicians at St. Joseph's hospital say she cannot live.

A kerosene stove was upset while Mrs. Eliza Means, 60 years old, was ironing clothes at 3540 La Salle street. She was taken to the Provident hospital suffering from burns on the body, face, and hands, from which it is not believed she will recover.

Misses' 17.50 and $20 tailored suits at $10

An eastern maker's surplus stock

Our representative was called to New York regarding this purchase early last week. After a close inspection of the maker's surplus, he closed a deal that gives us the rarest values recently offered in Chicago in suits for misses and juniors. Second floor, State street.

Correct sizes—shape retaining

Every suit in this purchase has an individuality and a smartness of style that rivals the workmanship of the expert modiste. There are tailored semi-fitted suits, silk-lined coats made in lengths from 34 to 40; plain mannish effects; in handsome two and three piece styles.

Desirable for small figures, $10

In sizes 14, 16 and 18 years, a perfect fit is easily obtainable. In many styles there are only one or two suits. They're show room samples, and the excess left from regular orders—hence the advisability of early morning selections. Real 17.50 and $20 values, $10.

Skirts mostly gored flare styles, in below ankle and walking lengths. Materials are English serges, novelty and striped worsteds and satin finish cloths in all the summer shades, including plenty of navy blue and some blacks. All at the same low price, $10.

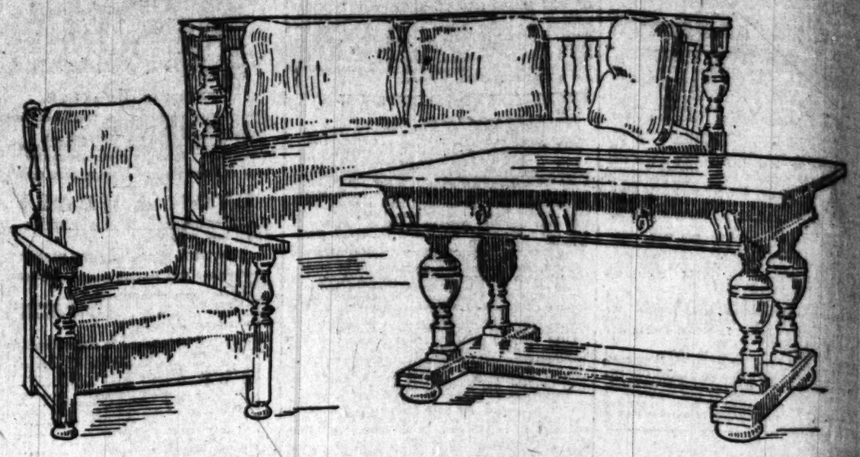
FLANDERS FURNITURE

An Exposition of This Beautiful Furniture on the Fifth Floor of Our Furniture Division.



THIS STYLE ORIGINATED IN THE ANCIENT PROVINCE OF FLANDERS.

At the close of the Sixteenth and the earlier part of the Seventeenth Century it came into prominence The time is better established through the designs of woodwork by Vredeman de Vries and paintings of Peter Paul Rubens, renowned as the best designer and the greatest painter, respectively, of that period. The active center of production was old picturesque Antwerp.

There is character and distinction expressed in every feature of this splendid line of Furniture. The old Flanders style and feeling have been most artistically adapted to Furniture designed for the furnishing of living rooms, libraries, dining rooms, bedrooms, halls and dens in a manner entirely in keeping with the present day comfort requirements.

WE ANNOUNCE A BEAUTIFUL EXHIBIT:

Fine Italian Pieces in Terra Cotta and Marble for House and Garden.

Exquisite old ivory tints are produced in Terra Cotta. Both artistic utility pieces and purely decorative shapes are strongly represented in Classic Busts and Figures, Jardinieres, Pedestals, Urns, Flower Jars, WindowBoxes, Plaques, and Jewel and Small Dresser Boxes. They are skilfully designed in the ornate effects characteristic of the Italian style of decoration

IMPORTED PIECES SCULPTURED IN FINE MARBLE

Garden Benches, Tables, Urns, Garden Statuary, and ideal conceptions and classic studies for the hall and sunparlor.

Classic Lamps for June Weddings

An exhibit for the guidance of those desiring authentic and truly beautiful lighting effects

The purity of the artistic designs justifies the warmest praise. Lamps must show especial merit before they are admitted to our lines. This affords our patrons the best selected models of foreign and home production.

Particular attention is invited to the quaint Italian designs in carved wood and composition, the truthful reproductions of Colonial Lamps with crystal pendants, and the better effects in Mission.

Individual tastes may be expressed in selections from varying designs in bronze, brass and verd-antique bases, mounted to order with coppered glass, silk, or decorated grass cloth shades, in the desired color tones. Second Floor.

For unique and appropriate gifts this section offers an advanced variety from simple, attractive Desk Lamps at $6.00 to practical Reading Lamps for oil, gas or electricity from $3.50 to $35.00.
